Funds for Cambodia—Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will press Congress vigorously to approve his request for $222 million in military aid for Cambodia because Cambodian officials have decided to continue their fight, White House officials said Saturday.

When a force of U.S. Marines flew in to evacuate 276 Americans, Cambodians and a few other foreign nationals Friday, it was anticipated that Cambodian government officials would leave at the same time, one administration source said.

"But they decided to stay and maintain the government and maintain the fight," he said. "When they decided to stay and fight, President Ford decided to emphasize he has not dropped the fight to have Congress appropriate extra money for Cambodian aid."

Earlier, Press Secretary Ron Nessen issued a statement which said: "The President has asked me to express his concern over some reports that his speech on Thursday night indicated that he was withdrawing or otherwise not renewing his request for urgent assistance to Cambodia.

"The President's proposal for aid to Cambodia is still before Congress ... The President still hopes that Congress will act quickly to approve assistance to Cambodia."

Congress has resisted Ford's efforts to get more military aid for Vietnam and Cambodia, and has balked already at Ford's $222 million request, made initially three months ago.

Nessen said the United States still has enough money from an earlier appropriation to supply Cambodia with food and ammunition for 10 days to two weeks.

With the Phnom Penh airport temporarily closed because of Communist troop action, the White House said that U.S. planes began dropping supplies by parachute into the city.

The government had been dropping ammunition, fuel and rice to other parts of Cambodia but stopped the airlift Friday. It was ordered resumed Saturday after a strong appeal from U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean.

Pentagon sources said Dean was apparently influenced by radio messages from Cambodian air force commanders saying they wanted to continue fighting Communist-led rebels.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told reporters the evacuation of Cambodia was "well planned and well carried out.

Mansfield, however, said the State Department is "dragging its feet" in withdrawing Americans from Saigon.

Mansfield also urged that three major South Vietnamese groups form a National Council of Reconciliation to make a new effort to negotiate with the Communists in a last bid to maintain an independent, neutralist South Vietnam.

EVACUATION COMPLETED U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean carries Cambodia embassy flag with him as he arrives Saturday in Thailand.

UTAPAO AIRBASE, Thailand (AP) — U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean, carrying the American flag that once flew over his embassy in Phnom Penh, arrived by helicopter Saturday from the besieged Cambodia capital.

His departure from Cambodia had symbolized the end of United States involvement in the 5-year Cambodian war.

Dean was accompanied by 12 officials from the embassy in Phnom Penh. Their helicopter was the first of 36 in an evacuation operation started early Saturday. The ambassador's party was among 82 U.S. citizens brought from Phnom Penh. Most of the evacuation helicopters flew first to the USS Okinawa, a helicopter carrier which had been in the Gulf of Siam for 46 days.

"Here's my sweetheart," she called out as she ran to embrace her husband.

"I'm glad to get here safely," the ambassador told U.S. officials and newsmen at planeside. "It was quite a trip."

"I'm very tired," he said when asked to talk with newsmen following his arrival. Officials said he is to hold a news conference later in Bangkok, where he was stopping before going on to Washington.

Dean was met by Lt. Gen. John J. Burns, commander of the U.S. military support groups in Thailand and American embassy officials. There is no U.S. ambassador now in Thailand.

New Cambodia leader: 'will fight on'

Chief of armed forces takes over amid turmoil

SAIGON (AP) — Cambodia's armed forces chief announced Saturday night he has taken over the leadership of the government in the midst of political turmoil left by the flight of the nation's acting president in an American evacuation airlift. Rebel forces were reported pressing in on Phnom Penh and the new leader vowed to fight them off.

At the end of a day that began with the arrival of United States Marines to escort 276 departing Americans, Cambodians and other foreigners, Gen. Sak Suthsakhan said in a radio broadcast that he was taking over the leadership, as the head of a committee of military men and civilians, with the sanction of the National Assembly, Cambodia's chief legislative body.

Earlier, Premier Long Boret said that he had asked the National Assembly to turn power over to the military for three months. At the same time he assailed Acting President Sau Kham Khoy for leaving without addressing the nation. He called this a lack of leadership.

The National Assembly voted in special session to suspend its activities for a three-month period.

Dispatches from Phnom Penh said the capital's population remained calm although fighting continued on its outskirts with the rebels reported gaining more ground as they pressed in on the city proper.

In Washington, White House spokesmen said the Phnom Penh airport had been closed because of rebel Khmer Rouge action and that the United States, which had been flying food and ammunition into the beleaguered city, now was dropping supplies by parachute.

Informed sources in Paris said France, once the colonial ruler of Indochina, had decided to recognize the exile government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, which had been fighting with the Khmer Rouge, the Cambodian Communists believed to be in over-all command of the rebel movement. However, the French Foreign Ministry said later the Paris government already had relations in fact with the Sihanouk regime, based in Peking, through its mission in the French capital.

Suthsakhan, who is the armed forces chief of staff, said the new committee he heads is made up of four military men and three politicians, including Premier Boret, and that the committee later on will elect a committee president.

He added, however, that for now he is the nation's leader.

In this nervous capital, the departure of the Americans and the closing of the U.S. Embassy in Phnom Penh drew attention for the moment at least from a key battle under way near Saigon. Strong Communist-led forces were reported keeping up their pressure on Xuon Loc, a provincial capital 40 miles east of Saigon, in a continuing battle watched here for any signs of North Vietnamese and Viet Cont intentions for the South Vietnamese capital.

Delay in new beef grading standards, says Butz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, contradicting one of his department's lawyers, said Saturday that new beef grading standards will not be implemented Monday as planned unless an injunction issued in Nebraska is overturned.

Earlier, Asst. U.S. Atty. Robert Werdig, representing the Agriculture Department, said: "We see no legal reason why they shouldn't be implemented, but the decision is up to Secretary Butz."

Butz made his statement at a news conference prior to a speech to the Nebraska Press Association in Lincoln, Neb.

Asked about the legal contradictions, he replied: "That would be up to the courts to decide."

The new standards have drawn heavy criticism from national consumer organizations. Essentially, the standards allow lowering the fat marbling required for cattle to be graded "choice," thus allowing cattle in that classification to be fed more cheaply on more grass and less grain.

Werdig had told U.S. District Court Chief Judge George L. Hart in Washington the standards would go into effect despite the temporary injunction issued late Friday in U.S. District Court in Omaha, Neb. However, he later told The Associated Press the decision on whether to implement the standards Monday was up to Butz.

In issuing a preliminary injunction to prevent Butz from implementing the regulations Monday, U.S. District Judge Robert Denney said his order applies nationwide.

However, lawyers for the American Association for Meat Purveyors in Washington said the nationwide application of Denny's ruling was not clear and they went before Hart Saturday in a separate bid for delay implementation.

Hart denied the association's motion for the temporary restraining order.

Police have suspect in slaying

A suspect has been arrested in the brutal stabbing death Monday of a 78-year-old Pomona woman in her home at 645½ N. Huntington St., police said Saturday.

Officers refused, however, to furnish any details surrounding the arrest of Gregory Thomas at 2125 Heather Way, Friday at 9:35 p.m.

Lt. R. B. Zbinden said detectives working on the case indicated no specific information was to be released "over the weekend."

Zbinden added that he assumed "any publicity would hinder the investigation." He said details may be available by Monday.

One officer indicated Thomas must have matched a description given of the man who was seen running from the scene after the woman was slain. That description was of a man in his mid 20's, 6 feet tall, with a short afro hairdo.

The victim, Tessie Fern Williams, a widow, was stabbed "numerous" times. Her clothing was in disarray and police indicated she had been raped.

Thomas was booked on suspicion of murder and forcible rape, police said.

No motive has been determined for the slaying other than the possibility it occurred during a burglary.

Driver has heart attack, dies as auto strikes child

A 62-year-old El Monte man apparently suffered a fatal heart attack before his car left the road in the Via Verde area Saturday, jumped a curb and struck a 3-year-old child riding a tricycle.

Arthur Bangs, 63, was pronounced dead on arrival at San Dimas Community Hospital after the 11:45 a.m. accident in the 1500 block of Avenida Loma Vista.

Sheriff's deputies said Bangs probably was dead before his car finally came to rest after hitting the child and a parked car in a driveway. The child, Kennan Ford, of 1534 Avenida Loma Vista, was not injured, deputies said.

Rocky could face challenge for No. 2 spot

By CARL LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several conservative Republican senators say Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller could face an all-out challenge for the No. 2 spot on the 1976 GOP ticket — even if President Ford favors him as his running mate.

And they say Rockefeller damaged his chances of a political reconciliation within GOP ranks by charging that some of the conservatives tried to "blackmail" President Ford over Rockefeller's role in the Senate's recent debate over filibusters. Rockefeller said some Senators warned Ford of recriminations because of the vice president's rulings during the filibuster controversy.

"I don't think the charge is any kind of an olive branch," Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said in an interview.

McClure, who heads a Senate conservative group, said he thinks the matter may well come up Monday night at the next of a series of harmony dinners that Rockefeller is attending at the homes of various senators.

"If the vice president is seeking to rebuild bridges, that kind of statement knocks bricks out of the bridge instead of adding bricks to it," the conservative Idaho Republican added.

McClure declined to predict with certainty that a conservative challenge to Rockefeller would develop next year, declaring "it could go either way.

"It's not impossible that such a fight would erupt."

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said, "I think there is going to be a real challenge at the convention." Helms heads a committee studying whether conservatives should form a third party or keep working within the GOP.

Rockefeller reopened the controversy with his party's conservatives by making the "blackmail" charge during a lengthy recitation of the role he played in helping ease the filibuster rule. He was speaking in New Orelans to the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

On the flight back to Washington Wednesday night, he amplified his accusation, declaring he was referring to statements by GOP conservatives that "If I didn't reverse my position, there would be recriminations."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., noted that he had met with Ford the day after Rockefeller's rulings in the filibuster battle stirred an unprecedented public outcry in the Senate. Tower said he wanted "to reflect the mood of conservative senators — which was grim."

But Tower said, "I would never suggest, nor did I suggest, that the President bludgeon the vice president."

Tower declined to speculate on the impact of Rockefeller's latest statement and Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., said, "I don't see this exacerbating any problems."

However, Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., said, "I would expect it would be resented by some people who felt it was directed at them."

He said a conservative challenge to Rockefeller was "certainly a possibility" but added, "I think about anything is a possibility."

Old system of political funding revived

By DON McLEOD

WASHINGTON (AP) — The voluntary political funds which big business and big labor raise from the ranks and then distribute to candidates are being revived as the great new hope for 1976 — now that they are legal again.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a conference here April 21 to study ways of getting business-connected money back into politics through this channel after much of it was scared away by Watergate.

A chief lure of the political action committees, known as PACs, is that they now allow businesses to do legally what some of them did under the table and got caught at in 1972.

The Republican party, which concedes readily that the day of the fat cat giver is gone, is looking to the PACs as a way of raising money from traditionally friendly areas without the expense of direct solicitation.

Democrats, who traditionaly get most of the money from similar funds raised by labor unions, are making no special effort to cultivate new PACs, but say they will take any legal money they can get.

"That's the largest single source of potential new income; the only new thing that's come along," said Rodney A. Smith, acting finance director of the Republican National Finance Committee.

PAC's aren't exactly new, but they have been outlawed for most big corporations since 1972 when Common Cause won a consent order against TRW, forcing the disbandment of its PAC fund. TRW is a conglomerate with divisions handling defense contracts.

Under the Common Cause settlement against TRW, these voluntary political action funds were outlawed for defense contractors. This hit most of the big firms in the country as well as labor unions which operated manpower training programs under government contract.

But under the combined lobbying of business and labor the ban was wiped away as part of the Federal Elections Campaign Act of 1974.

Chief criticism of the funds is they are not all that voluntary, that assembly line workers, office clerks and even big executives are pressured into giving.

Secondly, the managers of the fund, usually following corporate policy, distribute the money and give it to candidates friendly to the company's interests and not necessarily those preferred by the rank-and-file contributors.

But if the executives of a big defense contracting firm want to pool their money for maximum impact and target it on the politicians who can do them the most good in office, they can now do it legally.

Another advantage of PACs is it eliminates the gigantic expense of a national party raising the same money by individual solicitations.

Smith estimates that in developing new mail and telephone lists and soliciting contributions from individual small donors, half the take is eaten up by solicitation overhead.

While PAC funds, like individuals, may give no more than $5,000 to any candidate in a general election, they can give unlimited amounts to a political party or its House or Senate campaign committees.

The new law limits the amount any individual candidate may raise or spend, but it allows the national and state parties to supplement this up to certain limits.

The GOP is working at various techniques with some success, including a beefed-up direct mail effort, telephone banks and individual solicitations, to get money.

Smith said the pitch to the companies is bipartisan, not an appeal to form a Republican fund. "We would get our share as would the Democrats," he said.

"We haven't taken any steps in that direction itself," said Vince Clephas, spokesman for the Democratic National Committee. "But if it's legal money, we'd like to have it."

Both parties are engaged in programs of burnishing their images nationally, with some of it hopefully rubbing off on individual candidates. The Democrats will produce their fourth annual telethon in July, and Republicans plan three primetime television programs through the summer.

The parties are providing a national program of research, voter lists, voting records and the like which individual candidates may plug into at a fraction of the cost of doing this work themselves.

MISS POMONA VALLEY

Miss Carr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Carr. She is a junior at Cal Poly, studying communications.

Along with the title of Miss Pomona Valley, she won the right to compete in the Miss California Pageant at Santa Cruz in June. She also receives a $500 scholarship.

Approximately 500 persons attended the local pageant, which included 15 contestants and performances by last year's winner, Lucianne Buchanan, who went on to finish as the first runner-up in the Miss America Pageant, and the reigning Miss Pomona Valley, Linda Mattier.

The four runner-up were Robin Brooks, first; Tina Estupinian, second; Dana Farnsworth, third; and Diana Marie Bailey, fourth.

Miss Carr was formerly a Rose Parade princess, and her sister, Robin, is the reigning Rose Parade queen.

First of Cambodian orphans arrive here

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hope contrasted with the horror of war-spawned disease Saturday as 329 orphans — including the first from Cambodia — arrived here from Saigon.

One three-month-old tot didn't make it. He died of undetermined causes as the World Airways Boeing 747 approached the mainland.

Of the others, doctors ordered 32 to local hospitals with ailments ranging from malutrition to pneumonia and tuberculous. But almost all — including those classified as "well" — apparently are infested with lice, adult babysitters said.

All the orphans were under 10 years of age, with 150 so young they were transported in bassinets — makeshift cribs made of cardboard.

The plane carried 52 orphans from Cambodia, which officials said represented the first group from Vietnam's battered neighbor to arrive in America. There were 150 adults with the orphans — some of them non-military personnel who said they were evacuating themselves from Vietnam for good.

After about a four-hour stopover, 171 of the orphans took off on another jetliner for Georgia and projected adoption there.

"We've got to go," insisted a woman who grabbed an orphan out of the hands of a fire department paramedic despite his pleas the infant needed aid.

The woman, who added "we emptied a whole orphanage," then dashed aboard the Georgia-bound plane.

All of those not bound for Georgia were remaining in the Los Angeles area, except for 22 bound for Norway and six going to Honolulu. Those left who were not hospitalized went to a naval base at Long Beach for adoption processing among 400 local families eager to give them homes.

Doctors said that of the sick infants, one had measles, one tuberculous, three pnuemonia, 20 dehydration or malnutrition and one chicken pox. The other ailments weren't immediately determined. They were taken by helicopter to nine different local hospitals.

Singer-dancer Josephine Baker dies

PARIS (AP) — Josephine Baker, the American-born singer and dancer who catapulted to stardom in the Folies Bergere with a skimpy banana costume and reigned as a Paris music hall queen for 50 years, died Saturday at 68.

The long-legged daughter of a St. Louis, Mo. washerwoman, Miss Baker, popularly known here as the "Black Venus," suffered a cerebral hemorrhage Thursday just two days after opening a new revue. She died in Salpietre Hospital without regaining consciousness.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the majestic Madeleine church in the heart of Paris.

Miss Baker toured the world with her shows, returning a number of times to her native America. But she was most at home in France where she first found fame. She became a French citizen in 1937.

During the 1930's Miss Baker was the toast of international cafe society, famous for her torchy songs and spectacular costumes, which included a G-string made of bananas.

Before the opening of her Paris show at the Bobino Theater this week, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing sent her a congratulatory message expressing "the recognition of France, whose heart has so often beaten in rhythm with yours."

One of the most important and exhausting projects of Miss Baker's life was assembling a family of 12 orphans of all colors from around the world to prove that race was no barrier to communal happiness. With her second husband, orchestra leader Jo Bouillon, from whom she was separated since 1957, she bought a chateau and property in southwestern France as a home.

Her fortune was eaten up by the purchase and improvements. She returned to the stage to try to pay her debts, but could never catch up.

Man robs 7-11 store in Pomona

A man wearing a goatee and sideburns held up the 7-11 Market at Garey Avenue and Olive Street in Pomona Saturday and escaped with a small amount of cash.

Police said the man was further described as Cucasian, about 25-30 years old, 6-feet tall, wearing a waist length black leather coat and velour hat.

Pomona City Council

The Pomona City Council is scheduled to be addressed Monday by social service agency representatives concerning the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program.

Expected to speak to the council about the CETA program, under which the city has hired approximately 200 persons, will be spokesmen from a new organization called the Community Advisory Council, which is an affiliation of several social service agencies in the city.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Pomona Council Chambers.

2 motorists hurt in rear-end crash at railroad crossing

Two men were injured in a rear-end collision at the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks on Euclid Avenue in Ontario about 4 a.m. Saturday.

A police officer on patrol reported that a car driven by Robert James Kimball of 2124 S. Euclid Ave., Ontario, struck the rear of a vehicle operated by Jesus Narcario Reyes, 32, of 6186 Salem St., Chino, while he was stopped at the railroad crossing.

Kimball sustained head and facial injuries and possible internal injuries and was placed in an intensive care unit at Ontario Community Hospital.

Reyes was taken to San Antonio Community Hospital and placed in intensive care for treatment of neck and back injuries.

According to police, Reyes had stopped at the crossing where the gates were down. When the Kimball auto slammed into the rear of the Reyes car, it was pushed through the crossing gate, and southward beyond the Euclid Avenue-State Street intersection.

Police said that Reyes saw the other car in his rear-view mirror but could do nothing to avoid the accident because cars were occupying the lane next to his.

Kimball's condition is still considered serious, while that of Reyes is satisfactory.

WALKING FOR HISTORY

The Historical Society of Pomona Valley's annual Walk for History Saturday morning attracted 48 persons who tried to walk either a 13-mile or 20-mile route through nearby communities. Among the hikers were several Boy Scouts shown checking in at the Palomares Adobe. The walk was co-sponsored by the Pomona Jaycees. Proceeds will be used for the restoration of valley historical landmarks.

Bostonians get free fish handout

BOSTON (AP) — Hundreds of Bostonians using bags, boxes, buckets, cans and in one case a coat hauled in 13½ tons of free fish in 2½ hours Saturday. The fish was donated by a trawler owner disgusted with the low wholesale price of a dime a pound.

The giveaway was pollock, a species similar to haddock. The trawler docked at the Fish Pier with 27,000 pounds on Friday.

"We just can't see the worth of selling this at a dime a pound," said J. Bradley O'Hara, owner of the vessel bearing his name.

"We'd get about $2,700. That's not going to make or break us. We felt the price was an insult, so we're just giving it away to the poor people, who are very hungry, we hope."

Car flips, man hurt

A 25-year-old Pedley man was slightly injured when the car he was driving left the road, jumped a curb and turned over Saturday at the corner of Euclid Avenue and the Corona Expressway near Chino.

Highway patrolmen said Arthur Lee Jones was southbound on Euclid at a high rate of speed when the accident occured about 2 a.m.

Women executives are just like male counterparts

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The cigars may come later, but women business executives are already like the men when it comes to ability, confidence and desires for authority, status and big money, a study concludes.

"Therefore, there is no need to water down the requirements in order to fill a management position with a woman," according to Dr. Jeanne C. Peters, a senior researcher for Psychological Services of Pittsburgh (PSP).

The study compared 60 women executives from 12 major businesses in the East and Midwest with 60 men of equivalent age and positions.

"We set out to find what it takes for a woman to be successful and how much of it she brings to the job with her," said Peters.

Among the findings:

—Successful women enjoy being persuasive, and they have the mental toughness for board room politics. Yet most work in personnel, public relations or planning, away from the day-to-day operations. "This frustrates all of them."

—They have a strong need for financial independence and are unabashedly after big money and status.

—They have as much skill, stamina and confidence as their male counterparts. "Yet none of these women succeeded after direct competition with men." The boss had to be promoted before they got his job.

—Most weren't "wrapped up" with personal appearance as teen-agers. "But as middle-age women they are remarkably attractive, slim and well-groomed."

The researchers traced many of the womens' traits to their family backgrounds.

All but one was a first-born or only child; most had fathers who were executives or self-employed; and they were active in school affairs that often involved strong relationships with adults.

The average age was 39. Half were single, divorced, separated or married without children.

"Despite all of their energy, they don't seem to need to combine raising a family with pursuing a management career," said Peters. "They are not nurturing women and they do not need children."

The study recommends that companies make use of the untapped potential of skilled women.

"They are out there," the study said. "All you need to do is find them."

OLDEST TITANIC SURVIVOR

Mrs. Edwina McKenzie, 91, of Los Angeles, holds newspaper describing the sinking of the Titanic 63 years ago. She is believed to be the oldest survivor of the sea tragedy which claimed 1,600 lives. She credits her longevity to "taking things easy" and getting off the Titanic in time.

Boston confrontation

A city's dog dirt problem

BOSTON (AP) — Along with crime and traffic, city residents polled to determine campaign issues singled out another messy problem — dog droppings.

"It's no joke," said Barry Brooks, a spokesman for Mayor Kevin H. White.

Brooks said a survey was conducted to find out people's concerns, and the dog situation came up enough times in enough sections of the city to be considered a problem.

The complaint was high on the list of urban woes in six of Boston's 18 neighborhoods. All six are places where students, the elderly and young working people concentrate, where single people keep dogs for protection and companionship.

One of the people who lives on the hill is the mayor.

"He's a frequent stroller," Brooks said. "So he's personally aware of the problem because of where he lives and where he walks."

It is common to see stormy sidewalk confrontations between offending dog walkers and outraged pedestrians.

No matter what the topic on the agenda, the subject often comes up at meetings of the Beacon Hill Civic Association, and the gathering splits into the pro-dogs and the anti-dogs.

The smell, appearance and walking hazard make it an accepted — and frequent — topic of cocktail party conversation.

After receiving complaints, White ordered the Department of Public Works to do something about it.

The department came up with a variety of possible solutions, including spraying the sidewalks with dog repellant and washing them down with hoses. But finally it settled on arming city employes with brooms and pans and sending them out in search of dog dung.

However, the workers union thought that was demeaning, and it filed a grievance. The issue has not been resolved.

FBI nabs man-posing-as-woman fugitive

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Dean Michael, the broad-shouldered 200-pound fugitive car promoter who uses the alias Elizabeth Carmichael, was taken into custody Saturday.

Michael, 47, who has eluded authorities for 13 years, was arrested by FBI agents as he tried to sneak back into a home he had rented in a Miami residential neighborhood.

Authorities said Michael, dressed in women's clothing with long shoulder-length blonde hair, had apparently become suspicious earlier Friday and stayed away from the home, which agents staked out after receiving a tip from a neighbor who recognized a newspaper photograph of the fugitive.

FBI spokesman Bob Strong said Vivian Barrett, believed to be Michael's wife and five children believed to have belonged to the woman, also were found in the house.

"We caught him as he was trying to climb in a window of his home. He had apparently been hiding in the bushes and thought we had left," said Strong, said.

Michael, who was being held without bond in the Dade County jail for arraignment Monday before a U.S. Magistrate, was wanted on a 1962 charge of jumping bond in Los Angeles and on grand theft charges filed in Dallas in February, Strong said.

Expert wants to encourage graffiti vandals

Anthropologist David Khan will speak on "The Urban Mural: Turning Graffiti into Visual Art" Monday night at 7:30 at San Dimas library.

The program is the first in a series marking National Library Week Monday through next Saturday.

A resident of Long Beach, Kahn has lectured at colleges throughout the United States, Canada and England. He holds a state teaching credential in mural painting and has organized mural projects in various Southern California communities.

Kahn has brought together adult leaders and youth gangs in projects to convert scribbled and spray can vandalism of public walls into visual art expressions. Through these projects, he has provided a constructive approach to the problem of graffiti and improved communication between adults and youth.

Kahn will discuss murals as an art form and show slides of murals from across the nation.

Later this year, the Friends of the Library in conjunction with local agencies, will sponsor the creation of an outdoor mural in the City of San Dimas.

The library will host a number of activities in observation of the special week. The feature film "Kon Tiki" will be screened Wednesday at 7 p.m., and the Children's Festival hour at 3 p.m. Thursday will include films, songs and dances by the San Dimas Recreation Department.

Paintings by Glendora Adult School student, under the direction of Betty Anderson, will be displayed the entire week.

Friends of the Library will hold a book sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 19. Jay Fugitt and Mary Conant are co-coordinators of the event.

The books will include modern fiction, paperbacks, cook books, school and college texts, biographies, encyclopedias and magazines. Sale prices range from a nickel to several dollars.

This will be the fourth annual sale. All proceeds go to special library projects.

The special events are all open to the public.

Fashions, other programs scheduled at Library

A spring fashion show and program about soccer and Origami will be presented this week at the Pomona Public Library.

The fashion show will be held Thursday at 10:30 a.m. Models will show approximately a dozen outfits from Expres-Sew in Claremont. A commentator will discuss each outfit and give a demonstration by sewing a complete garment.

The soccer program will be presented Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. A speaker from the Los Angeles Aztecs Soccer team will discuss soccer in general, which is now the nation's fastest growing youth team sport, and the professional team.

Origami, the Oriental art of paper folding, will be demonstrated in a special children's program Monday at 7 p.m. Dave Streeter, of the library staff, will demonstrate how to make a variety of objects.

Other children's activities for the week are:

Tuesday — String painting crafts for preschoolers at 2 p.m. Witches' Brew stories for elementary ages at 4 p.m.

Wednesday — Magic Pond stories for preschoolers at 10 and 10:30 a.m. Magic Carpet stories for elementary ages at 4 p.m. And two films, "Abbot and Costello meet Frankenstein" and "VROOM" at 7 p.m.

LAST U.S. FLIGHT FROM PHNOM PENH

Marine helicopter gunner takes final look at Cambodian capital

Cambodia: a millenium of history down the tubes

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The fortunes of Cambodia have been waning for 750 years. The last five have been the darkest of all.

The overgrown ruins of Angkor in northwest Cambodia were once the capital of an empire that embraced most of the lower Indochina peninsula.

But in the last five years Cambodia has been embroiled in a bitter civil war. Up to 13 per cent of its population has been killed or wounded, half or more have been made homeless. Its agriculture has been ravaged, and its small urban economy is a shambles.

Th last great king of the Khmer people, who make up most of the Cambodian population, was Jayavarman VII. He died in 1219, leaving behind a sophisticated irrigation system, a 60-square-mile complex of massive temples and monuments at Angkor and a society that was losing its vigor.

First there were continual wars with the ascendant Thais who took over much of the rice-rich northwest. Then it was the aggressive Vietnamese, moving southward along the South China sea coast to the east. The Khmer empire was becoming a shadow by the time France took it over as a colony a century ago.

The French stopped the land-grab and established schools and rubber plantations, but generally considered Cambodia an annex to their Vietnam colony. There was little serious challenge to their dominance until World War II, when the Japanese preserved a facade of Vichy French sovereignty but called the shots.

In 1941 the French installed as king a 19-year-old prince from a collateral line, one who presumably would be tractable and would throw the influence of his semidivine position behind the French while still taking their orders.

His name was Norodom Sihanouk, and he proved not tractable at all.

When the Japanese declared all of Indochina independent in 1945 Sihanouk did the same for Cambodia, and afterward he worked ceaselessly to make it come true.

In November 1953 independence was granted and the 1954 Geneva accords on Indochina endorsed both independence and neutrality for Cambodia.

In 1955, Sihanouk, believing his title restricted him from wielding the power he felt necessary to restore Cambodia to its former glory, abdicated the throne in favor of his father and became a prince again.

There followed 15 years of a precarious balancing act to keep Cambodia from falling under the influence of the Vietnamese Communists but at the same time to avoid too close association with the Americans and their allies that might draw it into the war next door.

In 1965 Sihanouk broke relations with the United States claiming bombing intrusions. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were establishing supply and other bases in remote eastern Cambodia. U.S. troops participated in clandestine ground operations in Cambodia and in 1969 the United States began a secret bombing campaign that lasted more than a year.

Critics of Sihanouk claimed he was bending too far to the left, and in March 1970, while Sihanouk was visiting Moscow, his own rubberstamp legislators voted him out as head of state and a "government of national salvation" was formed.

Sihanouk flew on to Peking, where he became head of a government in exile that gradually absorbed various antigovernment factions.

Chief among these factions were the Khmer Rouge — the Cambodian Communists — who had fought a minor guerrilla war against Sihanouk in the 1950s and 1960s. The Khmer Rouge eventually became the battlefield umbrella organization that commanded the warfare against the government in Phnom Penh. Not all the rebels were regarded as Communists, but they were believed to have fought under the Communist central command.

Anti-Vietnamese fervor waxed in the early days as Cambodia plunged into war under Defense Minister Lon Nol, later to be president. Ill-trained, ill-equipped volunteers rode cheering to war in buses and PepsiCola trucks. They were soon cut to ribbons by the battlehardened North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

On April 3, 1970, the United States launched its incursion into Cambodia, which the Americans claimed was a success although it failed to find the fabled Communist Command headquarters for South Vietnam.

The United States also provided at that time the first installment of military aid that by this year totaled more than $1 billion.

In less than two years the rebels would claim control of 80 per cent of Cambodia.

The year 1971 began with more reverses. A rebel attack on Phnom Penh's Pochentong airfield destroyed three-quarters of the Khmer Republic's air force on the ground. Lon Nol, who had become premier on the resignation of Sirik Matak, suffered a crippling stroke.

In June, Sihanouk announced that Khieu Samphan, a Paris-educated economist and old antagonist of the prince who had gone underground four years before, was commander-in-chief of the "Cambodian peoples liberation armed forces."

Samphan's name began to eclipse that of Sihanouk in the rebel hierarchy.

The ancient capital of Angkor was caught up in the fighting in 1971, falling ultimately to the rebel command who ignored Phnom Penh appeals for its internationalization and neutralization.

In 1972 Lon Nol proclaimed himself president, an act later ratified by an election. With the 1972 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive in South Vietnam, the Vietnamese Communist command apparently turned its attention and its troops to the east, and the Khmer Rouge took over more and more of the fighting.

The Vietnam cease-fire agreement in January 1973 did not prevent the Khmer Rouge from taking the offensive during the winter-spring dry season. Sihanouk called the Paris accords the beginning of the third Indochina War.

U.S. B52 bombers and tactical jets based in Thailand dropped 360,000 tons of bombs between February and a congressionally ordered bombing halt Aug. 15.

But by now the insurgents were claiming 90 per cent of Cambodian territory.

In July 1973, Lon Nol signed a draft decree — 18 months on active duty for males aged 18 to 25.

Foreign Minister Long Boret, later to be premier, made public a six-point peace proposal including a cease-fire, negotiations, removal of "all foreigners" from Cambodian territory and reactivation of the 1954 International Control Commission (ICC) which Sihanouk had expelled.

Sihanouk enunicated his conditions in three points: an end to U.S. and other "hostile" military intervention, withdrawal of U.S. and pro-U.S. military personnel plus all non-Khmers "serving U.S. imperialism," and dissoluiton of the Khmer Republic.

Another rebel offensive pushed to within three miles of Phnom Penh's airport in January 1974, and there were some who believed the capital could not stand without U.S. air support, but despite heavy shellings of Phnom Penh the government made it through.

Government commanders opened corridors for refugees to flow in from Khmer Rouge territory, and Premier Long Boret claimed 350,000 crossed over before year's end.

Last June the republic's army retook the former royal capital of Oudong in heavy fighting to give the government a psychological lift. Later river convoys from the northwest rice bowl bypassed cut roads and helped supply Phnom Penh.

In July the government called for "unconditional" negotiations and dropped its requriements for a cease-fire, foreign troop withdrawals and the ICC. Sihanouk ruled out talks with "puppets" and vowed to fight on as long as the United States was in Cambodia.

Efforts by the republic army failed to secure supplies for Phnom Penh, so in October a U.S. civilian contract firm began an airlift with civilian-flown military transports operating out of Thailand.

In November, the Khmer Rouge radio announced military goals for the coming dry season: attacks around Phnom Penh and shelling of military targets near the capital, control of key roads and waterways and encircling provincial enclaves. It seemed a modest program.

But it hit the flagging Phnom Penh army where it hurt.

By the end of last January the Mekong supply route was closed, forcing the capital to depend almost totally on airlifted supplies. Khmer Rouge shellings and ground attacks hit first at isolated positions, hard to resupply.

Government forces were taking brutal casualties — reportedly 25 per cent a month — and were unable to replace them. The noose tightened around Phnom Penh once more, and the government drained the provinces of its best troops to keep it from closing.

The U.S. Congress balked at providing supplemental military aid, creating unease, although few Cambodians could believe that the United States would not finally come through.

Choked off from supplies and reeling from inflation the economy writhed.

Finally, the U.S. Embassy was closed and American citizens were evacuated.

And the iron ring squeezed closer and closer around Phnom Penh.

Barry Jr. says American lives were 'wasted'

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The son of longtime Vietnam war "hawk" Barry Goldwater says the 55,000 American lives lost in the defense of South Vietnam were wasted.

Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., said recently that the current state of affairs in South Vietnam "should be a lesson to this country not to get into that kind of conflict."

"If I had been in a position to make that kind of decision 10 years ago, we never would have gotten into that kind of war," he said.

The son of the Arizona Republican senator said there was "no question" but that most Americans "have had enough" of U.S. involvement in South Vietnam.

But if America is going to withdraw its aid from that country, it should do so in an orderly, phased manner instead of "just pulling the rug out from under them," he said.

U.S. will name destroyer for French admiral

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy announced today it will name a new destroyer for a French admiral who helped bring about American victory in the Revolutionary War siege of Yorktown.

The keel for the Comte de Grasse was laid last week in Pascagoula, Miss.

This will be the second U.S. ship to be named in honor of Adm. Francois de Grasse, who commanded the French fleet at Yorktown in 1781.

Environmentalists battle over desert (ab)use

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Offroad drivers admit they raise dust. But the people who choke the most seem to be those claiming to be environmentalists.

At the eighth running of the $100,000 Mint 400 offroad race last month, dust plumes could be seen from the high-rise casinos here, 10 to 20 miles away.

Locally, there were some complaints about the dust.

But in Berkeley and Los Angeles, the forces of conservationism have been doing more than complaining.

The Environmental Defense Fund, Sierra Club and Society for California Archaeology are suing to ban offroad vehicles (ORVs) from all desert lands in the public domain until a detailed environmental study is made by federal officials.

The class action suit is being heard in Los Angeles before U.S. District Court Judge Francis C. Whelan. Final arguments are to be submitted to Whelan in May, after which he will make a ruling.

Environmentalists say the dust and noise disturb others who use the desert for recreation. More important, they said, OVRs are "rapidly destroying vast portions of the desert."

Caught in the middle is the U.S. Bureau of Land Management (BLM), which administers much of the 14 million acres that offroaders use in Southern California and Southern Nevada.

The BLM is the defendant in the suit. It is also blamed by offroaders for already making it tougher to use public lands.

The BLM contends that limited restrictions it has imposed on the use of motorcycles and other recreational vehicles are sufficient for the present. It says it is unnecessary to ban OVRs from the entire desert until a comprehensive study is completed in 1979.

There is one point agreed upon by the organized offroaders, the conservationists and the BLM: whatever the court's decision, it probably won't affect the offroaders who don't belong to any organization and don't pay attention to the damage they may be doing.

When the dust settles on the lawsuit, this group — about 90 per cent of all offroaders — will remain a problem.

The damage from offroaders?

Environmentalists say that when dune buggies and motorcycles cross the desert, they break the crust or "mantle" of natural pavement that protects the soil from wind and water erosion.

Wildlife suffers, too—reptiles, rabbits, rodents. And creosote bushes, cactus, grasses and some unusual plants, they say.

Archaeological sites are disturbed, they say—pottery, arrowheads.

Prehistoric petroglyphs—rock paintings—are being hauled away. But both conservationists and BLM blame collectors more than recreational offroaders.

Drivers of the Mint 400 last month say they too wish to preserve the desert. But they resent the efforts of others to keep them off.

Offroad "dirt riding," exciting, challenging and peculiarly American, began climbing in popularity in the mid-1960s. Today there are 1.2 million motorcycles in Los Angeles alone and probably another million used solely offroad.

There are also in Southern California alone probably a half-million four-wheel drive vehicles and 200,000 dune buggies.

Don Arnett of North Hollywood, an ORV builder, says, "Nobody wanted the desert until we started using it."

Organized offroaders say it is a clean family sport.

"Sure, a kid may fall and break his arm on rare occasions," says one of the high priests, Mickey Thompson. "But that's better than staying in town and sticking a needle in it."

It is also big business. The Mint 400 is sponsored by Del Webb's Mint Hotel. It draws an estimated 35,000 persons who spend more than $75,000 during the four days of racing.

Arnett estimated the racers alone brought $2.75 million worth of rolling stock with them—motor homes, campers, vans, motorcycles and dune buggy racers.

In the race, drivers and codrivers of 319 cars jiggled their innards over 350 miles of desert — dry riverbeds, rock piles, sand traps and deep dips called "whoop-dee-doos."

The winner, Gene Hirst of Panorama City, Calif., said environmentalists exaggerate the damage done by ORVs.

"Sure, you uproot some bushes and you move some cactus and rocks around," he said. "It takes a few years—about four, some one told me—for it all to get back together again."

Biologists say the damage is often permanent.

DAVE DeGARRO

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — It's a tall act to follow in your father's 12-foot-high footsteps, says Dave DeGarro.

DeGarro, like his father, makes a living by striding about on seven-foot stilts at fairs, shopping center openings and auto shows.

He was at the National Orange Show here recently and spoke of the woes of a stiltman.

"I was followed all over the first day by a group of eight or nine boys who kept poking at the stilts," he recalled. "I finally had to chase them off, but it got kind of risky for a couple of minutes.

"It's also very tiring ... I'll be exhausted by the time I get home tonight. But I have a ball."

At the Orange Show he waved to kids and dropped greetings: "How's the weather down there?

"This is the first fair I've worked in quite a while," said DeGarro, unstrapping his stilts while seated atop a ladder. "My father was here last year, and he wanted to come back but he had another engagement in Florida. So I'm filling in."

DeGarro has been a stiltman for 15 years.

It was the elder DeGarro who taught Dave the delicate profession when he was a boy. He grew into the job.

"I just went up about a foot at a time as I learned to keep my balance," he said.

On a job DeGarro uses "out for an hour and then rests for an hour. That way I'm working about four hours a day.

"The stilts weigh about 12 pounds each, plus these jeans weigh almost 20 pounds. With all that weight I have to walk with a swinging motion," the eye-rolling stiltman explains. "But remember I also have to fall. You have to be on a good solid surface or you've got all sorts of problems. Plus with this wind the job is about twice as hard."

At the Orange Show DeGarro occasionally took time out to bend over and shake hands with bewildered children. Once, a small boy staring upward at the giant man in long pants asked him how he grew so tall.

"I ate all my vegetables and drank all my milk," DeGarro said, laughing.

The boy, obviously satisfied with the answer, nodded and walked away.

Offroad

last fall, an estimated 140,000 creosote bushes, 64,000 burroweed bushes and 15,000 Mojave yuccas were destroyed or severely damaged over a stretch of 100 miles, according to Roger Luckenbach, graduate student at the Museum of Vertebrate Zoology at UC Berkeley who made a study after the race.

He said in addition lizards and desert tortoises were crushed by the 3,000 speeding vehicles, and fox and rodent dens and the nests of ground-nesting birds were destroyed.

Many birds and animals were also frightened away by the racers, destroying territorial systems, said Luckenbach.

The BLM agreed with Luckenbach in a following report it filed on the race. But officials said most race participants cooperated fully by sticking to existing desert trails.

The BLM disagrees with the environmentalists' assumption that ORVs are "rapidly destroying vast portions" of the desert.

Jerry Harrell of the BLM's California office said the agency believes that ORVs hold only a "potential" for destruction.

"If we could enforce our own regulations, we could take care of the problem," he said. Environmentalists complain that the BLM can't enforce the regulations, said Harrell, agrees.

The BLM began trying to regulate offroad use of the desert in 1973 with its interim management program. It closed 7 per cent of the desert lands, put 87 per cent in a restricted category and opened 6 per cent to unrestricted use.

For practical purposes, however, offroaders can still use most of the desert. The BLM has only 27 rangers to enforce the program. They do not have the power to arrest trespassers. They can only advise them.

A total environmental survey of the desert will be completed in 1979. The interim controls were enacted because an initial study found damages "far beyond what we had expected," said BLM spokesman James R. Perry.

Despite contentions of the Sierra Club in their suit, the BLM is satisfied that the partial ban on motorcycles, dune buggies and other ORVs is sufficient until the total survey is completed, says Perry.

And Perry added, "If properly managed, recreational vehicles will not be inconsistent with preservation of the existing environment."

Conservationists deny they are trying to ban ORVs.

A Sierra Club attorney, Larry Silver of San Francisco, said their suit is aimed "at getting the BLM to perform a more sophisticated analysis of desert areas before authorizing offroad vehicle use.

"The BLM really doesn't have any inventory of archaeological, animal and plant resources that could be damaged ... pending this, the use of the desert should be much more confined."

The chairman of the Sierra Club's Desert Subcommittee, Lyle Gaston, said the BLM should be required to prepare a n environmental impact statement before opening any area to ORVs.

But while a statement would require a public hearing, a had report would not require an area to be closed, he said.

In Las Vegas, BLM District Manager John Boyles said the local Sierra Club and others protested against the Mint 400.

"On the other hand, there were social and economic redeeming factors that are necessary before a permit is granted," Boyles said.

"As long as it's a legitimate use of the resource land, fun and dandy—if the adverse effects can be mitigated so they won't have a significant impact."

Part of the mitigation was water trucks to hold down dust in selected areas, said Donald R. Arseth, director of the Air Pollution Control Division of the Clark County District Health Department.

New West End program

Juvenile counseling volunteers sought

The program offers an alternative to jail or court action.

Volunteers will work with probation officers specially trained in talking with the youths and their parents.

They will be asked to work fours hours a week. Counseling sessions normally run from three to five hours, Warren Hawkins, community resources coordinator, said.

To qualify for the program, volunteers must have bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, bachelor of sociology degrees or degrees in psychology or related fields and preferably with family counseling experience.

During its first three weeks, the family counseling and crisis intervention unit provided counseling with 70 families. Only in two cases did officers have to place youths in Juvenile Hall.

"Our objective is to work out solutions during the counseling sessions so the children can go home with their parents," said Hawkins.

At present, only seven probation officers are assigned to the program. Others will be added upon completion of specialized training.

Since the program has no volunteers now, probation officers are having to work in teams of two for the counseling.

"What we want to do is back up probation officers with the volunteers," he added. "We believe there are many qualified people in this field because of the colleges and agencies in the area."

Counseling is being offered from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. at the county's juvenile hall at 900 E. Gilbert St., San Bernardino.

But as the program develops and more probation officers receive the specialized training, it is expected to expand into the West End communities of Chino, Montclair, Ontario and Upland.

Those going to the intervention unit for counseling often are referred by probation officers, schools, welfare agencies and by families involved.

Probation officers attempt to give counseling when requested, Hawkins said. There could, however, be a temporary delay should all officers be involved in counseling other families.

Those desiring to volunteer may phone Hawkins at 383-1194 or 988-1141.

MARIAN KORANDA, MOLLY AND 15 PUPS

A prolific Rhodesian ridgeback litter

"We went to bed at night and she had five. When we got up in the morning, she had 15!" exclaimed Mrs. Marian Koranda.

Mrs. Koranda of 1400 N. Shirlmar Ave., San Dimas thus described the birth of 15 puppies to her dog Molly, a Rhodesian ridgeback.

The puppies were born early Wednesday morning at the family home. But the large litter was not anticipated by Mrs. Koranada, her two daughters or her two sons.

"She certainly believes in at home childbirth," the San Dimas woman chuckled. "And she wasn't using a fertility pill!"

In addition to the human family at the home, there is now two-year-old Molly and mate Ridge, a four-year-old Rhodesian ridgeback, and their 15 pups.

"The kids think it's great, fantastic. They can't wait until there are 15 running around. And I'm dreading it," Mrs. Koranda commented.

The litter consists of 10 males and five females of the short-haired canine. Mutliple births are standard for Molly. She had 11 puppies the first time around.

The Rhodesian ridgeback dog is used in Africa for hunting lion, Mrs. Koranda reported, "but here they're good as a family dog. They're quiet, mind their own business and don't wander."

Mrs. Koranda will sell Molly's pups after they've been weaned.

Education funds for Pacific Hospital

Legislation to insure that Pomona school district continues to receive funds for residents at Pacific State Hospital is being studied by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

"This is the tough battle. This is the money shot," said Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of personnel services in the district.

Rewording is necessary to clarify language of the bill to include residents of mental hospitals, and offer them the same adult education benefits that community residents receive.

The amendments, Rountree explained, are a validation clause which stipulates that monies already paid the district on the hospital adult education pupils need not be paid back, and a clause placing the bill on emergency status.

In September 1973, Pomona school district began enrolling in adult education courses adult residents of the hospital, a state facility for the mentally retarded, and collecting state Average Daily Attendance (ADA) funds on them under AB 749.

In February, Rountree said, the district was informed the state finance department had interpreted the bill to exclude hospital residents from educational benefits under the bill, and said the district may be asked to repay funds it had received.

However, Rountree said administrators had "righted the ship" with Sacramento for now, and the program daily attendance in the adult education is continuing.

The state allows three hours average program to equal one ADA, and pays the school district $927 per ADA.

There are 1,794 residents at Pacific State Hospital. Some 939 of them are enrolled in adult education classes this year, for a total ADA to the district of 1,388. Most are attending six hours a day.

This ADA is bringing to the district $1,750,176 this year and of this amount, 25 per cent to 30 per cent is "gain" (above cost of the program) to the district and goes into the general fund.

Hospital medical director Dr. William Clover said he is pleased with the adult education program. "We just hope to heaven it continues," he said.

The school district has placed on hospital grounds 76 teachers and 86 instructional aides to work with the adult residents.

Their program is described by administrators as one of "basic education." Of the 1,794 hospital residents, 70 per cent cannot talk and 50 per cent cannot walk. Many have physical handicaps, in addition to being mentally retarded.

Election fund income tax checkoff jumps up

P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — California taxpayers are well on their way to surpassing last year's amount of tax dollars designated to help finance the 1976 presidential election fund, according to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

All of last year, only 14.2 per cent of California's taxpayers checked on the box on the front of their 1974 form 1040 return, meaning $1,850,255 was put aside for the fund.

However, IRS predicts an increase in all states, due to a 10 per cent rise in checkoffs during the first two months of 1975 — from 14.3 per cent in 1974 to 23.3 per cent.

From Jan. 1 to March 6, Californians have designated $801,125 for the campaign fund.

The one dollar checkoff is taken from taxes owed the IRS and no additional assessment is made.

The fund will put aside about $80 million by 1976, according to IRS, with about $30 million expected from 1974 returns. About $26 million was designated last year.

The increase is due to a "heightened awareness of the tax checkoff," according to a spokeswoman for Common Cause, the citizens lobby group.

Franci Eisenberg of Common Cause said the reason is two-fold — increased familiarity with the checkoff (now in its third year) and more public awareness of the need to finance elections in the wake of Watergate.

She also said this is one way people can become part of the election process.

Taxpayers checked-off only about $4 million in 1972 — the first year of the checkoff.

The fund will help finance presidential candidates in both the primaries and general elections in 1976. Candidates in the primaries must raise a substantial number of small donations before qualifying for checkoff funds.

Last contract let

State water project is near completion here

The Metropolitan Water District has announced the award of a $8,625,106 contract to the J. F. Shea Co. of Walnut for construction of the last part of the Yorba Linda feeder line, bringing northern California water to the Robert B. Diemer filtration plant at Yorba Linda.

Completion of the nearly four miles of prestressed concrete pipeline, eight feet in diameter, will allow the district for the first time to blend water from the Colorado River and the northern water from the State Water Project at the Diemer plant.

Seven bids were received for the project hanging from the low bid of Shea Co. to a high of $9,437,926.

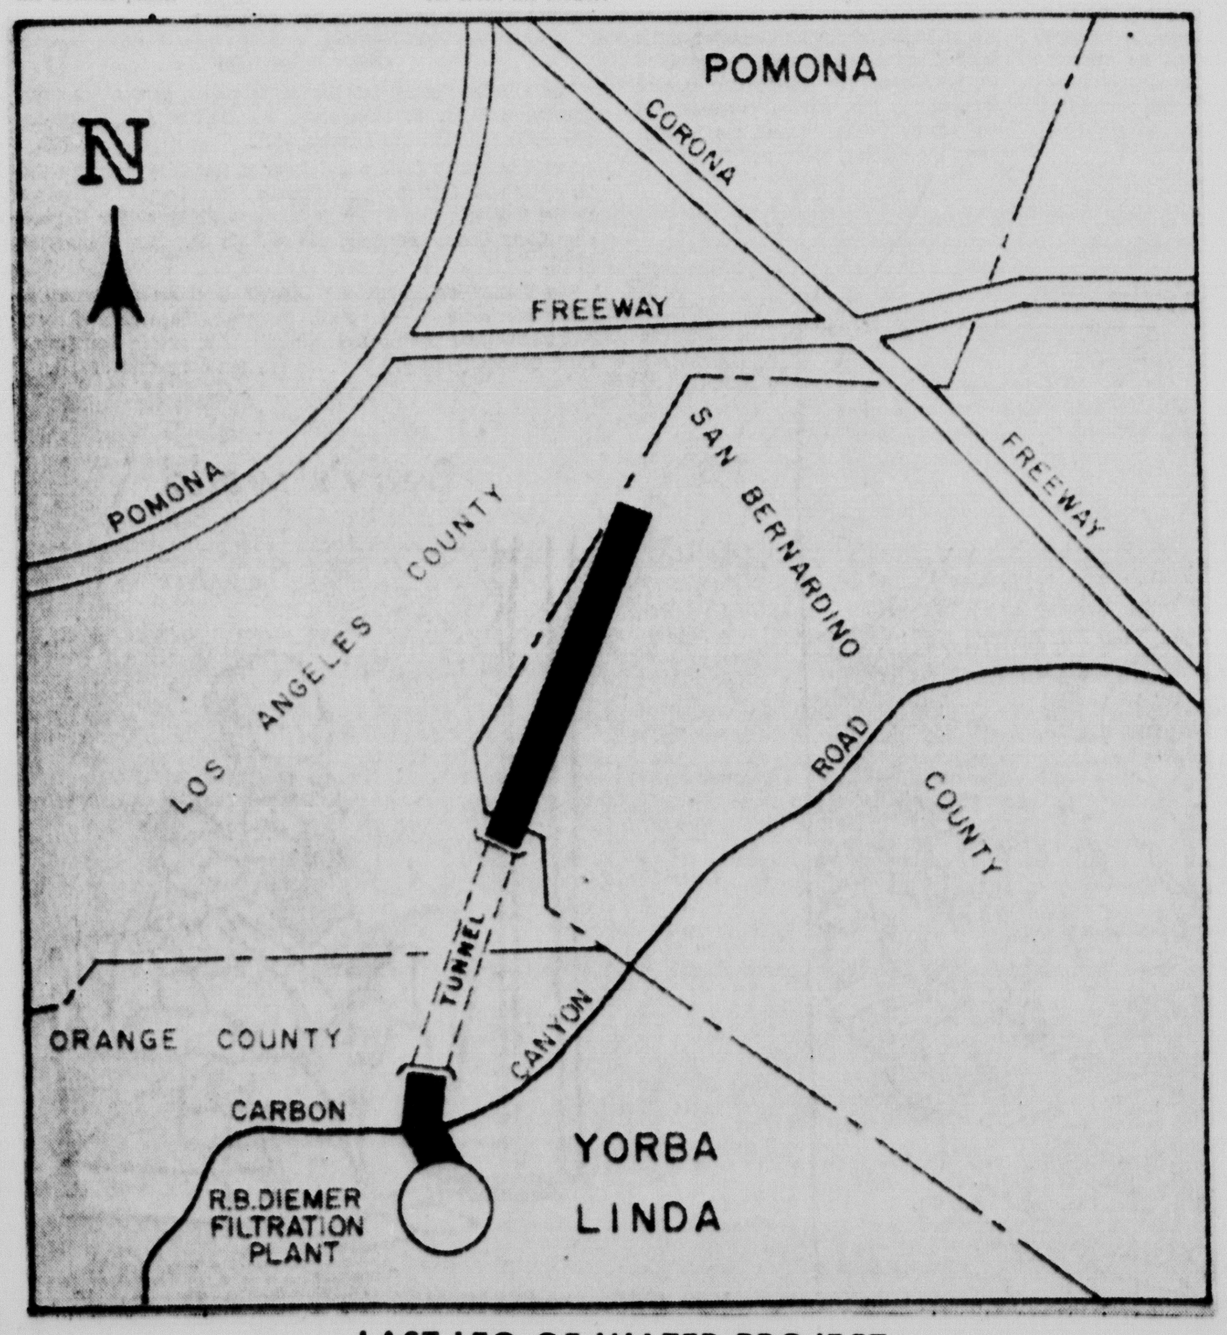
The work involves construction of a pipe-lined tunnel, 1,450 feet long, under the Diemer plant and a 230-foot-deep shaft from the tunnel up to the plant. A control structure will also be built at the plant to regulate the inflow of water from the feeder.

The entire Yorba Linda feeder will connect with the district's forthcoming supply of water from Northern California received via the East Branch of the State project and the district's Rialto pipeline. Now nearly complete, the Rialto line will convey water from the State's East Branch in Devil Canyon near San Bernardino to the La Verne area of Los Angeles County.

Blended water from the Diemer plant will flow to district member agencies serving large areas of Orange County and southern Los Angeles County.



LAST LEG OF WATER PROJECT

Medieval Judaism is topic

Rabbi Sanford Ragins of Leo Baeck Temple in Los Angeles will speak on medieval Judaism at La Verne College at 11 a.m. Monday and will lead a discussion on the Jewish understanding of man at 1 p.m.

Rabbi Ragins' morning appearance will be before the world religions class in Room 217 of Founders Hall. He will speak in the afternoon in La Fetra Hall to the "quest for values" class.

Ordained in 1962, Rabbi Ragins lectures on college campuses under the auspices of the Chautauqua Society, a Jewish educational organization sponsored by the National Federation of Temple Brotherhoods.

RABBI SANFORD RAGINS

Alternative school

Two leaders in Pasadena's alternative education programs will speak at a public forum sponsored by Pomona Unified School District April 23.

Speakers will be Henry S. Myers Jr., vice president of Pasadena school board, who was among community leaders instrumental in founding John Marshall Fundamental School, and Paul S. Finot, principal of Pasadena's Washington Center, which houses an evening high school, as well as several daytime alternative programs.

Teachers, parents, students, and other interested members of the community will have an opportunity to question the speakers following brief descriptions of the schools they represent.

Arrangements for the forum were made by a group organized by the District Curriculum Council to study programs different from those now used in Pomona.

Viet vets recruited for school district jobs

School districts in San Bernardino County are seeking Vietnam era veterans to fill temporary job slots funded by the federal government.

Employment will start this week with the jobs lasting through June 31. These will be primarily in the custodial and maintenance fields but with school boards having the discretion of tailoring jobs to meet applicants' capabilities.

Those hired will receive $2.79 per hour and will work from 20 to 30 hours per week.

County officials said they have received $166,000 through the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), which will provide from 120 to 200 job slots. There is an estimated 4,500 unemployed Vietnam era veterans now residing in the county.

The county schools office was given the task of developing programs to make the CETA funds rapidly available to school boards.

Local school boards, in turn, will do the actual hiring. They will give job preference to disabled veterans.

West End school districts and the number of job slots assigned include:

Chaffey Union High School District, 10; Chinoa Unified School District, eight; Upland Elementary School District, nine; Alta Loma and Central elementary school districts, two each; and Cucamonga, Guasti and Mountain View school districts, one each.

Officials at the Ontario-Montclair School District were still discussing with county officials the number of job slots to be offered.

Veterans may file their applications with their local school district's personnel office. Those applying must be unemployed.

Income Tax, disabled vets deadline

Vets' exemptions

Tuesday is filing deadline for blind or disabled veterans' property tax exemption applications.

Totally disabled veterans not previously eligible for exemptions may not qualify under the changes in the law brought about by Proposition 8 in the 1974 general election.

The law grants an exemption of $10,000 of the assessed valuation of a veteran's home or an unmarried surviving spouse when:

—Because of injury incurred in wartime militiary service.

—The veteran receives 100 per cent disability compensation because of individual unemployability.

The $10,000 exemption is in lieu of the $1,000 veterans exemption or the $1,750 homeowner exemption.

1040s due

Taxpayers were warned by the post office that unless they place enough stamps on their envelopes, their income tax returns will not be delivered to the Department of Internal Revenue or State Franchise Tax Board.

They also were admonished that in Pomona the last collections are at 5 p.m. except for one box at the main postoffice marked "Pomona Postmark Only" where mail will be collected at 6 p.m.

The 1974 income taxes are due April 15. Anyone who fails to obtain a datemark of midnight or earlier before Tuesday midnight is subject to penalties.

Pomona Postmaster Warren Lynch said any mail without sufficient postage will be returned to the sender, providing there is a return address. Envelopes without enough stamps and without return addresses will be sent to the dead letter office.

Opinion

Erin goes forward

While Northern Ireland continues to tear itself apart in political and religious turmoil, the Republic of Ireland has made impressive, yet little-reported, strides in improving the lives of its people.

Ireland has largely been underdeveloped because it was believed to have few natural resources. Last year, however, a U.S. oil company made a major offshore natural gas strike near Cork estimated at more than 1 trillion cubic feet, enough to supply the country's electrical needs for 20 years. Two oil strikes were also made last year, and 60 international companies are actively drilling offshore. Economists are hoping that Ireland will eventually become self-sufficient in energy and emerge as a net exporter of oil.

Even before these discoveries, says Industry Week magazine, the 15-year-old Irish Industrial Development Authority had aided over 800 Irish and foreign firms, helping to triple Ireland's gross national product and making its manufacturing growth rate of the highest in Europe.

New companies from the United States, Canada, Europe, Japan and Australia are setting up operations in Ireland at the rate of one a week. Total investment by outside countries last year was $700 million, and it has doubled in each of the past four years.

Stimulated by a change in the tax laws, Ireland has also become a leader in lead, zinc, silver and copper mining in Europe.

Although all of this may distress romanticists, especially Irish-descended romanticists, who extoll the pastoral beauties of the Emerald Isle, the fact is that for the first time in a century the tide of emigration from Ireland has been stemmed.

Until two years ago, most college graduates left the country. Today they are finding work in a host of new high-technology industries in Ireland — pharmaceuticals, computers, electronics, optics and chemicals.

Even so, Ireland has much catching up to do. Its standard of living remains the lowest in the European Community, and only Spain's is lower in all of Western Europe.

Fie on food fads

Alarmed at the spread of food faddism among Americans, the American Dietetic Association recently issued a strongly worded "position paper" warning the public that certain diets and food fads can be dangerous to health at worst and a waste of money at best.

"Members of the ADA," says the paper, "are concerned with the increasing amount of misinformation on food and nutrition in the United States with its resultant economic and nutritional exploitation of the American people. The dietetic profession is committed to informing consumers about ill-advised diets and the misleading tactics of self-proclaimed nutrition experts."

Included in the list of potential health hazards are low-carbohydrate, unlimited-protein diets (such as the meat and water diet), the Zen Macrobiotic diet and self-prescription of massive vitamin doses.

The ADA also took a shot at the organic food movement, flatly labeling as false such claims as that organic fertilizers produce foods of superior nutritional value, that foods are poisoned with chemical additives and pesticides, that specific foods have miraculous curative powers and that daily vitamin, mineral and dietary supplements are necessary because current food supplies are nutritionally deficient.

Nearly all edible foods, says the ADA, may be classified as natural and health foods because they contribute nutrients to the diet and promote health when properly combined.

Kissinger's trip

High on the administration agenda is a trip by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to South America. The problems of detente and shuttle diplomacy have left things a bit untended and unsettled between this country and its neighbors south of the border.

A big headache for U.S. and Latin officials is the immense security problem stemming from Kissinger's visit. Kissinger isn't said to be looking forward to hostile demonstrations which wouldn't help relations either.

It would be a breath of fresh air, though, if the durable Kissinger was able to put Latin-U.S. policy in tune. It probably is too much to hope, but then the Ford administration has been sending out signals of changes in policy that would be welcome in most areas in Latin America.

Study repressed on prosecutor abuses

WASHINGTON — The power to prosecute, which above all other government processes should be free of politics, has been abused by a succession of attorneys general.

The disturbing habit of putting political expediency ahead of legal impartiality, moreover, has become more pronounced in the past 35 years.

These are the findings of a House Judiciary Committee study, which has traced the history of the Justice Department back to the beginning. Indeed, the findings are so embarrasing that the study has now been suppressed.

However, we have obtained a bootleg copy which was already in page proofs before Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D.-N.H., ordered it withheld. A spokesman for Rodino said the study was "only a beginning . . . a lot more had to be done. The subject matter has broadened," he said, "but the inquiry will continue."

The suppressed study declares bluntly that the Justice Department "has been vulnerable to political abuse and manipulation." Here are some of the worst abuses:

—There is an "absence of guidelines and monitoring procedures regulating . . . political officials, starting at the top with the President," who seek "to influence Department of Justice decision-making."

—The Justice Department lacks "safeguards to prevent its intelligence-gathering activities from being manipulated to serve political purposes."

—The department "must prosecute violations of law," yet at the same time serve "an Administration sensitive to the political consequences of a vigorous prosecution."

—Regulations are lacking "to prevent high Justice Department officials from using their offices as bases for political activity."

—Congress has also failed to perform "effective oversight . . . (of) improper political pressures applied to the department."

Ironically, the study was supposed to be a starting point for just such an oversight investigation. House Judiciary staff members, General Accounting Office investigators and Library of Congress research specialists were assigned to the project.

They have completed at least two reports. One is entitled "Politics and the Administration of Justice." The other analyzes what's wrong with the Justice Department's antitrust division. The research has already cost the taxpayers an estimated $50,000.

Yet the publication of both reports has been blocked. By publishing the highlights, we may now be able to force them into the open.

As early as President Andrew Jackson's administraiton, the first report notes, the attorney general was subjected to White House pressure. Seeking legal justification for depositing government funds in certain banks, Jackson told his attorney general bluntly: "Sir, you must find a law authorizing the act, or I will appoint an attorney general who will."

"Nevertheless," declares the study, "the most eminent of the early attorneys general conceived of themselves foremost as law officers, with legal duties that were not compromised by nonjudicial considerations."

This noble concept changed when the Justice Department was organized in 1870. For the previous 100 years, the attorney general had only a small staff.

After 1870, "many attorneys general appeared to take a different view of their obligations. (They) appeared to see their utlimate responsibility as being of service to the political needs of the White House."

Presidents also began to choose attorneys general "who were more distinguished for their past involvements in politics than for their eminence in the legal profession."

Of the 40 attorneys general who have served since 1870, the report identified only seven who could be "classified as men of solely or almost solely legal experience or distinction."

The department has become more politicized since 1940. During the past 35 years, the study found that "11 of the 14 men who served as attorney general served either as managers, advisers, aides or campaign surrogates prior to becoming the nation's chief law enforcement officer."

Worse, many of them "allowed political considerations to shape their decisions," charges the report. "The casualties have been those who were prosecuted on nonlegal grounds."

Citing the Watergate investigation, the study warns that such probes, "whether involving violation of campaign laws or wrongdoing by persons of the executive branch, are vulnerable to compromising pressures if left to the direction of Justice Department attorneys who serve at the President's pleasure."

Yet the appointment of special prosecutors hasn't assured impartial prosecution. Prior to Watergate, special prosecutors were appointed "to investigate allegations of malfeasance against the executive branch" in three instances — the Whiskey Ring, Teapot Dome and the Truman tax scandals.

Just as President Nixon fired his first special prosecutor, Presidents Grant and Truman "fired their special prosecutors when the direction and nature of the investigation proved politically embarrassing. . . . In the eyes of the presidents who appointed them, the special prosecutors continued to act under presidential supervision."

Despite the obvious need for independent investigations of executive misdeeds, past scandals completely "failed to bring about the enactment of laws" divorcing the special prosecutors from the executives they were supposed to prosecute.

When the lid blew off Watergate, therefore, "an implicated executive branch retained the responsibility to investigate and prosecute any wrongdoing that might have been perpetrated."

"It is ironic," concludes the report, "that the integrity of the agency charged with enforcing the law, the Department of Justice, continues to be vulnerable to the very forms of political pressure that have weakened it in the past."

By refusing to publish the study, the House Judiciary Committee offers little hope that the abuses will be prevented in the future. The public can restore integrity to the judicial processes, of course, by voting against the lawmakers who obstruct reforms.

Just in jest

Women in government have been making some dramatic forward steps recently in their eternal battle to demonstrate they are men's equals. And among their more noteworthy achievements, I call your attention to the fact that at least one female in Congress and another employed at the White House are now smoking pipes. But perhaps the most outstanding equal rights victory was recently achieved by women members of the House of Representatives when they gained the right to use the House swimming pool right along with the men. —however, despite all that evidence of their ability to keep right up with the male politicians, our women have still a long way to go before they can claim undisputed equality. For instance, name me one woman in government who is being prosecuted for Watergate dirty tricks activities.

If you think that money is the answer to most of our earthly ills, consider the plight of women in oil-rich Saudi Arabia. They may have the cash to buy and sell almost any other women throughout the world but when it comes to women's liberation they're still living in abject male servitude. And just to show you how underprivileged those Saudi Arabian poor little rich girls are, it would be more than her life was worth for any one of them to say: "I'm Fatima, fly me," or to even faintly suggest, "We move our tails for you," for, as you have probably guessed by now, Saudi Arabian women are not allowed to become airline stewardesses. —However, even though money can't buy everything, there is still some hope for Saudi Arabian females. Recently they made at least one giant step forward along the road to equality with Saudi Arabian males. They are now allowed to become radio announcers.

ANN LANDERS

Atheist sends a list of prominent Americans who were nonbelievers

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to the 16-year-old girl who said she was an atheist was the dumbest answer I've ever seen in your column. Why do you think a 16-year-old too young to make such a decision?

I'm 61, not 16, and I've been an atheist for many years. The atheists I know are a thousand times more intelligent, honest and compassionate than the religious hypocrites I keep running into.

To name just a few magnificent atheists: Clarence Darrow, Mme. Marie Curie, Thomas Edison, Albert Einstein, George Bernard Shaw, Margaret Sanger, Thomas Paine, and Thomas Jefferson.

Only recently a Seventh Day Adventist minister said it pained him to admit it but he found atheists and agnostics much less vengeful than super-religious folks.

Where have you been? I can only assume you are poorly read. — C. B. M. of Torrance, California

Dear C: Let's assume I AM poorly read. What has that to do with it? Some of the great readers of the world believe in God.

My faith is rooted not only in my early upbringing but in my later exploration of life, the miracle of birth, and the wonders of nature. I cannot believe man did all this himself.

I agree that "super-religious" people can be plenty phony. But please don't try to prove your case by trotting out a stellar list of brilliant atheists. My list would be longer than yours.

And, incidentally, YOU should do a little more reading. Albert Einstein was not associated with any orthodox sect but was a deeply spiritual person. He once said, "God may be sophisticated but He is not malicious."

In Jefferson's most famous writing, The Declaration of Independence, God gets an excellent notice in the very first sentence. In his old age Jefferson wrote, "To love God with all thy heart and thy neighbor as thyself is the sum of religion."

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet this problem has never appeared in your column before, at least not in the eight years I've been reading it. It's a problem I have and so do three of my friends. (We're all girls.)

In physical education class we are expected to do tumbling exercises and other stunts. Some of us are just not physically able to do things like climb a rope and touch the ceiling. Certain tumbling tricks are beyond our ability.

We are all getting C grades. We realize it's not a crime to get a C but we don't think it's fair to be graded on something that is physically impossible to do. What do you think? — Rockford, Ohio

Dear Rock: I think I see myself back in high school. As one klutz to another, I empathize with you. If you girls are trying your darndest, your preservance, earnestness and hard work should be reflected in your grades.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 19 years old and in a panic. I've just learned from an unimpeachable source that the fellow I've been going with for two years has been sneaking around behind my back with my 17-year-old sister.

Should I confront him, her, or both of them together? Need I say I'm — Heartsick

Dear H.: "Unimpeachable"? Are you sure? If so, wish her luck and cut him dead.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers's completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. For a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (20 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

DR. FRANK MILLER

'Charger' the turtle takes a 6-month nap

DEAR DR. MILLER: Charger, my turtle, is having trouble making up his mind. He can't decide whether to wake up or to go back into hibernation. He started to wake up about a month ago and then didn't. Mother though he might be dead but I know he isn't because I poke him quite a bit and he'll move a leg. I put him in a warm room, and even in the sunshine but he still sleeps, sort of. He certainly makes a dumb pet this way.He hasn't opened an eye and looked around since last Halloween. And I didn't scare him then, either. —S. McA.

DEAR S. McA.: Charger must have been in pretty good shape last fall to have survived so long a period of semi-hibernation when he's burning calories but not consuming any. At this point he badly needs plenty of help, preferably professional, to survive. Being poked periodically can be a bit traumatic for a turtle. Being baked by the sun can quickly prove fatal. Having survived these, he's still suffering, perhaps fatally, from malnutrition and its complications — so get Charger checked quickly.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Jiggers, our dog, is a healthy four-year-old but he has lived in an area where there were plenty of heartworms. Is it possible he could carry heartworms without showing any signs? How long do heartworms live? Do other animal's besides dogs ever get them?—C.F.

DEAR C.F.: Yes, many canines carry heartworms without showing signs of heart or lung damage. The adult parasite may live for five years within the body. Dirofilaria immitis (the heartworm) is most common in the dog, but is also found in other related species including fox, coyote and wolf. Other occasional victims include the muskrat and cat, and, on occasion, humans.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Is it dangerous to clip the nails on young kittens? Our kits' are very sharp.—S.C.

DEAR S.C.: Kittens (puppies, too) do tend to have extra sharp nails. While trimming them won't puncture-proof the owner, it helps. It's also a good time to get the youngsters used to having their feet handled. In fact, gently trimming the nails several times while they're young will teach the pet acceptance of the technique, making pet pedicures in the adult animal considerably simpler and safer for all concerned. Only the very tiny needle-sharp points need to be removed, ensuring that the "pedicuree" will not be hurt, thereby less likely to become resentful of the process in the future.

ERMA BOMBECK

Cadence of son's drums too much

I've told you before about my son who marches to a different drummer.

Well, between the drummer and the drumee, I'm going to goose step my way into an institution.

I have been driven literally crazy by a child who is flakier than acute dandruff. Dumb things. Like playing "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" on the push button phone, adding $34 to the bill. Crawling out of the Grand Canyon and saying, "I have to go back. I left my billfold at the bottom." Leaving his cat to guard his bicycle.

Then one day you say firmly, "From here on in, you learn to live with your own stupidity and your own forgetfulness. Grow up!"

It was 3 a.m. last night when I got the call from him that he had returned from a skiing trip and was in a dark parking lot phone booth on the south side of town alone. "Where's my car you said you'd leave for me?" he asked.

"In the garage. We couldn't move it when you took the car keys with you."

"Right. So can you come and get me?"

3:05. Suppose that was his last dime and there's a car at the curb with a gang of hoods in it armed with chains who won't believe that a kid with all that skiing equipment wouldn't have any money on him and punish him for it.

3:10. Suppose the police see him in a phone booth late at night with a big red S on his shirt for Snow and say, "We've got another Superman loonie on our hands, Walt. Let's run him in." And he spends the night in a cell full of perverts.

3:15. I've got it. The cab driver picks him up but is weird and, not really licensed by the cab company but is filling in for the driver he has just done in.

3:30. Wake husband and show him the baby book. "Remember? It seems like just last week when he used to sit up in his little bed and say, 'Mama, more milk.'" "That WAS last week," he snarled. "Go to sleep!"

3:40. The air is fresh tonight. People should spend more time pacing their driveway. "HERE HE COMES!"

"Don't you see?" I explained as he fell into bed, "I had to be cruel to punish you to teach you a lesson. It's time you accepted the responsibility for your own actions. Do you see that?"

As he snored I marvelled at how he could sleep. Those lousy drums he was marching to kept me awake the rest of the night.

LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Everyone has uric acid in system

DEAR DR. LAMB — What causes uric acid in one's system? Also, is it painful to have and is there a cure for it? Will a person always have it?

DEAR READER — We all have uric acid. It is a normal byproduct of the constant replacement of cells in your body. The important gene substances of DNA and RNA involved in regeneration may produce it in the process.

We all have constant regeneration. There are three-million new red blood cells formed every second. The lining of the small intestine is replaced every three days.

The cell formation of uric acid is the most important source of elevated uric acid. It is closely related to protein metabolism. The substance has no apparent value in the body and the excess amount is normally eliminated in the urine. That is how it gets its name.

It is not painful or harmful as long as it stays in solution. Unfortunately, it forms salts that can form crystals. These lead to painful, swollen joints as seen in gout or can form deposits leading to gouty arthritis. The small amounts of uric acid we consider normal don't do this.

Some people have a tendency to form more uric acid than others. This may lead to gout, but it may not in other people.

The most effective way to lower the uric acid level to normal ranges and prevent problems seems to be with agents that prevent its formation in the cells, a fairly recent medical development, and agents that increase its elimination from the kidneys. Other medicines act directly to relieve the painful gout attacks.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What, if any, are the symptoms of glaucoma? Is it more prevalent in men or women, or any particular age group?

DEAR READER — Glaucoma is a steady increase in pressure inside the eyeball. As the pressure builds up it destroys the seeing ability of the eye and causes blindness.

Glaucoma can be a sudden development. The eyeball may be painful, and there may be a sudden dimming of vision.

More often it is an insidious disease. The pressure builds up slowly and the person is unaware that anything is wrong. There may be some colored rings around bright objects, or the vision may begin to fail, first with decreased ability to see objects at the side. The vision may remain good when looking straight ahead for some time.

Quite often the first sign of the disease is found by a routine eye examination that measures the pressure within the eyes. The earlier it is detected the more likely the doctor can do something about it. Since nearly half of the adult blindness in the United States and Canada is caused by glaucoma, it is very important to have an annual check for early detection. This applied particularly to those over 30 years of age. Women after middle-age are most frequently affected.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Losing weight" booklet.

Conflict in education

Liberal arts grads facing jobless future

NEW YORK (AP) — The bleak employment prospects for this year's liberal arts graduates points up, in the view of some authorities, a basic conflict in the American concept of education.

The conflict is mainly between educators and employers, but it is the graduate who suffers. Educators tend to stress the value of a broad education; employers seem to prefer the more practically educated youngster.

As a consequence, reliable estimates place at 1 million the number of broadly educated liberal arts graduates by 1980-1981, nearly triple the number of 1960, while another study shows a shrinking market for their skills.

The College Placement Council, for example, found that liberal arts hiring decreased over the past five years, with three-fourths of employer respondents to a study saying they'll hire less than 10 per cent of openings from liberal arts ranks.

While aggravated by the recession, the problem is also part of a long-term trend to fewer sources of employment in such traditional areas as teaching and social services.

This forces the CPC, a nonprofit organization whose membership includes college placement officers and employers alike, to conclude that if basic improvements are to be achieved, it is essential to develop an adequate corps of specialists in career counseling and placement.

Essential — but apparently unlikely for the time being.

"Relatively little money is available to implement work in career counseling and placement in four-year colleges," says Robert Herrick, CPC executive director and a veteran observer of job trends.

"Right at the time when these youngsters need all the help they can get in four-year colleges, the colleges have less and less money available, and they get none from the federal government," he laments.

Almost the entire federal emphasis on career education is at the high school and junior college level, he argues, leaving the financially pressed four-year schools without the ability to advise their students.

While that dilemma remains to be resolved, the CPC believes other changes might be equally urgent. For one thing, Herrick believes students must be provided an expanded choice of courses in the form of minors and electives.

And it is important also, he insists, that programs be developed to provide internships, part-time work and summer jobs, all of which, of course, provides students with a realistic view of the world in which they must earn a living.

Another CPC suggestion in the same vein is for employers to lend support to "experimental work programs" so that students learn to apply their academic training to career realities.

Some of these suggestions, in one form or another, have been made before, but now the CPC believes a special effort must be made.

"The time is right for a national re-examination of education and careers," said Herrick. "I have a feeling that people at this time are beginning to appreciate some of the problems to a degree they haven't for many years."

The CPC has scheduled a national meeting May 27-30 in Washington, D.C., to seek ways to achieve a better matching of education and career opportunities.

Grocer's loss becomes Ma Bell's gain

Sad news, this, for parents of growing youngsters. Studies now show the average couple does indeed spend considerably less on the grocery bill when the offspring leave home. But that saving is promptly offset by a sizable boost in the telephone bills. No, that's not such sad news, after all.

CHANCES ARE considerably greater that an old man in Russia will live to be considerably older than an old man in some other country. Hold on, am not talking about life expectancy from birth. That's none too spectacular in Russia. But once that Russian fellow passes age 65, he hangs on better. Much better.

ROBBERY

Q. "How many robbery victims get hurt? How many die?"

A. Injured, one out of 10. Killed, one out of 100.

IT WAS IN KENTUCKY where a woman sued a neighbor lady for $75 minus $45. The $75, she said, was for damages she suffered as the target of abusive language. The $45, she allowed, was a credit for what she yelled back.

GIFT

Yes, the query came in again this year. Every season, some young single lady inquires, "What can I give to the man who has everything?" And every season I reply, "Encouragement, my dear." Let us not break this tradition.

THE COMMON COLD, flu, pneumonia, those dangerous wheezy ailments most unpoetically referred to as respiratory diseases, they do their worst work when the air is dry, not damp. A Dutch researcher named J. H. Hemmes found that out. And a University of Chicago scientist named Dr. Clayton G. Loosli confirmed it. So why have so many physicians for so many years dispatched their lung patients to Arizona? Just to get rid of them, it would seem.

EDITOR'S NOTE — A dozen chimpanzees across the country are learning sign language and talking with man. But is it really language? Can apes acquire all the complex of learning and culture that is part of human language?

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Dr. Doolittle did it. And now, to some degree, so are mere mortals. They're talking to the animals — chimpanzees, that is — and the chimps are talking back.

Sample: Washoe is an 11-year-old female chimp raised by scientists who taught her American Sign Language, the gestural language of the deaf.

Not much from a grammarian's point of view. On the other hand, not bad for a chimp. And Fouts knew exactly what she was saying.

She was asking him to take her out of the cage and to drive to the nearby Seven-Eleven and buy her a coke, something he had done before. He rewarded the request by piling her into his Volkswagen camper and starting off. As they approached, Washoe became very excited and began signing: "Hurry, hurry."

Washoe, while a very special chimp, is not all that special. There are more than a dozen others communicating with man — in Oklahoma, California, Georgia, Nevada and even one in New York City.

Most are taught American Sign Language, also called Auselam, but the one in Atlanta communicates through a computer and in California, the chimps are taught to communicate through plastic symbols and a visual symbol generator.

It's an age-old dream, talking with higher animals. It's also a controversial subject, threatening the concept that man was unique because he had language.

The rocky question is just what is langage and when does communication become language. Linguists and anthropologists are divided on the subject. Lately, those who believe that chimps can learn to talk with man have been making a major effort to prove their point.

Washoe, perhaps the most famous of the chimps in various projects across the country, attained a vocabulary of some 165 words, according to Fouts. He says she has strung as many as seven or nine words together to make a sentence of her own invention. More importantly, she has demonstrated that she understands the concepts she forms with her hands. For instance, when she saw a duck for the first time, she labeled it "water bird."

Another chimp called Lucy, raised in a home in Oklahoma and still a member of the family, tasted a watermelon for the first time and spontaneously dubbed it "candy drink and "fruit drink." And then she tasted a hot, spicy radish. She spat it out instantly.

With tears in her eyes and pain in her mouth, she signed that it was a "hurt-cry-food."

Lucy also was given a pet cat. They climbed trees together and played together — not always when Lucy Cat wanted to. But Lucy Cat had little choice.

Lucy decided her pet should learn to sign. She tried desperately to teach it sign language, but eventually gave up. The kitten just wasn't up to sign language.

Toilet training? Perhaps Lucy could do better. She is trained to use the bathroom. One day, she caught Lucy Cat appropriately using the kitty litter box. Lucy promptly swept her up and rushed her to the bathroom — much to the kitten's distress.

Washoe, raised by Drs. Allen and Beatrice Gardner in Nevada, is now at the institute for Primate Studies, a run-down looking farm just outside Norman.

She and the other chimps — there are seven signing chimps in this compound and about 20 nonsigners — have demonstrated they can generalize. The word "open," for instance, is routinely applied to different doors and strange boxes.

The new wave of research began in the mid-1960s, although the dream of communicating with a different species was certainly not a new one. In 1651, Samuel Pepys went down to a dock in London to observe the strange animal an African sea captain had brought back. Pepys observed that it was so human looking that it might have been begotten by man out of a she-orangutan. He also wrote in his diary that he bet it could be taught the language of the deaf.

In this century, various attempts were made to reach a chimp to talk, Winthrop and Luella Kellogg raised a chimp named Gua in the 1930s, with their infant son. She could understand about 100 words at the age of 16 months, but she never tried to talk.

In the '40s, Keith and Cathy Hayes worked six long years with a chimp named Vicki and managed only to get her to say four words. And those practically had to beaten out of her with various physical pressures to force the vocal cords to do what nature had never intended them to do.

The dismal outcome of that project was widely regarded as proof that chimps could not be taught to talk. The Gardners, however, became intrigued by the natural use of gestures deomonstrated by the chimps. Why not try with ASL?

The Gardners, both psychologists at the University of Nevada at Reno, immersed Washoe in sign language. She never heard spoken English. The Gardners and the graduate students involved in the program communicated with each other in the gestural language. Fouts was then one of the graduate students.

New games and new toys were constantly introduced to the chimp and soon she began signing and then combining signs. She even signed to herself when she was alone, much as young children talk to themselves.

"We gave her an interesting life so she would have interesting things to talk about. One of my friends remarked that it was like we put a 100 I.Q. being in a 200 I.Q. environment," says Gardner.

At about the same time, Dr. David Premack was teaching a chimp named Sarah to communicate through differently colored, variously shaped pieces of plastic at the University of California in Santa Barbara.

Each piece of plastic represented a word. He now has three more chimps — Peony,

Or are they about ready to talk back to us?

Elizabeth and Walnut — and is teaching them on a visual symbol generator, a sort of keyboard word machine. Each key represents a word, or a concept.

Premack's main concern is with the cognitive ability of the chips and the larger question of intelligence. He believes he has seen strong evidence of concept of casuality in the chimps.

"Like man, the chimp looks at the world in terms of cause and effect," says Premack.

The animals have been able to analyze action. If, for instance, Premack shows an apple and a knife and then shows a wet apple, a bruised apple and a severed apple, the chimp will pick the severed apple. That's what the knife did.

In another experiment, he calls upon their ability to reassemble disassembled figures. He uses the disassembled face of a chimp. The chimp puts it back together and even shows some inventiveness. One took the mouthpiece, turned it over on the blank side and made a hat for the chimp face. That was after she saw a picture of a chimp wearing a hat.

In Atlanta, a chimp named Lana is communicating through a computer, which she manipulates by pressing buttons. When she asks the computer for something, she must ask in the right order.

For instance, she must say "please Tim, tickle Lana." (Young chimps love to be tickled.) And she must use the period to show her sentence is finished.

For those interested in what is language and what isn't, syntax is very important. In Project Washoe, the Gardners did not require or record the sequence of word order. The Lana project, at the Yerkes Primate Research Center, had the advantage that every utterance was recorded.

Lana seems to have shown some evidence of syntax, although some of the structured sentences could be critizied as just memorization. Dr. Duane Rumbaugh, the director of the project, reports that Lana has constructed new sentences, substantially different from those she had been taught.

One of these was "Tim put milk in machine." Tim is one of the students helping to run the project and machine had never been used by Lana in that position in a structured sentence before.

If Lana makes a mistake on the keyboard, she instantly erases it and starts over.

The Gardners, pioneers in the sign language method, now are working with two new chimps, a male named Phil and a female named Moja. This time they began with chimps a few days old and surrounded themselves with people fluent in ASL, including deaf graduate students, using what might be called their "native tongue."

"They see each other like neighborhood children would see each other," says Gardner.

The young chimps already are signing to each other. The Gardners hope to raise the male and female to maturity and breed them and then sit back and see if they will teach their offspring the sign language.

There is some evidence already that chimps will teach each other signs. In the Oklahoma compound, some of the nonsigners have learned a sign or two from a signer. Washoe has been seen signing "hug" to chimps in distress in nearby cages who were not signers.

Not that they understood, but the thought was there.

One of the newest and most interesting projects is a New York City experiment conducted by Dr. Herb Terrace of Columbia University. His chimp, named Nim, is being raised in a townhouse with seven children — ages 9 to 16 — and a German shepherd named Trudge who sees his calling in life as the protector for the 18-month-old chimp.

The astonishing woman running this unusual household is Stephanie LaFarge, a graduate student. Three of the children are hers by a previous marriage and four are her husband's by a previous marriage. He is Wer LaFarge, an understanding playwright.

Nim is unique because of his dual experience: his intense socialization in the rough-and-tumble of family life and his training in sign language.

But there are problems teaching animals that sometimes grow more than four feet tall and are eight times as strong as man, with huge, dangerous incisors.

Washoe has bitten some of her trainers and now is only allowed out with Fouts. And yet, in the sign language projects, the chimps must be secure and happy enough to wish to communicate with their human friends. And safe enough for the humans.

Nim, diapered and dressed, goes off to school every day, sometimes on the bus. Eight volunteers work with him all day in his own classroom at Columbia.

At night he comes home and plays with the family, roughhousing with the dog and 10-year-old Joshua.

If he throws a temper tantrum or gets naughty, he gets a spanking just as a child would. He eats at least one meal a day with whatever family member happen to be around.

Terrace dreams of getting two more chimps to raise in a similar manner. He sees a chimp compound, sort of a kibbutz.

His plans call for careful record-keeping to see if Nim will construct gestural sentences to a grammarian's liking. His hopes are very high. He sees a vocabulary of 500 words. He thinks the chimp will be able to discuss the past or the future. Finally, he hopes Nim will be able to talk about his world of emotions and dreams.

But not everyone is convinced that what these chimps are doing is language at all.

Is it language, for instance, if your dog brings you his dish at suppertime and places it at you feet? He is after all, asking to be fed. But is that language? And what is the difference between that and what the chimps are doing, the criticis ask. Of course the chimps' communication is much more sophisticated. But is it language? Or is it just sophisticated communication, an upgrading, as it were, of Fido's plea?

Dr. John Beatty, an anthropological linguist at Brooklyn College, maintains that the chimps' communication is miles away from what we know as language. Language, he maintains, is dependent upon a culture. Language, to him, is the ability to differentiate between "I am going to Formosa" and "I am going to Taiwan." That shows politics, culture; the fine points of which language is made.

Language, he believes, is qualitiatively different from communication. He maintains that the appearance of elements of language don't make language, just as the elements of hydrogen and water, uncombined, have nothing to do with water.

Linguist Noam Chomsky wrote: "Anyone concerned with the study of human nature and human capacities must somehow come to grips with the fact that all normal humans acquire language, whereas acquisition of even its barest rudiments is quite beyond the capacities of an otherwise intelligent ape."

Language or not, man is learning more about chimp behavior from the projects. In an experiment here last summer, Beatty and Fouts played tape recordings of chimp cries and then asked chimp to translate; indicating with signs whether the cries were the same or different.

The chimp would then sign appropriately. And the chimp amazed the researchers. On one cry it signed both same and different. It was the same cry, but different chimps had made it.

Beatty and Fouts had wanted to use Washoe for this project, but were forced to substitute a male chimp. Washoe, you see, had other ideas. She became moonstruck over Beatty.

He lost a tooth when Washoe greeted him with a rough chimp kiss when he showed up one morning.

"She wanted to do a remake of King Kong, but she wanted to play the lead and she wanted me to be Fay Wray," laughs Beatty.

Cargos de hostigar arguido en reunion

El consejo, un grupo de padres, ha estado buscando medios de tratar con peleas y violencia entre pandillas en el barrio de Chino.

El consejo es relativamente nuevo, pero ya ha tratado con algunos problemas al sugerir que se provea un centro de recreacion en la ciudad.

Un grupo de 100 personas se reunieron en una sala del Edificio Comunal de Chino, para oir acusaciones de hostigamiento hechos por algunos padres, y miembros del Chino sinners, una pandilla de jovenes.

De acuerdo a uno de los padres, el hostigamiento podrna ser el causante de la violencia. "El acosamiento a que se ven sujetos los hace hacer algunas de las cosas que estan tomando lugar."

Cuatro representantes del Departamento de Policia de Chino respondieron a casi todos los temas tratados, y ofrecieron algunas sugerencias propias. Atendiendo la reunion se encontraban los Capitanes Lou Moreno y Tony Linza, el Teniente Robert Williams y el oficial Ed Acosta.

Moreno comenzo la discusion al declarar que cualquiera que tenga una queja en contra de la policia, puede presentar una declaracion en el departamento.

En respuesta a una pregunta de Rudy Perches, miembro de los Chino Sinners, Moreno dijo que algunas personas podrian ser sacadas de la carcel temporariamente para resolver un problema.

Anita Martinez, madre de un joven que estaba encarcelado, dijo que estaba preocupada porque el joven podria estar herido, y oficiales de policia le rehusaron el permiso para verlo.

Williams dijo que el incidente tomo lugar el Domingo por la noche, cuando "estabamos sumamente ocupados. Yo tenia tres personas en mi oficina cuando usted vino. Pero mas tarde, le deje ver a su hijo."

La Sra. Martinez dijo que Williams solo la dejo pasar despues de haber ella explicado la situacion al Jefe Frank Meehan.

Moreno prometio que en el futuro, si un joven en la carcel esta herido, se les permitira la entrada a los padres. Indico que esta es una nueva poliza policial.

En respuesta a la acusacion de que los oficiales no siempre se identifican por medio de sus placas, Linza dijo que estan obligados a hacerlo cuando visten su uniforme. Agrego que en general lo hacen como un acto de cortesia.

La tarpetas son enviadas por una compania acondicionadora de agua en Brea, y no son ilegales, de acuerdo a investigadores del Servicio Postal, dijo Swanson.

Ronald Reagan

REAGAN WITH GOV. AND MRS. WALLACE

By DOUG WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says the first thing on his mind these days when he wakes up in the morning is his ranch — fixing the roof, tiling the floor, laying out fences.

"The ranch. That's our new lifestyle," Reagan says. "Every chance I get I go up there. There's a side of me that would like to be at the ranch every day."

But the ranch, located in a secluded high valley overlooking the Pacific Ocean near Santa Barbara, is only the hobby of the 64-year-old former California governor. His profession is still politics.

Earnings from Reagan's political commentary support a staff of five and three part-time aides. His political activity fans constant talk of a Reagan-for-president campaign in 1976. He is a constant spokesman for the conservative wing of the Republican party, and the latest Gallup poll says he's the second choice of Republican voters nationwide for the party's 1976 presidential nomination. Ford is the first.

Since leaving the governor's office Jan. 6 after two terms, Reagan is still very much in the public eye. He has a daily political commentary radio show, a weekly newspaper column, cross-country speaking tours and numerous meetings as a member of Vice President Nelson Rockefeller's study panel on the Central Intelligence Agency.

Reagan doesn't openly encourage the presidential talk, but he doesn't discourage it either. That ambiguity keeps the presidential speculation alive and adds a sharp edge to Reagan's already solid celebrity status.

The former actor averages two to three days per week at the 630-acre ranch which he and his wife bought last fall in the Santa Ynez Mountains, 25 miles northeast of Santa Barbara.

Nestled in a meadow at an elevation of 2,100 feet, the ranch is a two-hour drive north along the coast from the Reagan home in Pacific Palisades, an exclusive residential area on the west end of Los Angeles where Reagan has lived since his motion picture days.

The final few miles to the ranch are up a winding, unmarked country road which narrows to one lane and deteriorates from pavement to chuckholes to gravel before reaching the Reagan ranch.

There's no telephone in the ranch house, although there is one at the small house where a caretaker and his wife live and look after Reagan's 18 head of cattle.

"I know that some people, when they hear of someone like myself with a ranch, they have a picture of a great sprawling ranch home and rows of white fences and sort of a gentleman farmer strolling around in tweeds looking over the domain," Reagan said in an interview.

"Well, that's not it. Mine is a working thing. The sprawling buildings happen to be one very small adobe house, on which I'm doing a lot of work myself ... I wake up every morning, and before I have to get up I lie there in bed thinking about the priorities and itching to get back there and going on what has to be done."

Reagan said he wishes he could spend more time at his ranch. "But the other things are also something that I feel strongly about — speaking tours, the column, the radio program."

There was a change in Reagan's life when his eight years as governor of California's 21 million residents ended.

The state police sentry shack halfway up the winding driveway to Reagan's Pacific Palisades home is gone. There's no longer a 24-hour state security force guarding home and family.

There's also no state limousine, executive jet or daily agenda of official appointments.

Reagan now occasionally travels alone, and he drives his own car for the first time in nearly a decade. He has time for horses, for the solitude of his ranch, time to write some of his own speeches and to read.

Reagan's Pacific Palisades home was completed in 1956, a year before he and his wife, the former Nancy Davis, appeared in "Hellcats of the Navy," their final motion picture.

It is a comfortable and expensive three-bedroom, one-story home of flagstone and wood walls both inside and out.

Mrs. Reagan said she and her husband picked the lot because of its view. On one side are mountains. The city of Santa Monica is below them, and Santa Monica Bay is visible beyond the city.

"My husband had always wanted a view, so we wandered around until we found this," Mrs. Reagan said.

As a private citizen, Reagan uses commercial airlines for most trips. But usually there's a limousine and police escort on the runway to meet him. He rarely mixes with the public in airport terminals despite a schedule of 10,000 to 20,000 miles of travel per month.

Few political figures today, including announced candidates for president, receive similar VIP treatment.

Reagan is instantly recognized, and usually greeted with cheers — sometimes by people who think of him not as a politician but as a former movie and TV actor.

"... Sometimes you wish it weren't that way," Mrs. Reagan said in an interview. "That's why the ranch is so nice to have. It would be difficult to go to a hotel somewhere and have a vacation."

Reagan's new office as private citizen is on the eighth floor of a modern Los Angeles office building. It is furnished with the same desk and lamp which he used in the governor's office in Sacramento. They had been purchased about six years ago by Mrs. Reagan to furnish that office.

Reagan

an advance man for him. The highway patrol officer who was Reagan's driver for eight years retired when Reagan left office and is now his personal driver, home handyman and assistant at the ranch.

Reagan declines to reveal his income. But he says there are no political contributions supporting his activities, although a few Republican volunteers help in his office from time to time.

"This staff and office, and the whole thing is totally maintained by my own earnings from speaking, from the radio show and from the newspaper column," Reagan says.

Helen von Damm, his personal secretary throughout his two terms as governor, said he receives hundreds of letters daily in the new office offering support or requesting personal appearances.

Reagon travels six to 10 days per month. Usually one aide accompanies him and an advance man precedes him by two or three days. There he records about 10 of his daily "Viewpoint" radio shows at a time.

REAGAN AT OFFICE

O'Connor edits them into five minute shows and sends out tapes to nearly 200 radio stations which buy the programs. Patricia, now 21, a professional singer, has an apartment in Santa Monica. Ronnie, 16, is a high school junior and lives at home.

Although the Reagans had a large Sacramento home during his eight years as governor, they spent most weekends at the Pacific Palisades home and never moved their personal possessions out of it.

Reagan's two children by his previous marriage to actress Jane Wyman both live in Los Angeles. Michael is a professional boat racer and Maureen is a television and stage actress active in GOP politics as a member of the Republican State Central Committee.

When the Reagans are at home, their usual evening activities are reading and television, Mrs. Reagan said. Their favorite TV shows "The Waltons," "Streets of San Francisco," "Kojak" and "The Carol Burnett Show."

Reagan said he anticipated that he would miss the authority to take action when state issues arose. "Yet, I've become so busy now, which I had not anticipated, that that's faded quite a bit. We kind of look at each other and wonder how the hell we got so busy all of a sudden. We kind of thought there would be a period to sit and relax and breathe deeply."

"I kept saying, 'this isn't the way I had envisioned it,'" Mrs. Reagan said. "I thought we were going to have a vacation, that it was going to be different. He does a lot of traveling. It almost seems more than he did when he was governor."

Obviously tired during an interview on the final leg of a recent cross-country speaking tour, Reagan answered questions in a monotone. But he became more animated when asked about his ranch.

"I have 18 head of cattle grazing. What the previous owner did is possibly what I'll end up doing buy yearlings, raise them and sell them for the increase in weight. I'm curious to find out how practical it might be to raise calves. I intend to look into that, to see how the graze holds up, whether it would be practical. We might try that."

Ask Dr. Brothers

Alcohol and abuse

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My wife and I got married when we were just 18 and we are now in our 20s with three children. Now I think we never should have had any at all because my wife admits she doesn't really like children. A few months ago, the authorities took our children away from us because neighbors and, I guess, the social workers accused us of child abuse. I really didn't know what was happening because I was away most of the time, trying to get work.

I didn't realize it but I guess my wife is an alcoholic. I found this hard to believe because she's only 23 and I thought you couldn't be an alcoholic unless you were a lot older. Anyway, in a very short time, I've lost my kids and now I seem to be losing my wife through booze. She won't go to A.A. because she says it's all old men and she's still screaming that she can stop. So far, she's not doing too well, although last week she did cut down.

In addition, we're now getting some heat on us to decide what to do about our children who are in foster homes. I've just about had it and I don't know any more answers. — R. B.

Dear R. B.: If your wife is an alcoholic, she isn't going to be able to stop for long without help. The sooner you both realize this, the better. Anyone can become an alcoholic. No one is immune. More and more teenagers are being affected by this disease and according to the American Medical Association, it is that—a disease.

Often, alcoholics try to think up reasons why they shouldn't attend meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous or why they don't need help. One of the most common assertions is a denial of the problem and the insistence that one is not an alcoholic.

Some years ago, Alcoholics Anonymous was male-dominated, but recent surveys released by the North American Congress on Alcohol and Drug Problems said women accounted for 21 per cent of A.A.'s new members. Fortunately, women today are less apt to hide their drinking than they once were and it is no longer considered something one should feel ashamed of. It is an illness and it can be treated.

An alcoholic mother is a disaster both for herself and for her children. There's little doubt that many of your family problems are directly related to our wife's alcoholism, but neither she nor you will be able to get these problems into focus until you face your major and immediate problem — your wife's drinking.

As soon as your wife has a few months of sobriety, and as soon as she feels comfortable with some organization to help her remain sober, the two of you should begin to seriously discuss what you wish to do about your family. If you feel you're emotionally or economically unable to give your children the proper care, then free them so that they will not have to spend a lifetime in foster homes. A matter as serious as this shouldn't be rushed, but it also shouldn't be put off for years and years because it isn't fair to your children.

According to a recent government report there are about 120,000 children in this country in legal limbo, children whose natural parents are unable to care for them but have never freed them for adoption. If, after your wife has regained her health, both you and she decide you want your children and you're willing to make the sacrifices all parents have to make, then you may find you're mature enough to be good parents. If not, set them free so someone else can give them the love and security they need.

Who said it?

Who said of an organization that its purpose "ought not to be based on numbers, but upon something that is way down deep in the very nature of human individuals and the nature of human society. We must look at the individual and allow him to do what is best for himself and for the community"? — Luther Halsey Gulick, the founder of Camp Fire Girls, said that in 1910.

Quotable women speak out

By Associated Press

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"All of us actresses are forever missing lines and entering the wrong door, and we recognize ourselves in her performance." Actress Ingrid Bergman, winner of an Academy Award for best supporting actress, complimenting one of her opponents, Valentina Cortese, who played the role of a forgetful actress in "Day for Night."

"All I've done for 14 years is raise money for An Lac so that the children could grow up in their own country to be better-educated citizens of their own country. But I don't want them to lose their minds and souls to what I call a godless society." Betty Tisdale of Columbus, Ga., who has started a campaign in Saigon to move an entire orphanage of nearly 400 youngsters to the United States to save them from communism.

"The idea of marriage isn't normal. It is all a lie. It has come from Victorian times because of land and titles and things, and we have romanticized ourselves into a magazine unreality. Marriage has no meaning. What it has is rules." Actress Cloris Leachman, interviewed in New York.

"Blue collar women have the most problems and receive the least help from anyone, including their spouses. That is why they are under more stress from a layoff than their white collar counterparts or males of either job status." Dr. Rachell Warren of the Institute of Labor and Industrial Relations at the University of Michigan.

"All our children are so absolutely beautiful, and everybody gets along marvelously. But it does get confusing at times. Once a girl called and said, 'This is Jennifer. I'll be home soon.' I said, 'All right.' Then I realized we didn't have anyone in the family named Jennifer. Oh, well, what's another?" Mrs. Bob DeBolt of San Francisco, whose family includes 17 children from previous marriages and other adoptions, and who is adopting a blind Vietnamese girl.

Nevada's gaming industry

$1 billion a year to gamblers; $93 million to state

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) There are 2,442 gaming tables in Nevada, with action from blackjack to craps.

And 181 poker tables. And 46,740 slot machines.

Together they earn hotels and casinos—the state's most majestic monuments—about $1 billion profit annually. Gambling—the official word is gaming—produces $93 million a year for all levels of government, including about half the state budget.

Gambling could also mean rampant crime in Nevada—if it wasn't for the state's elaborate gambling control apparatus.

The apparatus consists of the Nevada Gaming Commission, state Gaming Control Board and Gaming Policy Board. Their powers rank behind only those of the governor and legislature.

With a $1.9 million budget, they strive to guarantee the honesty of all games from penny slot machines to sophisticated baccarat. But if you don't like the payoff you get in a legal game, don't complain to them, says the Las Vegas based member of the control board, Shannon L. Bybee Jr.

There is no such regulation because "that would be price control," he said in a recent interview.

A staff of more than 100—the exact number is secret—constantly checks slot machines and seizes dice and cards for laboratory tests. They also monitor counting rooms to make sure the state gets its share.

The gaming officials also investigate applicants for casino licenses. An applicant must prove himself suitable. He must unveil his entire background, knowing that if rejected, the facts could be made public.

"The right of privacy has got to bend enough to protect the industry," said Bybee.

Nevada has had corruption in recent years, "but in zoning and liquor licenses, not gambling," Bybee boasts.

Gambling attracts criminals because it is a cash business, said Bybee. Cash needs to be closely watched, and "without good supervisors, employes and the public can rip you off.

"You don't find good supervisors in the Harvard Business College. And they're not the kind of people likely to be civil servants, which is a point relevant to states which think they should run gambling rather than license and regulate it."

Gambling has been loose in this otherwise mining and grazing state since dropouts from the 1849 Gold Rush tried to pluck emigrants headed for California. In the 126 years since, gambling has been against the law for 29. And that didn't curb it.

In fact, gaming officials chuckle when pointing out that in 1869 it was argued that legalization—along with heavy license fees—would drive gambling away.

If other states legalized casino gambling, Bybee wonders "how fast the industry could expand without creating severe problems of watching the money."

Most of the people proficient in gambling outside Nevada "have become so in violation of the law," he said. "You would therefore be dealing with people who are experienced in corruption."

Bybee cited other problems such as blackmail and shylocking, which "would be accentuated in large urban areas."

One factor in Nevada's favor is the small permanent population, he said, explaining, "Corruption would be known in a small amount of time."

Nevada also has a unique "Black Book." It contains the names of less than a dozen "undesirables" who, if found on any licensed premises, risk prosecution for a misdemeanor.

Their presence also places the casino license in jeopardy.

Nevada still has trouble. Harrah's Club in Reno recently filed a $100,000 suit contending that a pit boss and others cheated with a marked deck.

In 1969, a Las Vegas casino was taken for $240,000 by phony junketeers who used the names of well-known high rollers to establish credit, then cashed in their chips and disappeared.

Junketeers from distant cities help enrich Nevada. But Bybee doesn't think they would stay home in casinos were legalized in their home states. New Jersey voters came close to doing this last year.

"Most of the people we get from New Jersey are people of means," he said.

"Many come on junkets. I can't see them going to Atlantic City in January when they could get a free ride to Las Vegas.

"My real concern was that New Jersey would have a bad experience...that would have resulted in pressures for federal intervention or control.

"That would have been harmful to Nevada and the general image of legalized gambling."

Bybee meant casino type gambling, which is unique in Nevada. But 28 other states have other forms of gambling like parimutuel betting on horse and dog races.

And contrary to a commonly held notion that Nevada is the gamblingest state in the union, three other states make more money off it than Nevada: New York, California and Florida.

LOCAL-NATIONAL

THIS IS THE LEADER?

HE JUST MISSES

Johnny Miller raises his hands and putter over his head as he just misses a forty-foot putt for a birdie on the 16th green Saturday in the third round of the Masters.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Instead of a rout it became a race.

"I didn't do it," Jack Nicklaus said. "He did."

But Nicklaus was at least partially responsible. He struggled to a 73 in Saturday's third round of the Masters Golf Tournament, blew what appeared to be a commanding lead and watched in grim frustration as Tom Weiskopf assumed command with a six-under-par 66.

"I knew the way Jack was playing, I had to play a super round of golf to get back in it," Weiskopf said.

"The third round is the swing round in a golf tournament," he said."It is all important.

• KNXT (2), 1 p.m.

"I knew I had to put a good round on the board. I knew I couldn't afford a round of 72."

He responded with the six-under-par effort that brought him from six shots back to a one-stroke advantage after three rounds of this celebrated event.

"Actually," Nicklaus said, "a 73 wasn't that bad. It was the three-putts.

"I had a chance, if I'd shot a good round, to just about put it out of reach. The nice thing about being well in front, you can afford a round like this. You can shoot this kind of score and not be out of it.

"I'm not in bad position at all. I can't say I'm happy to blow the lead, but I'm not in bad position. Anytime you're within one shot after three rounds at Augusta, you're okay."

And that's the position he's in, one shot back.

Tall Tom, a three-time runnerup in this event but never a winner, put together a 54-hole total of 207, nine under par in sunny and windy weather on the Augusta National Golf Club course, 7,020 yards of rolling Georgia hills that suddenly turned a potential rout into a race.

Nicklaus, who matched a couple of tournament records over the first two rounds and appeared poised to make it a run-away, suddenly developed some putting problems and plummeted back to second with a struggling, one-over-par 73.

At 208, he trails Weiskopf by one going into today's last round of the chase for the famed green jacket Nicklaus has won four times previously and Weiskopf wants so desperately to wear for the first time.

Record-setting Johnny Miller, meanwhile, copped a couple of more standards—but missed the one he wanted—and suddenly became a factor in this prestige-laden tournament that holds such a unique position in the world of golf.

The slender blond, who has the happy habit of forging some extremely low scores, reeled off an improbable string of six birdies in a row and shot a seven-under-par 65 that gave him a 211 total, five under par and four back of Weiskopf.

Red-haired Tom Watson was next, matching par 72 for 212 as such glamor names as Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, Lee Trevino and Gary Player joined Nicklaus in the miseries of the mid-70s.

But while all had their troubles, none, perhaps, was more stunned than Bobby Nichols. The long-hitting Nichols once crept to within two shots of the lead, but three-putted for bogey on the par-five 15th, a bogey that sent him reeling back to a 72 and a 213 total. He played his last four holes three over par.

No one else was close.

Arnold Palmer, the still-hopeful 45-year-old who once dominated this ancient game, played in the final twosome with Nicklaus and struggled and strained to a 75 and 215.

Nothing went right for Arnold, now graying and wearing glasses but still the most popular player the game has ever known. His approaches found the deep, white-sand bunkers. His putts wouldn't fall. His drives went awry.

But still he kept trying, fighting it all the way. He swung so hard at one tee shot he almost left his feet and got some good-natured ribbing from Nicklaus.

He was tied with Trevino, who was as grim-faced as an Aztec god in his frustrations. Trevino, promoted to make another of his off-again, on-again appearances here after he won the PGA National Championship last fall, shot himself out of title contention with a 74.

Stanton's homer trips Chisox, 4-3

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — Lee Stanton redeemed himself in helping Andy Hassler win another suit Saturday afternoon.

Just when it seemed the 1975 Angels would never display any power this season, Stanton exploded in hitting a game-winning home run in the bottom of the 10th inning to give Hassler and the Angels a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

While the Angels have plenty of pitching and speed, most of the hits have been of the singles variety. The Halos have been getting plenty of hits —45 in four games—but not much power.

With one out in the bottom of the 10th, Stanton connected on Wilbur Wood's 2-2 pitch and the ball landed in the Angel bullpen in leftfield.

The winning home run came just in time to give Hassler the victory as it had already been decided the lefthander had pitched enough.

For the third time in two seasons, Hassler earned a suit from Manager Dick Williams as part of an agreement that an Angel pitcher earns that bonus for pitching 18 ground balls (outs or balls which could have been outs.)

When asked if the Angels or Williams himself pays the money, the skipper replied, "Gentlemen, I'll show you my personal check for $200 to Hassler tomorrow."

Why does Williams do this?

"It helps our team if our pitchers can keep the ball down," Williams said. "The first manager I know of who did this was Eddie Stanky with the White Sox."

Hasler had only one rough inning as he held the White Sox to seven hits — six singles — in his 10 innings on the mound. He recorded a career high of nine strikeouts while allowing only two walks.

But the toll of 129 pitches began to show in the 10th and it was decided he wouldn't pitch another.

"I was starting to get the ball up in the last two innings," Hassler said. "I don't know if I was the first one to greet Stanton but I was close. I had a nice view of the home run and I could tell it was gone all the way."

It was the first time since Hassler's first year of professional ball in 1970 that he opened a season with a victory.

"This was a very important win for me," Hassler said. "This will really help my confidence."

Chicago scored all three of its runs in the fourth inning when the Sox got four of their seven hits. Singles by Buddy Bradford and Bill Melton, a double by Ken Henderson and a single by Bucky Dent produced the runs but a fine throw from leftfielder Micky Rivers to catcher Ellie Rodriguez cut down Deron Johnson at the plate to save a fourth run.

Meanwhile, the Angels had 12 hits against Wood as everybody in the lineup except shortstop Orlando Ramirez joined the parade.

Hot-hitting Dave Chalk (9-for-14) opened the second inning with a double. After Rodriguez drew a walk, rookie second baseman Jerry Remy hit a double to the leftfield fence to score both runners for a 2-0 lead.

Aztecs close with 3-0 victory

CERRITOS, Calif. (AP) — Striker Uri Banhoffer scored two goals, one in each half, and assisted on a third as the defending North American Soccer League champion Los Angeles Aztecs closed their exhibition season with a 3-0 victory over the Dallas Tornado.

Banhoffer also assisted on Tony Douglas' goal in the second half as the Aztecs completely dominated the game.

The Aztecs, who closed their practice season 7-2, open the regular season against the San Jose Earthquake next Saturday in San Jose.

Dodgers suffer fourth loss of year

Houston rallies against Marichal, 7-5

HOUSTON (AP) — Cliff Johnson's two-run homer touched off a five-run rally against Juan Marichal in the fourth inning, and the Houston Astros stopped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-5 Saturday night.

Marichal, making his first start as a Dodger, took a one-hitter and a 2-0 lead into the fourth inning. A walk and Johnson's first homer of the year evened the score.

A walk to Jose Cruz kept the rally going. A balk and Doug Rader's single put Houston ahead, 3-2. Then Roger Metzger singled home one run and Enos Cabell doubled home another.

The Astros added a run in the fifth on Johnson's RBI double and needed it when the Dodgers rallied for three runs to chase Larry Dierker in the sixth.

Jim Wynn singled and Steve Garvey tripled to produce the Dodgers' first run of the sixth. They added their second run on Willie Crawford's single and a third on an RBI bouncer by Rick Auerbach.

Houston pulled ahead 7-5 in the seventh as Rob Andrews singled and scored on Milt May's double.

Wayne Granger replaced Dierker in the sixth and cut short Los Angeles' hopes of catching up. Where Dierker couldn't retire a batter that inning, Granger posted three quick outs.

Dierker permitted just two singles over the final four innings — Garvey's

The Dodgers started out like they meant to make Marichal a winner in hit after a walk to Wynn in the seventh and a ninth-inning blow by Bill Buckner that led the Dodgers nowhere.

In saving Dierker's second victory of the year, Granger picked up his first save as an Astro reliever.

The Dodgers started out like they meant to make Marichala winner in his first regular season appearance in a Los Angeles uniform. Dave Lopes walked to open the game and stole second—his first of two thefts.

Buckner also walked before a passed ball and Wynn's sacrifice fly to center brought in the first run. Willie Crawford's sacrifice fly to the same spot made it 2-0 Dodgers.

Kicker signs Rams' contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kicker Grant Guthrie, who played for Jacksonville in the World Football League last season, was signed to a free agent contract Friday by the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

UCLA names two cage assistants

LOS ANGELES (AP — Former Memphis State and Illinois assistant coach LeRoy "Lee" Hunt and onetime UCLA star forward Larry Farmer were named Saturday assistant coaches to UCLA's new head coach, Gene Bartow, a school spokesman said.

The appointments were made by Athletic Director J. D. Morgan, the spokesman said.

Hunt was an assistant to Bartow for four years at Memphis State and then last season at Illinois. Farmer, the UCLA junior varsity assistant coach two years ago, played on three of Coach John Wooden's NCAA championship teams in 1971-72-73. During Farmer's varsity career, his teams won 89 games and lost one.

Farmer, 24, spent last season as player-coach of the Koblenz, West Germany, Sports Club team.

Hunt, a native of Windsor, Mo., earned a master's degree at Central Missouri State and has been in coaching 17 years, nine as a head coach in high schools.

Naber, Babashoff lead their teams to victory

CINCINNATI (AP) — High point scorers John Naber and Shirley Babashoff, who figured in nine victories and four of the 15 American records, led their teams to national Amateur Athletic Union indoor swimming championships Saturday night.

The teen-aged superstars from California were the only triple individual winners of the four-day meet in Keating Natatorium.

The 6-foot-6 Naber captured both backstrokes and the 1,650-yard freestyle in American record time, scoring 75 of champion University of Southern California's 474 points.

Miss Babashoff, 18, grabbed individual titles in the 100, 200 and 500 freestyles and anchored women's champion Mission Viejo, Calif., record-setting pair of relay squads.

The 1972 Olympian piled up 76 points while her Mission Viejo team's winning total was 283 points.

Indiana University, second to the Trojans in the NCAA meet last month, finished second again with 306 points. UCLA was third with 226 points.

Five of the records fell Saturday night, the most of the 1975 championships.

Before most of the crowd arrived, Naber shaved nearly six seconds off the 1,650 freestyle mark of 15:15.33 by Mike Bruner last year. Naber was clocked in 15:09.51 for the grueling 66 laps in the 25-yard pool.

The women's 1,650 freestyle mark also fell. Jo Hershbarger, 18, from Bellevue, Wash., turned in 16:27.11, bettering the standard of 16:28.37 Karen Hazen set in 1974. The defending champion failed to make the top eight this year.

SAFE AT THIRD

Dodger Davey Lopes goes to third as Houston third baseman Doug Rader can't handle the throw from his catcher Milt May. May was charged with a passed ball on the play as umpire John Kibler looks in on the play. Houston defeated the Dodgers in the Astrodome Saturday, 7-5.

Sports news in brief

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Houston McTear was timed Saturday in 9.3 seconds in the 100-yard dash in the Escambia Invitational track meet, matching his national prep effort that tied the record in the Florida Relays two weeks ago.

The effort by the 18-year-old Baker High School junior was not wind-aided, officials said.

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — David Pearson and four other drivers broke the track qualifying record Saturday as Pearson put the Wood Brothers' Mercury on the pole for today's Rebel 500 stock car race at Darlington Raceway.

Pearson, last man on the track during the first section of the rain-delayed time trials, toured the 25-year-old oval at 155.433 miles an hour, breaking Charlie Glotzbach's 1970 record of 153.822.

DUESSELDORF, Germany (AP) — The Soviet Union riddled the United States with 10 last-period goals for a 13-1 victory Saturday, giving the defending champions their sixth straight triumph at the World Ice Hockey championships.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Louie Moore, Columbus, Ohio, who had been struggling all year to make expenses on the pro bowling tour, came up with a $10,000 payday Saturday when he whipped Nelson Burton, Jr. 226-190 to capture first place in an $85,000 Professional Bowlers Association tournament.

SILVERSTONE, England (AP) — James Hunt of Britain won the pole position in a Hesketh Ford in the final moments of qualifying Saturday for Sunday's international Formula I auto race.

Hunt, who won the race last year, drove a trial lap of 1 minute, 17.3 second, or 136.32 miles an hour, to edge Austrian Nikki Lauda, who drove a Ferrari, by one-tenth of a second.

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — Jockey Wilfrido Osuna, 33, one of Mexico's leading riders, died early Saturday from head injuries he suffered in a spill one week ago at Caliente race track, a track spokesman said.

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Brazilian soccer star Pele said Saturday that he is asking for a $6 million contract with the New York Cosmos of the North American Soccer League.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Gord Gallant, acknowledged as a fighter by World Hockey Association records and by his own admission, admitted Saturday that he was drunk "and lost his cool" when he belted Coach Harry Neale.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) —United States divers Phil Boggs and Debbie Keppler Wilson captured first place honors Saturday in the first two events of the sixth annual Hall of Fame international diving meet.

American entries made an unexpectedly strong showing, taking four of the top six places in the men's three-meter springboard competition and three of the top four spots in the women's 10-meter platform event.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — After clearing 18 feet, 4 inches for a new professional record, pole vaulter Steve Smith took a look at 19 feet and like what he saw.

"I wanted to take a look at it up there,' Smith said. "I had never seen 19 feet before. I think it is very possible."

Performing Friday night at a professional meet sponsored by the International Track Association, Smith broke his own professional indoor record of 18-2½ set Jan. 17 in Montreal. The indoor mark for amateurs is 18-1, set by Dan Ripley of San Jose State.

Fans visit Hall

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — The National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum enjoyed its second best year in attendance in 1974. A total of 245,820 fans went through the turnstiles at the museum in upstate New York last year.

Since the opening in 1939, a total of 4,324,795 fans have visited the baseball shrine which is open daily except for three holidays — Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's.

NFL releases Rams' schedule

LOS ANGELES — A schedule that calls for the Rams to open their 1975 regular season at Dallas Sunday, Sept. 21 and close it at home against the World Champion Pittsburgh Steelers was released today by the National Football League.

The matchup with the Cowboys marks the first of two consecutive road games for the Rams, who will play at NFC Western rival San Francisco the following week (Sept. 28) before launching their Coliseum schedule against Baltimore on Sunday, Oct. 5.

Besides the Steelers and Colts, coach Chuck Knox's two-time NFC Western champions will also host five other teams, including division rivals Atlanta (Oct. 19), New Orleans (Oct. 26) and San Francisco (Nov. 9) as well as Chicago (Nov. 23) and Green Bay (Dec. 14) from the NFC Central.

Under owner Carroll Rosenbloom and head coach Knox, the Rams are 22-6 during the last two years and have been one of the NFL's most consistent winners. Thus they are scheduled for national television appearances — the opener at Dallas, the Saturday night, Dec. 20 closing date with the Steelers in the Coliseum, a Monday night, Nov. 3 game at Philadelphia and a Nov. 27 Thanksgiving Day clash at Detroit.

Other away-from-home games call for the Rams to travel to San Diego (Oct. 12), Atlanta (Nov. 16) and New Orleans (Dec. 7).

"It's a competitive schedule," declared Knox, who guided the Rams all the way to the NFC finals last year before losing narrowly to Minnesota, 14-10. "I know one thing," he said. "We'll have to be ready right out of training camp".

SCHEDULE NOTES — Three ex-Ram quarterbacks are playing for teams on the Rams' 1975 schedule, Roman Gabriel (at Philadelphia, Nov. 3), Bill Munson (at Detroit, Nov. 27) and John Hadl (Green Bay, Coliseum, Dec. 14) . . . Of special interest is the Nov. 23 game with the revitalized Bears, for the new Chicago head coach is former Ram linebacker Jack Pardee.

Starter Terry Jacob went the distance to pick up the victory on the mound for the Mounties in his first complete game. He struck out seven and walked six.

In a Mission Conference game, Chaffey ran its league record to 9-6 with a 2-1 win over Palomar in 10 innings.

Virgil Moore earned the victory in relief for the Panthers in 2 1-13 innings. He didn't give up a run or a hit and threw only 21 pitches.

MSAC picked up three runs in the fifth as Binky Benton reached base on an error and went to second on a balk. A walk to Ron Roenicke and a single by Mike Parkinson loaded the bases. Tracy Cowger's ground ball forced Parkinson at second but Benton and Roenicke scored on the play. Cowger went to second and took third on a ground ball and then stole home.

Chaffey tied the score at 1-1 in the top of the ninth and then won the game in the 10th as Mike Walters singled, Steve Young walked and losing pitcher Bruce Richardson's throwing error on a pickoff try at first base allowed Walters to score from second base.

Outfielder Dennis Hawkins broke up Richardson's one-hitter in the eighth with a pinch-hit single. He stole two bases also.

MSAC (6-3, 19-6) hosts Santa Ana Monday and Orange Coast Tuesday. Chaffey visits Grossmont Tuesday.

Mountie spikers gain five firsts at S.D. Relays

SAN DIEGO — Mt. San Antonio College grabbed five first places in the junior college division and the University of Southern California stole the show in the open division competition in the San Diego relays here at Balboa Stadium Saturday afternoon.

The Mounties captured first in the 440 relay in 41.8 seconds with Steve Lebovitz, Willie Jackson, John Houston and Willie Davis running.

The same foursome came back to win the 880 relay in 1:27.5 minutes and Houston joined Steve Simmons, Dave Kellogg and Davis on the winning mile relay team which clocked 3:18.0.

Both the 440 and 880 relay times are the best among Southern California junior colleges so far this season.

Andre Hall (14.6) and Dwight Owens (14.9) won separate heats in the 120-yard high hurdles. Owens' time went as the third best of the day.

In the pole vault, Kevin French equaled his lifetime best, soaring 15-feet for first place, while Walt Scroggy was third with 14-feet.

In open division competition, it was USC as a team and sprinter Steve Williams individually that impressed.

APC outpoints Chapman, Pt. Loma

Azusa Pacific outpointed Chapman and Point Loma in a twin-meet while Cal Poly dropped a dual meet with Long Beach State and La Verne lost twice in a double dual with Redlands and Whittier in college track and field Saturday afternoon.

Azusa Pacific's Dennis Caldwell set a school record in the mile, winning the race with a time of 4:12.0, and teammate Mike Aguerre threw the shot a school record 47-7½, as APC scored 81 points to Chapman's 73½ and Pt. Loma's 26½.

Cal Poly fell to Long Beach, 102-42, but the Broncos came through with firsts in the mile relay (3:20.5), the 449 run (Ron Stewart, 50.2) and seconds in the pole vault (Mark Kegan, 15-feet) and Dave Yates in the 100 and 220 and Russ Rebold in the shot put (49-10¾).

The Broncos were missing 12 athletes in the competition and coach Fred Jones said, "Taking nothing away from an outstanding Long Beach team, the people we had missing definitely hurt us."

Former Chaffey College star Keith Goldie tossed the javelin 229-feet, 3 inches to help beat the Broncs. Other top by Long Beach came from Stan Brewer in the long jump (23-5½), Maurice Valentine in the triple jump (47-7½), Bill Heitchew in the high jump (6-8) and Paul Richards in the pole vault (15-3).

La Verne was on the short end in scoring to Whittier (49-94) and Redlands (34-111), but Dana Lanier won the shot put (43-10½) and the discus (125-10) and Richard Fishman took the pole vault (13-6).

The 10-man squad includes three players from New Jersey.

Stanton lifts Angels to 4-3 win over Chisox

Chicago took the lead in the fourth but the Angels tied it in the seventh when Morris Nettles singled, stole second and came home on Tommy Harper's hit.

The Angels wasted a golden opportunity in the sixth when singles by Bruce Bochte and Chalk put runners on first and third with no outs. Wood retired Stanton on a pop-up, Rodriguez on an easy foul and Remy on a grounder to get out of it.

"Lee redeemed himself with the homer," Williams said. "He was swinging for the fences in the sixth when he should have been going to a grounder to the right side of the infield. Instead, we ended up with no runs."

Stanton said he hit one of Wood's Knuckleballs. "It was low and in," he said. "I usually hit him pretty good. I sure was trying for the fences. It was the perfect opportunity for it."

ANGEL ANGLES — The season's first doubleheader is on tap today at 1 p.m. with Bill Singer testing his back in the opener followed by Frank Tanana in the nightcap. Chicago will counter with veterans Jim Kaat and Stan Bahnsen.

The Angels are hitting .326 as a team with Chalk, Harper and Remy all at .400 or above.

California has the youngest infield in the American League with Bochte (24), Remy (22), Ramirez (24) and Chalk (24) averaging 23.5. Montreal and San Francisco equal it from the National League.

'Hens split in SCIAC track meet

P-B Correspondent

Pomona College sophomore John Armstrong bettered his own school record in the mile and won the three-mile handily Saturday afternoon, but Occidental downed both Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd in a triple dual track meet held at Pomona's field.

Armstrong's 4:11.0 clocking is the year's sixth best mile time in the NAIA. The Cal Poly transfer earned a distance sweep with a 14:16.9 mark in the three mile in his first attempt at that event.

The three-team meet was scored as three separate dual contests. Pomona-Pitzer made a respectable showing against perennial SCIAC track champion Occidental, holding the powerful Tigers to a 95-30 victory.

Claremont-Mudd was soundly trounced by both opponents, as the Stags fell to Oxy, 124-19, and to the Sagehens, 115-29.

Occidental won 12 events while Pomona-Pitzer captured five and the Stags were shut out. Besides the two distance events, the Sagehens had the top finisher in the 440, the high jump and the javelin.

Bill Taylor turned in the fastest 440 of the day at 48.5, his best time of the year. John Douglas won the high jump by two inches at 6-4, while Bob Orell won the javelin throw at 217-2. Orell's toss was six feet longer than that of Oxy's Fred Carpenter, the NAIA's top javelin thrower, who has recorded a heave of 241-4 this year.

Steve Smith of Pomona-Pitzer finished second in the 120 high hurdles and third in the 100 and 200.

Malcolm Cleary of Occidental turned in a time of 1:51.5 in the 880, giving him the NAIA's sixth best performance of the year in that event.

CMC's top finisher was Billy Nash, who captured second place in the 100.

Occidental won both the 440 and mile relays, with the Sagehens second and the Stags third.

Pomona-Pitzer will compete Saturday at the Warrior Relays in Santa Barbara, while the Stags will not run again until the MSAC Relays, scheduled for Saturday, April 26.

Leos struggle to win twice from Whittier

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

The Leopards, 3-3 in the conference and 9-12-1 overall, scrambled to defeat the Poets 5-3 and 3-1 behind Dan Quisenberry (5-5) and Tim Kelly (4-4).

But, hitting in their own comfortable ball park, the Leos were out-homered, 4-2, and netted only 14 hits in the two games. They left six runners stranded in the first four innings of the first game and eight stranded in the first four innings of the second.

"We still aren't getting the runs home," said coach Ben Hines quietly. "We just can't get the big hit like we should. The pitching has been better than I expected, but we aren't cashing those runs in."

The Leos were lucky to get two runs in the first inning of the first game.

Paul Fleming started it with a one-out single and Nick Leyva beat out an infield hit. Colin Danielson then gave up three walks and a wild pitch. The Leopards got two runs, but they left the bases loaded.

Wayne Redfearn, who went 0-for-6 for the day, flied out. Rich Fielder, who went 1-for-6 and never got the ball out of the infield, grounded out.

The one exception to the Leos' futility is Nick Leyva. Leyva had four hits in eight at-bats for the day including a home run and double.

It was Leyva that cracked a homer after Fleming walked in the second. Jim Sherman homered to open the La Verne fifth. But Jimmy Lentine and Dan Graham, who drew walks, were stranded.

Quisenberry pitched a six-hitter but was touched for solo home runs by Ray Sheffield, Wayne Manza and Dave Nyberg.

Kelly's pitching was the highlight of the second. The slim sophomore struck out nine. The only Whittier run came on Ralph Lemon's homer.

La Verne scored in the first on Lentine's single, a walk to Fleming and Leyva's double. Mike Pagnotta's single, an infield out and Sherman's single made it 2-0 in the second. Graham homered to open the seventh for an insurance run.

Phillips eyes PamAm games lifting title

Pomona policeman Marv Phillips will be after two world records and a shot at the 1976 Olympics this week when he competes with the American powerlift team in the weightlifting portion of the Pan American Games at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Thirty-five countries will send teams to the competition which begins Tuesday and runs through Saturday.

Phillips set a world record with a squat lift of 733.5 pounds and was second in the mid-heavy (225) division competition with a three lift total of 1,828 pounds in the world AAU powerlifting championships at York, Pa. last November. His goal in Puerto Rico will be to break both marks with an 800-pound squat and a 1,900-pound total.

A good showing in the competition will give Phillips momentum for the 1976 Olympic trials which is the stepping stone to the Olympaid in Montreal next summer.

Phillips, 31, is the resource officer at Ganesha High. He is a long time resident of the valley and resides in Alta Loma. Phillips graduated from Pomona High in 1962, did a hitch in the Navy and attended Mt. San Antonio College.

The Pomona Police Officers Association has partially sponsored Phillips in other competition and has contributed to defray the cost of the trip to Puerto Rico.

College baseball roundup

Stags widen lead

It was either win or lose, there were no splits in NAIA baseball doubleheaders Saturday.

Claremont-Mudd walloped Caltech twice, 15-0 and 13-0. Pomona-Pitzer dropped two to Redlands, 4-0 and 5-4. Azusa Pacific beat USIU twice, 12-3 and 10-3.

In Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (SCIAC) action, Claremont-Mudd (8-1) extended its lead to a game and a half. The Stags now have won 10 of their last 11 games overall and eight straight in the conference.

Joe Maiberger (5-3), freshman Geoff Hueter and sophomore John Williams combined on a no-hitter in the first game. Maiberger went the first four innings. Hueter and Williams hurled one inning each.

Meanwhile, Stag batters were blasting the Engineers for 12 hits including home runs by Jon Begerow and Bob Turek, a triple by catcher Bob Marmaduke and doubles by Andy Roundtree, Matt Perry, Brad Koppel and Bob Ingram.

Norm Richards (6-1) and Pat Carrigan allowed just three singles in the second game. The Stags pounded out 13 hits including a homer by Steve Lopez and triple by Al Golad.

At Redlands, the Bulldogs scored three runs in the second inning and one in the fourth to beat Pomona-Pitzer in the first game. Biff Sherman got the only hit off winner Mike Savage.

In the second game, the Sagehens (2-4) committed four errors and two of the Redlands' runs in the 5-4 loss were unearned.

Marty McKenzie led the 'Hens attack with three hits including a double. Nick Dialynas had a solo homer.

Chris Dialynas, Kim Aguirre and Greg Holden singled in the other runs.

The Sagehens, now 6-9 overall, play cross-campus rival Claremont-Mudd next week. Tuesday's game is at C-M. The Stags play two at Pomona Saturday.

In San Diego, Azusa Pacific pounded USIU pitching for 11 hits in each game. The Cougars improved their season record to 17-12.

Brad Kramer was the big gun on the attack. Kramer, the former Chaffey High and Chaffey College star, had five hits and drove in eight runs.

The husky third baseman had a bases loaded triple and two singles in the first game. In the nightcap, he belted a two-run homer and a single.

In the second game, Paul Moskau (4-3) struck out 15 and was tough in the clutch. Moskau yielded seven hits and walked 10 but held the Westerners to single runs in the first, fourth and fifth innings.

The Cougars will be at home Tuesday for a game with University of San Diego.

San Dimas led local track teams entered in the Bishop Amat Relays, scoring 27 points as both Damien and Walnut were held to almost nothing Saturday at Mt. San Antonio College.

The Saints started in good form, with Barry Franklin winning the 120 yard high hurdles with a time of 15.5 in his heat. Shelley White finished third in his for the Saints.

San Dimas took second in the two mile relay, finishing behind Los Altos, who won the event with a time of 8:14.9.

Damien's Lorenzo Hearns raced to a third in the 100.

The Saints 440 yard relay team came in second behind South Hills.

In the 880, it was Saint Joe Duenas racing to a time of 2:00 to win. In the same heat Walnut's Tim Ball took third.

In the field events, John Peterson high jumped for a Saint third. Jeff Field's long jump of 22-11½ was good enough to earn second for San Dimas.

The powrhouse Notre Dame spikers dominated most of the events and ran away with the team title piling up 100 points. West Covina finished second with 63 points.

Notre Dame's Bruce Rocheleau set a new meet record in the 880, flying to a time of 1:55.6, bettering the old mark of 1:55.8.

The Broncos were trounced 7-0 in the first game and were edged in the second, 4-3.

Poly is now 2-2 in CCAA play and 8-15 overall. The Broncs return to action Tuesday, hosting Long Beach State.

Designated hitter Ken Hellyer was the lone bright spot for the Broncos, he collected three hits in six at bats. Jim Prior doubled in two runs for the Broncos in the second game.

Salary arbitration

Newest ballgame

NEW YORK (AP) — Add baseball player to the distinguished class of American working stiff, which includes the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker. Baseball, that national pasttime loaded with tradition and conservatism, has become, in effect, a closed shop.

Take a look at your favorite major league roster. That hard throwing pitcher, earning $100,000 a year, he's a union man. So's the squat fellow, crouched behind the plate. And the scared rookie sitting on the bench, he's just paid his union dues.

Today's stars of the past, present and future are brothers in the same work force, all card-carrying members of probably the most effective union organization in sports history—the major league baseball players association.

A union man would "jeopardize the relationship players have had with the owners in the past, which has been great," Frank Bolling, player representative of the Atlanta Braves, said in 1966. It would be hard to find anyone wearing knickers, knee socks and a major league baseball cap who would agree with him now.

"Marvin Miller is the best thing that has ever happened to the players," Ralph Garr said last February, referring to the same man Bolling was knocking a decade ago.

Garr, the slap-hitting outfielder for the Braves, will be earning some $60,000 more than last season, thanks in part to Miller and the three-year contract he helped negotiate with the owners in 1972. Garr won his increase in salary arbitration, an integral part of that agreement.

Salary arbitration is here to stay. And so is Miller's union.

"I'll give you our proudest boast," the 37-year-old Miller, executive director of the players asscoiation, said in an interview. "The players association has no contract provision providing for compulsory membership. None. But every player in the major leagues belongs to the players association. I kind of doubt you'd find that to be true in any other organization."

And Miller points out that, although only 30 or so players filed for arbitration hearings this year, every member of the association has been touched by the system. And he says all have benefited.

"Whenever you're on the ground floor, there's no place to go but up," Miller said, referring to the system that existed before arbitration was available. "Before salary arbitration, salaries were not set by negotiation. Salaries were determined.

"There was a small amount of flexibility between what an owner would have liked to pay and what he ended up paying," he said. "So when you start from that point, where a player's only alternative to not accepting an owner's salary offer was to find a new way to make a living, and you add the option of impartial arbitration, it's an automatic improvement."

So the salary foundations of the old game have been shaken by arbitration, the new ballgame. A provision of the basic agreement between the owners and the players association allows a player to take an owner to a hearing before an impartial arbitrator, who then must choose either the player's salary figure or the owner's.

More than 30 players filed for arbitration this year. Half of them settled before the arbitration hearing was held. The others went through with the arbitration procedure. Six of them were awarded their salary figure and 10 of them lost their cases. Many people then scored the 1975 arbitration season 10-6 in favor of the owners.

Miller said a new scoring system is needed. "Those boxscores are just the tip of the iceberg," he says. "The result of arbitration is that there is more flexibility in negotiating than ever before. People are aware that it is there, even if they don't use it."

There are cases where players and owners negotiate more realistically and reach a settlement without filing for arbitration, he said. Then there are the cases where the owners and players, unable to settle on a salary figure, both submit figures for arbitration. Several possibilities may then arise.

The opposing parties could find "when they reveal their arbitration figures that they may be a lot closer than they ever dreamed of," Miller says. "That could well result in a settlement. Or they may find the fact that they are close encourages them to sit down and negotiate again."

'Swinging in rain' leaves him cold

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

FOR JUST PLAIN wet, unhealthy golf weather, last week wins my nod. Rain, wind and cold, the enemies of most players, were daily visitors to valley courses,and only the most rugged braved these opponents and played.

Tuesday was a particularly blustery day for golf, but Glendora High's Mark Pailthorpe shot a neat 37 at Glendora Country Club against Covina despite cold, face-pelting rain. It was a remarkable performance.

Most players stayed home during the week, but out at Diamond Bar last Saturday, despite a steady rain fall, I saw two or three groups teeing it up.

Even the best rain player, however, made haste for the pro shop at Marshall Canyon Thursday afternoon when the hardest "downpour in years hit the course," according to pro Bruce Perrin.

Nobody was out on the course.

I've found I don't like playing in cold rain, but I'm getting used to it. I'd like to bring along an umbrella, wear a rain suit, and a funny rain hat, but that Midwest upbringing just won't allow me more than a sweater and a windbreaker.

Then again, I could stay away from the course. Never happen!

THE SIXTH ANNUAL Kiwanis — City of Hope Golf Tournament will be held Tuesday at 12:30 p.m., at California Country Club, Whittier.

"Sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs of the San Gabriel Valley, the tournament will be a shotgun type," said Bill Bellante, West Covina, Lt. Gov., Div. 35, Kiwanis International. "The tournament will be held in both handicap and non-handicap divisions."

Dinner and entertainment will be highlighted by the guest appearance of Billy Barty, TV and film personality.

The entry fee of $50 per person includes green fees, electric cart, dinner and door prizes. Dinner reservation-only fee is $25. The tax deductible donation benefits the City of Hope Children's Leukemia Fund.

BILL PLASMAN made a hole in one at Red Hill during the last, rainy weekend, but before his round was completed he may have wished he had chosen another day to get his ace.

Bill and cronies Bill Sharp, Maurice Johnson and Bob Jensen were playing gin in the clubhouse when the clouds lifted. The four decided to quit the cards and go out and play four or five holes before it started to pour again.

They teed off on the par-three 10th hole and Plasman promptly knocked his drive into the cup. According to the rules though, his ace counts only if it is accomplished during 18 holes of play in the same foursome.

They had no choice so they went on. The quartet had the course all to themselves as they played through the rainy afternoon. Drenched and cold, they completed the round. It was a sterling example of comraderie.

BILLY CASPER will take a month off from the PGA tour this summer to conduct a camp for junior golfers in San Diego.

"I love to teach golf to kids," says Casper, who has nine of his own, explaining why he will pass up four tournaments from mid-July to late August.

Casper will evaluate each camper's game, suggest improvements and conduct clinics during two three-week sessions, July 13-Aug. 1, and Aug. 2-22. Campers, 10-18, who live and practice at the University of California campus in La Jolla, play on courses throughout San Diego County.

A brochure describing the camps is available by writing to Billy Casper's Calif. Golf Camp, 3052 Clairmont Dr., San Diego, CA 92117.

LONG TOM WEISKOPF, winner of seven tournaments in four countries in 1973 and winless in the next 15 months, finally found the groove with a wire-to-wire victory in the Greensboro Open.

Tournament chairman Allard Roen has announced that Weiskopf has become the 29th qualifier for the $200,000 MONY Tournament of Champions, which will be played April 24-27 at La Costa Country Club.

First place is worth $50,000 in this event for which only winners of major tournaments since the last MONY T of C are eligible.

Tournament tickets are $17. Two practice rounds, four rounds of the tourney and free daily parking are included. Telephone (714) 729-9111 for ticket requests and information.

JOE CARAWAY of Laguna Hills has been named National Tournament Director for the National Amateur Golfers Association, according to Ramsey Ewing, president.

The NAGA, with a new format for amateur golfers, will schedule tournaments for men with a 1 to 26 handicap. They will compete in their own handicap flight and compete against each other, rather than against the field. The same format applies for women with 1 to 36 handicaps, so that the best score in each handicap division will be the winner in each tournament.

"We plan to open our 1975 tournament schedule with a 36-hole event at Carlton Oaks CC, near San Diego, on Tuesday and Wednesday, said Ewing.

Information about NAGA and memberships may be obtained from their Hdqtrs., 16897 Algonquin St., Suite D, Huntington Beach, Ca. 92649, (213) 592-1375.

Bowling on the tube: it's far from the worst

By GRAHAM CROW

In Thursday's edition of the Herald-Examiner, Larry Stewart had some interesting thoughts in his radio-TV column.

Giving out his annual "Cavalcade of Sports Oscars," Stewart wrote some things which made us think he knew what he was writing about. Tom Harmon was nominated for the worst play-by-play announcing award, called the Chris Schenkel Emeritus honor, and Stewart was right on target.

Even his three way-deadheat for worst commentator among Oscar Robertson, Dave Gambee and Sonny Hill was received agreeably, although putting Hill down in the same class as Gambee seems a little harsh.

But then Stewart had something which made us all up and take notice, turn red with rage, and almost forced us to stop buying his paper on the regular once-a-week basis which we now indulge.

Ouch!

Time to hire our own gardener and fix up our own lawn, since Mr. Stewart and us will never be on the same side of the fence when it comes to this.

Bowling is far from the worst televised event on the tube. Prove it, you demand. Well, okay, let's jut look farther down in that same column written by Larry Stewart.

According to Dyer, ABC-TV has the top eight regular weekend sports shows on the air in 1975. The list was topped by the Sunday Wide World of Sports, with an average rating of 15.0.

The Pro Bowlers Tour was eighth on the list with a 9.1 mark. That still meant that the bowling was watched by more people than any sporting event seen on a regular basis put out over NBC or CBS.

For example, NBC golf and CBS pro basketball had 8.8 ratings with others down the list including CBS golf, women's tennis, hockey and WCT tennis seen on NBC.

Bowling hardly seems to be the worst televised sporting event. For building up suspense on the eventual outcome, in fact, bowling would rate higher than any other TV'd sport.

The Professional Bowlers Association has been on ABC-TV for 14 years now, making the bowling tour the second longest running event aired by the number one network in sports. Only collegiate football has been on ABC longer for a regular basis.

The success of the Pro Bowlers Tour is not just luck, but is made possible through the brilliant thoughts of a few original PBA members.

The normal format of a PBA event is altered for the TV shows. Normally, a tournament does not have the final step-ladder type roll-off seen each Saturday afternoon at 5:30 p.m. where the fifth bowler bowls the fourth, with the winner tangling number three, etc.

Unlike any other sporting event, the eventual winner of a bowling tourney is never known until the end of that final match, usually around five minutes before the end of the show.

Now this certainly seems more exciting and interesting to watch than a golf tournament where Johnny Miller has a 13 shot lead over the field coming into the 15th hole.

And the bowling is a heck of a lot more entertaining than the Boston Celtics blowing out Pete Maravich and his New Orleans Jazz by 25 points with the fourth quarter starting.

So we must disagree with you, Mr. Stewart, bowling is not the worst televised sporting event today. Even a mechanical, unemotional Earl Anthony is better than log rolling or wrist wrestling.

TARS...

Next Saturday will be the first chance for bowlers wishing to win a spot in the Sun-Telegram PBA Regional Open, to be held at Del Rosa Bowl in San Bernardino on May 16-17-18.

At midnight, Saturday, Del Rosa will stage a 10-game sweeper with up to seven spots on the line for the PBA event. Entry fee is $20 with only PBA members and checks being turned away.

Several locals fared very well in tournaments last weekend. In the American Bowlers Association biggie at La Mirada Bowl in Orange County, Montclair's Wayne Hockersmith made the finals for the second time in a row and wound up third for a healthy $275. Ron Grigsand Gordy Lindfors just missed the top 16.

In the Mini-Tour's Non-Finalist Tourney Sunday at Chino Bowl, Dave Johnson, from the desert area, picked up the first place prize of a wrist watch and $50. He edged Frank Wilcox in the final game after these two had gone 1-2 in the qualifying. With the loss, Wilcox settled for sixth and $40.

SPEBSQSA to salute Pappy Boynton

Choruses and quartets from Southern California chapters of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America will gather at Griswold's auditorium in Claremont Tuesday night to salute the society's oldest member, Edmund C. "Pappy" Boynton, Claremont real estate dealer. He is 96.

"Boynton's Barber Shop Birthday Bash" is open to the public without charge. Honoring the venerable singer will be the Carousel Chorus of the Pomona Valley chapter of SPEBSQSA, the Pomona Valley Sweet Adelines and groups from half a dozen other chapters.

Boynton was born in Townshend, Vt., April 24, 1879, one of five children of a school principal. He came to California in 1887 and has lived in the state most of his life. He was the youngest member of the class of 1900 at Pomona College, where he sang in the choir and glee club. He has sung in choirs, choruses and ensembles all his life, and was a charter member of the barber shop chapter—also historian, bulletin editor and official greeter. In 1955 he was named Barber Shopper of the Year.

SBVC singers slated on Montclair series

The San Bernardino Valley College Concert Choir and Chamber Chorale, under the direction of Jack E. Andriese, will present a concert at Montclair High School at 8:15 p.m. April 24.

This is the fourth event of the Montclair Starlite Series offered free by the city.

The Concert Choir, consisting of 60 voices, has undertaken numerous concert tours throughout the West. It performs the classic choral repertoire from all musical periods, Palestrina to Poulenc, as well as works in the popular vein, Bernstein to Bacharach. The 20-voice Chamber Chorale is chosen from the Concert Choir. The singers interpret the more intimate choral masterworks such as the Brahms "Liebeslieder Watzes" and Mozart's chamber pieces.

Andriese is an associate professor of music at the college. He received his master of music degree from the University of Redlands and has studied choral conducting with many well known musicians, including Howard Swan and England's David Willcocks. Choral accompanist is James Garner.

Diamond Bar artist shows at library

The wax intaglio process is one developed by Schulz, and is, he states, an entirely new method of print making, employing a wax plate or block and a combination of water, ink, poster paint and enamel. No machine is used in pulling the finished print. Pressure is applied in transferring the image from plate to paper only by the artist's hand. Because of the declicate nature of the wax plate, only a very few prints can be made from each plate.

The finished prints are exceptional for their brilliant coloring. Schulz states that "the wax intaglio artist should use all colors of the rainbow, much the same as a musical arranger uses musical notes to create his music, in order to produce an everlasting piece of art."

Schulz is a native of what is now East Germany. Following World War II, he studied commercial and fine arts in West Germany.

Betty Ford sculpture

A retrospective exhibition of the sculpture of Claremont artist Betty Davenport Ford is on view through May 27 at the Downey Museum of Art, 10419 S. Rives Ave. Gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

The display includes 71 works in bronze, aluminum and terra cotta by the internationally known sculptor. They are drawn from her own collection and loaned by private collectors.

"It's the largest group of my work ever assembled," said Mrs. Ford. The exhibit covers the period from 1941 to the present.

Mrs. Ford was raised in Ontario and graduated from Chaffey High School, for which, many years later, she created the massive tiger mascot that now dominates the approach to Spring Auditorium. She received her bachelor's degree from Scripps College in 1946 and a master of fine arts from the Cranbrook Academy of Art, Michigan, in 1950.

Her work is in many public and private collections throughout the United States, and she has won prizes in many exhibitions, from the Los Angeles County Museum of Art to the National Academy of Design in New York City. Her pieces, mostly animal figures, are done on commission. Articles on her work have appeared in the American Artist, Pottery and Glass, Christian Science Monitor and other periodicals.

Art association to hear lecture on stitchery

Martha Menke Underwood, Chaffey College art instructor, will give a lecture and demonstration on weaving and stitchery at a meeting of the Chaffey Community Art Association at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

The meeting will be held in the museum of the Chaffey Community Cultural Center, 523 W. 18th St., Upland. Admission is free.

Mrs. Underwood studied art at the Brandt-Dike School, Chouinard Art Institute and the Los Angeles County Art Institute. She received her B.A. degree from Scripps College.

Her work includes designs for stained glass windows, tapestry designs woven in Aubusson, France; greeting card designs, creative stitchery and mosaic murals as assistant to Millard Sheets.

Among her many awards are the award for outstanding achievement in graphic arts from Scripps College and the award for outstanding achievement in design, also from Scripps.

Besides teaching at Chaffey College she also gives instructions in creative stitchery to private groups and organizations and teachers "Design Through Creative Stitchery" in adult education classes in Monrovia, Pomona and Claremont.

Books and magazines which have shown her work are Creative Stitchery, Off Loom Weaving, Art for Today's Schools and Art News Magazine.

La Verne set for Bicentennial coin sales

Sale of La Verne's Bicentennial coins will begin Tuesday under Chamber of Commerce direction and its Bicentennial Committee.

Chairman Robert G. Harris said he placed an initial order for 3,500 bronze coins to be sold for $3.50 each and 600 silver coins at $12 each, plus tax, with Earl Butler and Associates of El Monte, manufacturers.

Coins are the creation of Carol Belcher of La Verne whose design was judged best at a contest last July 4.

Harris said the coins are part of the paraphernalia which will be used by the city to observe the nation's 200th birthday next year. The Bicentennial committee also will have cloth patches, chain on which to hang the coins, and plaques.

The first of the Bicentennial plaques was presented to the city by Harris this week. It bears the Bicentennial coins.

A highlight of the Bicentennial celebrations will be the purchase of an exact replica of the Liberty Bell which hangs in Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

Harris said only 100 bells are being made — two for each state — and that La Verne has been assured purchase of the bell by the acceptance of a deposit by the White Chapel Bell Foundry of London, England.

The only other city in the state to obtain a bell is Bakersfield. By the time it is made and shipped here, it is expected to cost the community about $20,000.

Payment for the bell is being advanced to the chamber by the city. But to make sure the city gets its money back, the loan was advanced this week to the chamber with the understanding that it would be returned with an "appropriate rate of interest."

"We want to emphasize," City Councilman Harrison Sanborn declared, "that we are not using city funds to buy the bell. We expected to get every cent back with interest."

Harris told him that he saw no problem in collecting money from the community both through the sale of coins and through donations.

"If necessary, I, myself, will buy the bell," he told the council Monday night. "Rest assured, the bell will be worth much more than the $20,000 we're spending on it."

The bell will stand five feet tall and 12 feet wide, and will be heard eight miles away when it is hung in a steeple, Harris said. It is expected to arrive here next winter.

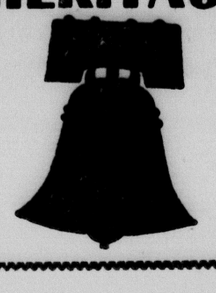
Seniors Bicentennial fete

Senior citizens from eight or more cities will meet in Ganesha Park in Pomona May 2 for picknicking, dancing and other social amenities.

The occasion is the second annual Pomona Valley Senior Citizens' Picnic Day spearheaded by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with the recreation departments of other cities.

Besides Pomona, other participating cities are La Verne, San Dimas, Claremont, Ontario, Chino, Upland and Montclair. Another possible participant is the City of San Bernardino.

OUR HERITAGE



The annual event, endorsed by the Pomona Bicentennial Committee will be from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Entertainment will be provided by a number of groups, including Girls Unlimited and the Pomona Community Chorus.

Dancing to the music of "The Two of Us" is scheduled from 10 a.m. to noon.

Tables will be set up for crafts demonstrations.

Senior citizens planning to attend are requested to bring sack lunches. Coffee will be furnished.

RECREATES RIDE — Present Day Paul Revere Dino DeCarlo, stands in front of a statue of Revere near Old North Church in Boston. DiCarlo, of Newton Falls, Mass., will recreate the famous ride 200 years ago on April 19, when he follows the same path next Saturday as part of Bicentennial.

Walnut will reconstruct adobe building

City Council has appropriated $6,500 for the project at the request of Walnut's Bicentennial Committee.

The committee plans to hold a contest to find a name for the new park, now temporarily known as Lemon Creek Historical Park.

Committee members are preparing a budget to fund Bicentennial activities and events for presentation to the City Council.

Subcommittees have been formed to direct the reconstruction as well as social, historical, school, inter-valley and publicity facets of the celebration.

Those working on the various planning committees are Ron Way, chairman, Virginia Wittich, treasurer, Vic Sewell, Ed Nettell, Danny Bashaw, Judy Scraba, Sharon Grimpe, Frank Baker, Jeanine McCune, Andy Lazzaretto, Leonard Westhoff, Larry Grant, Rosalinda Wagner and Vern Lawson.

Camp Fire Girls stage Bicentennial festival

About 1,000 girls from the Camp Fire Girls, Mt. San Antonio Council, will stage a dance festival May 3.

Festivities will carry the theme, "Days of the Golden West," and are endorsed by the Pomona Bicentennial Committee.

The program will be held at the Mt. San Antonio College stadium and will begin at 1:15 p.m. with entertainment by the Pomona Concert Band.

Half-time entertainment will be provided by square dancing and Mexican folk dancing groups. Miss Elizabeth Zilles, Pomona Centennial queen, will be guest of honor.

The program, open to the general public free of charge, is being held to demonstrate the council's involvement in the U.S. Bicentennial and as a 100th birthday salute to the City of Pomona.

Weekly Wall Street

Market is reassured; revives and rallies

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, reassured for the moment on the outlook for interest rates, revived its early 1975 rally this past week with its biggest weekly advance of the year.

And with a final rush of buyers in the last two hours Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average climbed to an eight month closing high.

The widely followed average of 30 blue chips gained 42.24 for the week to 789.50, its highest finish since it closed at 797.56 last week Aug. 7.

The last time the Dow turned in a better weekly showing was last Oct. 7-11, when it racked up a record 73.61 gain.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 3.30 to 84.18, and the New York Stock Exchange composite was up 1.63 at 44.61.

Wall Streeters generally agreed the tone for the week in stocks was set by the bond market, which had encountered some heavy going the week before under the pressure of the big federal budget deficit.

The question on investors' minds was simply whether the bond market could handle the heavy borrowing demands of the government and corporations, which seemed in a rush to stock up on money.

Thus, when bonds began a rally Tuesday that lasted into Thursday morning, the investment community heaved a collective sigh of relief.

And stock prices, which had registered their sixth consecutive decline on Monday, took off on a sharp four-day advance.

Analysts said the bond market was not necessarily in the clear as yet. But talk of a possible imminent collapse in the long-term credit markets at least had subsided.

The Dow's gains were more emphatic than those registered by some of the over-all market indicators.

The NYSE count of advancing and declining issues, for instance, showed a comparatively moderate spread between gainers — 1,372 — and losers — 667 — among the 1,993 traded.

In fact, the Dow benefited from some particularly sharp gains in the old-line basic industry issues, or "the smokestacks," as one Wall Streeter recently dubbed them.

In chemical issues, for example, Du Pont soared 12 to 113 and Union Carbide gained 5 to 60⅜.

IBM, a glamor favorite on Wall Street, managed a 7-point gain to 205 despite some selling after the company's report Thursday that its first quarter earnings barely showed a gain over th comparable period of 1974.

But some other glamors which had been strong the week before fell back in profit taking. Walt Disney Productions lost 1 to 49½ and MacDonald's eased ⅛ to 47⅛.

San Francisco revives Gold Rush steam beer

ANCHOR STEAM BEER PRESIDENT FRITZ MAYTAG DRAWS ONE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Had any steam beer lately?

If you have, you're a connoisseur of an unique libation — or just plain curious.

Steam beer is a legacy of the California gold rush, and it has held onto a tenuous existence in these modern times.

Steam beer—a strong, nutty flavored brew—is peculiar to San Francisco and is held in affection by old and young.

At one time there were 27 steam beer breweries in this city but only one remains. It is Anchor Steam Beer Brewing Co., which is preserving a tradition and quenching an exotic thirst.

Fritz Maytag, 36, a scion of the Iowa washing machine family, rescued the ancient brewery—smallest in the United— from closing a few years ago and has expanded its production from 600 barrels a year to 6,000. (Coors beer produces about 10 million barrels.)

Anchor Steam beer, which used to be sold only in a few San Francisco taverns, now is distributed in other parts of California and in Arizona, Nevada and Colorado.

With San Francisco thronged with thirsty men in the 1850s, there was a great demand for beer. But it was difficult to produce because the lager process required fermentation and aging temperatures near freezing.

There were no large quantities of ice available, so steam beer, which could be fermented at Bay Area temperatures of 60-65 degrees, was developed.

What makes steam beer so different from the light beers which prevail in this country today?

"It's simply beerier," Maytag said in an interview at the brewery, situated in a factory area south of Market Street.

"It's more like an English ale. We use more hops than American beers and most European beers. We use nothing but barley malt. It's kind of like homemade bread compared with bakery bread."

Maytag said steam beer drinkers tend to be younger people.

"They are people who have traveled in Europe, liked the beer there and when they got home they were disappointed that we didn't have beer like it."

The nostalgia craze also has directed attention to steam beer. It is becoming more readily available in bars and liquor stores.

"What we are trying to do," Maytag says, "is to brew a very traditional beer, using the old-fashioned materials of brewing in as much conformity with the old-fashioned style as we can."

Incidentally, steam has nothing to do with brewing the beer. It refers to the pressure building up in the barrels and tanks during the process of natural carbonization.

Most of Anchor's beer is sold in bottles. It costs about 50 cents a bottle, compared with 60 cents for imported beers and 30 cents for premium domestic beers.

Anchor grossed about $500,000 in 1974, Maytag says.

With the taste for steam beer spreading—steadily if not spectacularly—Maytag plans to boost production about 30 per cent this year.

By home buyers:

Home tax credit sparks interest

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The prospect of a tax credit of up to $2,000 for buying a new home has sparked interest among potential purchasers, but builders and bankers say many people are confused about the strings attached to the bonus.

"We've had a lot of inquiries this week, but not much activity because the ground rules are so sketchy," said John Davenport of the Home Builders Association of Richmond, Va..

Davenport and other industry officials contacted in an Associated Press survey said there have been indications for several weeks that the housing business may be picking up.

A recent report by the F. W. Dodge division of McGraw-Hill said that February statistics on building contracts "show a solid gain in single-family building." Mortgage rates also have been declining recently and savings and loan associations report more money available for home financing.

B. N. Berggren, a Topeka, Kan., builder, said interest in home buying already was "back to normal" and he predicted that the tax credit would boost business still further.

William T. Leonard, executive director of the Associated Building Industry of Northern California, agreed. "The $2,000 tax credit will be the catalyst that will get not only the housing industry, but also the entire real estate and home building industry going again."

Leonard said his organization was preparing a list of eligible houses in the San Francisco area. He said he got numerous calls for information after President Ford's weekend signing of the tax bill.

Ray Lovell, head of a Miami building firm, said, "We've had good action because of it (the tax credit). We've had about five prospects that came out of nowhere and they're very definitely serious."

Murdock McPherson of McPherson Realty in Seattle, Wash., was even more enthusiastic. "It's going to take every house finished or started and in about 60 days, they'll all be gone," he said.

Many Realtors said buyers and builders alike were confused. J. C. Whisnant of Block Realty Co. of Little Rock, Ark., said he had received "a lot of inquiries, but I don't have many answers because I'm not sure how the thing works."

The law gives taxpayers a credit against 1975 taxes of 5 per cent of the purchase price of a new house up to $2,000.

The home must have been under construction by March 26; the purchase must be made or agreed to between March 12 and Dec. 31; and the homebuyer must attach to his tax return a certificate from the seller stating that the sale was made at the lowest price at which the new house was ever offered.

The credit applies to new homes, mobile homes and living units in condominiums and cooperative housing projects. In order to qualify, the homebuyer must be the first occupant of the house and it must be his principal place of residence. The purchaser of a summer home, for example, would not be allowed the credit.

Eric Winterhalter, vice president of the Buckeye Federal Savings & Loan Association in Columbus, Ohio, said he had received several questions about the credit, when it takes effect and what type of housing is involved. In Utah, Art King, the executive vice president of the Homebuilders Association of Greater Salt Lake, reported "innumerable calls from the general public asking what this means."

Elam Huddleston, vice president of a Louisville, Ky., realty firm, commented: "Even people in the business don't know what the legislation actually means."

Joel Palmer, the president of Noel-Palmer Mortgage Co. of Nashville, Tenn., said he had not noticed any increase in loan applications as a result of the tax credit. "We've had a couple of inquiries about it, but no direct applications," he said. "I think the public isn't aware of the value of the bill as far as they are concerned."

A small contractor in Manchester, N.H., said the credit might help a little, but added that people still seem reluctant to buy houses. "I think people are afraid," said Leopold J. Laberge. "They don't know what's coming . . . They're not sure of their jobs."

A few bankers said they had not had any inquiries about the tax credit and expressed surprise. "I would have expected at least some inquiries," said Harriet Huber, home mortgage officer at First National Bank of Chicago.

Deciding to sell or keep home not an easy decision

Deciding whether to remain in your present home or sell it and buy a new one isn't an easy choice to make, said Walter Arnold, presdent of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

And its particularly difficult one for senior citizens, to whom such factors as location, climate, social and personal privacy, neighbors, nearness to shopping, public transportation and other facilities, and proximity to children, other relatives and friends are especially important.

"Those in the 65-plus age bracket face a critical decision. Their children have grown and left home and they find themselves living in a dwelling that is too large," he noted.

"Those who can afford it may choose to retain their present home and lease it while they rent a house or apartment in another area. But those who can't afford to do so have the options to stay in their present home and perhaps close off a few rooms or sell the family homestead and move into a smaller home or apartment."

How far away to move is also a problem, said Arnold. One survey of elderly persons who sold their homes showed that the 60 per cent who had moved far away from children and other relatives regretted it later. Others who believed it important to be near relatives later wished they had instead moved farther away, perhaps to a more desirable climate, he reported.

"Another study — one conducted by a team of USC researchers — revealed that the 1,700 persons surveyed almost unanimously preferred to be surrounded by people of the same age, social class and ethnic background rather than to live near young children.

"Still another problem is that selling a home is often psychologically difficult for senior citizens, who have developed strong emotional attachments to their homes. Some may even wish to pass the home on to their children as a legacy."

But, difficult though it is, selling a home can mean tax advantages. If a senior citizen uses his home as his principal shelter for five of the eight years prior to sale, he can exclude from gross income any capital gain from the first $20,000 of adjusted sale price, which is the gross amount of the sale minus the brokerage fee, he said.

An elderly person who sells his principal residence and purchases another primary home within a year can defer his capital gain tax liability if the adjusted sale price of the old house is not greater than the cost of the new. And if the new residence costs less than the sale price, the tax is based only on the difference — providing it isn't greater than total gain.

"It's important for older couples to understand and consider these tax matters — as well as to weigh the significance of such factors as climate, recreation-leisure opportunities and proximity to friends and relatives — in order to find the most satisfactory solution to their housing needs."

34 robberies enough; he'll close grocery

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The last corner grocery store in a Minneapolis neighborhood is closing this week because its owner says 34 robberies are enough.

"I've had it," said Russell Backer, 47. "Luckily, no one has ever been hurt, but I think the odds are against me now."

Program begins:

Homes are still a good buy

The housing industry is organizing a major effort to restore public confidence in the purchase of new homes.

After so many months of depressing news about the housing situation, the public must be made to realize that mortgage money is now available, interest rates have come down from their peaks, and there are many housing bargains to be had, said J. S. Norman Jr., of Houston, Tex., president of the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

He called on NAHB's 600 local and state affiliated associations to join in a concentrated marketing effort during April to dispose of the large inventory of unsold new homes.

"Thousands of new housing units, including condominiums, remained unsold during the past two years of tight money and high interest rates resulting from the Administration's anti-inflation monetary policies," he reported.

The thrust of the campaign will be through local effort in local markets. NAHB has prepared and made available to its affiliates a kit of information to aid the home buyer in making his decision. The theme will be "New Homes Month — Buy Now."

Already, many builders are moving ahead with aggressive marketing campaigns and are offering attractive incentives to home buyers. The full effect of this nation-wide marketing effort is expected to be seen through the Spring and into the Summer and Fall.

"We feel that the consumer must have as many facts as possible in order to make an intelligent investment in his family's future," Norman said.

Owner finds solar energy sufficient

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The owner of a solar energy house built in Connecticut lives there three or four days a week.

Except for one week in December, enough solar heat was generated during each winter week to take care of the demand over the weekend. In addition to the solar energy equipment itself, other design elements boost the efficiency of energy usage yearround.

Clerestory windows in back of the roof sheds formed by the solar collectors provide natural lighting and ventilation for summer cooling. Roof overhangs protect the one and one-half-story wall of windows facing south from excessive heat gain when the sun is high in summer, yet assist heat gain when the sun is low in winter.

The large window wall also draws attention to the role that windows play in energy conservation. The natural light provided by the window area cuts down on the need for artificial lighting in the daytime. Sliding glass doors and fixed picture windows flanked by operating casements provide ventilation, thus reducing air conditioning loads.

"We've found that windows are very important in solar heated homes," architect Donald Watson says. "Research indicates that a homeowner can expect a minimum of 25 per cent of his annual heating requirements from a well-organized window design facing south with insulating shutters that retain heat inside the house at night."

The windows in the Connecticut house are quality wood window units with insulating glass — two panes of glass with an insulating air space between.

"A top-quality, wood-framed window with insulating glass backed by an insulating shutter to limit heat loss at night," Watson says, "is a superior heat collector to some of the inexpensive solar panels currently available."

"These low-cost panels have just been put on the market," he adds, "so nobody knows how long they'll last. Good windows, on the other hand, often last as long as the house."

What about costs?

"A solar energy system costing $3,500 and providing 50 to 75 per cent of a home's heating requirements would slash $400 to $600 from the annual fuel bill of the average house and return the investment in six to nine years."

(Do-it-yourselfers will find invaluable information in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Housing to be helped by new bill

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., praised legislation recently passed by the Assembly as "pumping new blood" into California's depressed housing industry and providing low-interest mortgage loans to home buyers.

The bill seeks to transfuse $450 million into the economy almost immediately, which will pay off in jobs and better housing for people who can't find or afford a home in the depressed economic climate, he noted.

The measure, co-authored by McVittie, creates a Housing Finance Agency in state government that can provide up to 10,000 new or rehabilitated residential units each year for low and middle income families.

"This clearly is one of the most important bills of the legislative session," said McVittie. "With nearly one million Californians unemployed and 2.6 million receiving some sort of public assistance, we have to take prompt, decisive action to get out of the current recession."

The bill will go into effect 90 days after being signed by the Gov. Edmund Brown. For start-up purposes, the housing program will be financed by $300 million in state-guaranteed bonds and $150 million in federal money.

Similar legislation is moving through the State Senate and the two bills may be mergec into one.

"Right now there simply aren't enough decent homes available. And those that are are priced too high, compounded by fluctuating interest rates. With demand off, the construction work force has been extremely hard-hit. This legislation can create 20,000 jobs in construction each year.

"Housing will not only help produce jobs and decent shelters. Its regeneration will also assist those who sell, finance and furnish them, and others who provide services to the occupants. Eliminating the housing slump can send a positive ripple throughout the economy that will be felt by almost everyone," McVittie said.

Long term plan:

Measures proposed for added mortgage funds

Art S. Leitch, president of the National Association of Realtors, has urged Congress and President Ford's Administration to consider measures that would free the housing industry from "boom-bust tendencies" by giving the mortgage market needed flexibility to attract sufficient funds in any economic situation.

He also warned that large federal deficits, such as those being suggested for the coming fiscal year, could lead to new money shortages and higher interest rates as the government borrows to cover its debt.

"Only a loosening of the Federal Reserve's tight money policies could prevent a severe net outflow of funds from the nation's thrift institutions, economists have predicted," he said.

The association's proposals for the mortgage market are designed for long-term improvements, not short-run emergencies, Leitch noted.

"If the millions of American families who dream of owning a home are to have that dream fulfilled — this year and in years ahead — then some basic changes must be made, permanent changes which would guarantee adequate funds for mortgages at reasonable interest rates."

He listed the following proposals that are designed to supplement and ultimately replace many ongoing measures

—Develop a new short-term, negotiable and highly marketable security backed by conventional mortgages. "This would draw new investments into the secondary mortgage market and enable housing to compete for credit with more liquid and profitable investments," Leitch explained.

—Require pension funds with assets over $10 million to invest at least 25 per cent of their annual increase in assets in residential mortgages or mortgage-backed securities. This would continue until 10 per cent of pension funds total assets are in these mortgages or securities.

—Allow an income tax exclusion or tax credit for depositors in thrift institutions on some portion of their interest earned on savings. This proposal, considered in the past session of Congress, again is being considered in Washington.

—Provide graduated tax credits to financial institutions, pension and insurance funds and others making substantial investments in housing.

—Experiment with variable rate mortgages that are equitable to both borrower and lender. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board also has recommended this. Implementation awaits congressional input and hearings.

—Provide complete FDIC and FSLIC deposit insurance on all public and governmental accounts. This would attract more of this money for home lending institutions.

—Increase the minimum for investment in Treasury securities. "Last year, government competition for investments by small savers occurred at the price of high interest rates to the homebuyer, drawing funds out of home-lending financial institutions.

"With an anticipated deficit for next fiscal year ranging from $52 billion to $89 billion or more, this again could occur," Leitch warned

"Realtors and others in the housing and mortgage market industry are more than capable of meeting the demand for new and existing homes, if we are not continually at the mercy of fluctuations in the economy.

"We need emergency measures today to spur sales of a" homes, but more than that, government should free the housing industry from boom-bust tendencies," Leitch concluded.

Lewis Homes:

Home building still thrives in valley

If President Ford's economic advisers are seeking a bright spot in the nation's construction industry, they might do well by looking to the valley, said Randall Lewis, marketing director for Lewis Homes.

"Homes in our current development projects in Upland are being spoken for so fast we find little occasion to use our 'immediate occupancy' signs," he added.

Lewis believes the sales success is due largely to the firm's research efforts in seeking out the homeseekers' preferences in location and decor features.

"Another factor is we are concentrating on the young executive market as comprising families whose breadwinners are holding high-level positions or are headed in that direction in the business or professional fields."

Those in that category consider fashionable homes and addresses an asset to them in their careers, he noted. Lewis cited as an example the Prestige Series development at San Antonio Avenue and 22nd Street in Upland.

These homes, with up to 2,711 square feet of living area, have such features as refrigerated air conditioning and microwave ovens. They are priced from $53,400.

Buyers have a wide choice of one and two story homes in a variety of motifs. All have cedar shake roofs.

A second Lewis Home project is located at San Antonio and 15th Street, Upland. The three and four bedroom homes are priced from $44,-150.

Single family home sales show increase

Sales of existing single-family homes started to climb upward again last February across the nation, reports the National's Association of Realtors.

The seasonally adjusted index of existing homes sales had slipped to a four year low of 87 in January (1972-100), but rebounded to 97 in February.

"This turnaround—the largest month-to-month gain ever posted in the seven year history of the index—is the first hopeful sign that a housing recovery may be in progress," said Ken Kerin, department director.

He cautioned against reading too much into a single monthly change in the index, but added the magnitude of the national gain and healthy advances being posted in all regions "was encouraging."

By region, existing home sales during February rose 19 per cent in the Northeast region; 11.8 per cent in the North Central region; 11.9 per cent in the Western region; and 9.7 per cent in the Southern region.

"Perhaps we have seen the end to the year-long slump which has plaqued the existing home market," he said. "A primary reason for improved sales figures is that mortgage funds are flowing back into the credit-starved housing market."

A mid-March mortgage market survey found that virtually every area of the nation was experiencing improvement in the availability of mortgage credit.

This was accompanied by modest to substantial reductions in interest rates with keen competition developing among lenders in many areas.

The survey also discovered that down payment requirements and interest rates were being relaxed almost on a weekly basis, with 90 to 95 per cent conventional mortgages reappearing.

These had nearly disappeared from the market according to a survey six months ago.

"Borrowers seeking a conventional loan to finance a new home found ample or moderate supplies of mortgage money in more than 90 per cent of the nation's market areas," said Kerin.

"And only eight per cent of the areas surveyed still were saddled with tight or virtually unavailable mortgage resources."

This is a marked reversal from the situation six months ago when reports of ample or moderate supplies came from just 14 per cent of the areas surveyed, said Kerin.

Citizenship of Gen. Lee step nearer restoration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Robert E. Lee, stripped of his U.S. citizenship rights for leading the Confederate armies against the Union during the Civil War, is a step closer to having them restored, 105 years after his death.

The Senate unanimously approved on a voice vote Thursday a resolution by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, and 19 cosponsors to restore Lee's citizenship. House has yet to act on it.

Byrd noted that Lee had requested restoration of citizenship under President Andrew Johnson's amnesty proclamation after the Civil War ended in 1865. But the required oath of allegiance the general had signed became lost. It was discovered in the National Archives only five years ago.

"Nothing Congress can do will increase his stature, but it is most appropriate that Congress recognize his desires, even at this late date," Byrd said of the general, who died in 1870.

Calls, cables going against Ford proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Telephone calls and telegrams from the public to the White House were running against President Ford's South Vietnam proposals in his Thursday night foreign policy speech, a presidential spokesman said Friday.

Callers to the White House immediately after Ford finished his speech around 10 p.m. were about "50-50" in their comments for and against the speech, Assistant Press Secretary Larry Speaks said. He said the White House switchboard was jammed by almost 2,000 calls in the first two hours.

From midnight to 10 a.m. on Friday, the telephone calls were counted by the White House as 294 against and 253 in favor of the President's proposals, Speaks said.

Speaks said there was a heavy backlog of telegrams and no accurate count on them, except that they were "running against" the speech proposals.

Toyota sales in U.S. drop

TOKYO (AP) — Toyota Motors Sales Co., the marketing arm of Toyota Motor Co., said Friday its auto exports in March totaled 58,204 units, down 17.9 percent from a year earlier.

Toyota Motor Sales Co., also said its auto exports this year may go below the initial estimate because of a world wide recession.

Projected exports to the U.S. have been revised downward to around 220,000 units from the original of 250,000 units, the sources said. Toyotas auto exports to the U.S. totaled 313,000 units last year.

Transit firm's deficit less than expected

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Transit Corp. expects to lose $2.3 million over the next five years, manager Tom Prior says.

Prior's projection Wednesday was 86.4 million less than the deficit predicted last month by Asst. City Manager Mike Graham.

Prior said his projected deficit was less because he anticipated the bus company would receive more federal aid and state subsidies than expected by city officials.

Prior said his estimates included expenditures for expansion of the bus company, which operates municipal bus services in San Diego.

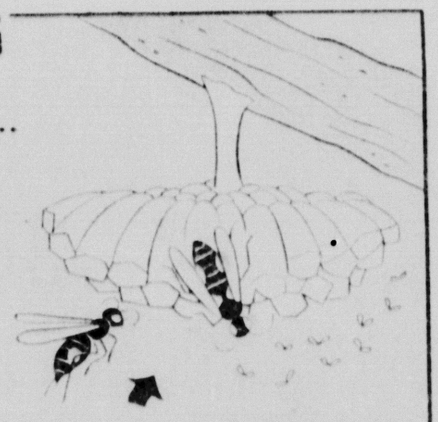
PAPER WASPS...

THE PAPER WASP MAKES ITS PAPER NEST BY CHEWING TINY PIECES OF WOOD. THE PULP MIXES WITH THE SALIVA IN ITS MOUTH. THE WASP THEN SPITS OUT THE WET PULP AND SPREADS IT INTO A THIN SHEET. WHEN THE WET PULP DRIES, IT BECOMES PAPER.

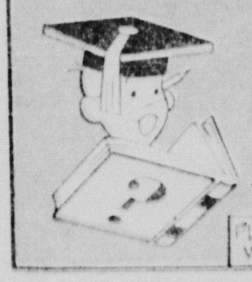


COLOR THE PAPER WASPS' NEST GRAY WITH A PENCIL

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

JEFFREY HITCHENS OF FT. MYERS, FL, ASKS:

"WHY DID INDIANS LIVE IN TEPEES?"



TEPEES WERE THE HOMES OF THE INDIANS WHO LIVED ON THE GREAT PLAINS. THESE PEOPLE WERE NOMAD HUNTERS WHO LIVED CHIEFLY ON THE MEAT OF THE BUFFALO. BECAUSE THEY HAD TO MOVE OFTEN TO STAY NEAR THE WANDERING BUFFALO HERDS, THEY PREFERRED SIMPLE SHELTERS THEY COULD CARRY EASILY. THE TEPEE, WITH ITS FRAMEWORK OF POLES COVERED WITH ANIMAL SKINS, COULD BE PUT UP OR TAKEN DOWN IN A FEW MINUTES.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Now that they are going out of style, don't discard those very short dresses. You can hem them and use for everyday wear as blouses or wear with pants or skirts. — ANGELINA

DEAR POLLY — After giving baby a bath, new mothers will find they can put lotion on baby and dress him much faster, if they have put the plastic bottle of lotion in the tub of warm water while baby was getting his bath. — PAULETTE

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her — this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — We had wanted a dispenser with hand lotion in it in our kitchen, so when one of those mustard jars with a dispenser top was empty, it was cleaned, some flowers cut from adhesive-backed paper put on it and then filled with lotion. — JENE

DEAR POLLY — I use zip-lock plastic food storage bags to protect silver items. This keeps them tarnish-free for long periods. — SHARON G.

(Polly's note: Plastic dry cleaning bags loosely wrapped around silver also do a good job, but NEVER, NEVER use plastic wrap that clings and might be smoothed over a piece of silver.)

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for dampening stamps. I call it my stamp licker. I cut a thin round of foam to fit into an empty compact. When dampened, it's great for moistening stamps. I painted a happy face on the mirror. — GEORGIA

DEAR POLLY — My daughter, 5, is always asking how many more days 'till an approaching special event. We make a paper chain with a link for each day remaining. Each day she pulls off a link and thus visually learns how to understand the passing of time. — BRENDA

DEAR POLLY — I recycle my panty hose into three parts. First, I cut them off to make panties to wear around home. When the feet are good, I make anklets to wear with slacks. The knee sections are cut into roughly 4-inch sections, soap pieces are slipped inside and the ends tied. These are used for washcloths. Being a bit rough, they work fine. — H.P.

DEAR POLLY — I had a white crinkle patent handbag that would not come clean. I washed it thoroughly, removing all polish. After drying, I applied shoe polish, dye in circles, so there'd be no streaks and, when dry, rubbed to a shine. I left the clean handles and sidefolds white. The dye even holds up in the rain! — LILLIAN Astrology reveals - Mary Tyler Moore and Rhoda were destined to reach super stardom after 30!

By Tom Kennedy

Don't trust anyone over 30 – to make it big? It sure hasn't stopped 37 year old Mary Tyler Moore and 34 year old Valerie Harper. Astrology proves that you don't have to be a teenager to be a successful part of today's youth-oriented society.

Mary's horoscope shows that her big success was destined to come after 30, due to the movement of Saturn. Saturn crossed the position it occupied at the time of Mary's birth around her 30th birthday. This powerful planet position produces a spectacular situation which gives great strength to a person's past efforts. In Mary's case, her endeavor to reach real success. Today she is considered TV's newest tycoon, certainly evidence of Astrology's accuracy!

Astrologers have questioned the compatibility of Mary and Valerie. Seemingly, Mary's earth sign, Capricorn, and Valerie's fire sign, Leo, are not harmonious – until a closer look is taken. Then, it is seen that both have the Moon and Venus in the 8th house in water signs, Cancer and Scorpio. This tends to upset the imbalance of earth and fire by overpowering the rays with love and emotion.

But still their personalities are different as night and day. Valerie is a rebel with many causes. She even telegramed President Ford protesting his pardoning of Nixon and is well-known around the White House. She's been involved in picketing various establishments while Mary is pretty much establishment herself. Uranus in Valerie's 7th house is responsible for this side of her nature and pushes her to fight for what she believes.

Valerie wonders if she has the discipline for stardom. She says, "I have the desire to goof off!" It's that old devil Moon in her 8th house that gives her this streak of laziness but according to all indications, she has little to worry about!

Mary Tyler Moore and Valerie Harper are over thirty but by no means over the hill! They are super stars today and things look bigger and better for the future. Astrology predicted it all!

ASTROLOGY AFFECTS US ALL

Mary Tyler Moore and Valerie Harper are not the only people affected by Astrology. Because you were born, you yourself have a unique natal horoscope, different from all others. I'll show you what it can mean to you by using another celebrity for my example.

Sonny Bono is a typical outgoing, nonconforming Aquarius. His horoscope didn't predict real financial success until after 30 either. When he made his first million, Astrologers warned against an investment he wanted to make. In spite of these warnings, Sonny put his money into two movies that turned out to be box office disasters and lost everything. But he wasn't to be kept down. In just five years he was again a millionaire and vowed never to invest without the approval of his Astrologer. Sonny's horoscope showed that his breakup with Cher could have been avoided. Luckily, it also predicted that they'll be back together again soon.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY

How does your natal horoscope work? An astrologer will chart the positions of the sun, moon, and eight planets as they appear above your place of birth at your exact time of birth. The placements and angular relationships of these bodies make up your natal chart. This means that someone born at the exact same time as you, but in a different city, will have a different chart.

The written interpretation and analysis of your natal chart is called your natal horoscope. Astrology is not fortune telling and your horoscope does not cause things to happen to you. Your horoscope analyzes your personality, and then tells you what things are most likely to happen. But remember, your free will can override events in your life, if you put your mind to it.

As you've seen from the examples I've given you, some of the most famous people used their horoscope to reach success; but in other instances ignored it and faced failure. There are thousands of different ways to achieve wealth, love, success and happiness.

A good example is Euell Gibbons, the naturalist, whose interest is plants. He has published several books and appeared on the Johnny Carson show. Many people consider him odd. But his career has bought him happiness and wealth.

Each and everyone of us is good at something no matter how odd one's talents may seem to others. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. So why beat your brains out on an area that you're not talented in, when an equal amount of time spent on something you're good at would put you much further ahead. Not only will you get ahead, but you'll be relaxed and happy while you're doing it.

Your horoscope will give you an indepth analysis of your personality. It will point out your strengths and show you how to utilize them. It will also discuss your weaker areas, and allow you to compensate for them.

Because your natal horoscope is such a sophisticated analysis of your personality, it will probe your subconscious mind and seek out your hidden talents. These are the areas where you thought you had talent (writing, E.S.P., sex appeal, public relations, athletics, etc.) but were afraid to try. If you've been waiting for someone to give you a little push, let your horoscope be that someone. It will give you the confidence to start using your hidden talents.

Summed up, your natal horoscope will discuss your personality, lovelife, career, finances, and health. It will help you understand and accept yourself for what you are. It will then show you where your talents lie and set you on a course of self-improvement, self-fulfillment, and true happiness.

As the old saying goes, "You only live once." Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided, like Sonny Bono did? Don't you owe it to your loved ones to seize every precious moment of your life and make the best of it. Why not give yourself every advantage with the added edge of your personal natal horoscope.

For a limited time, during this special research project, you can get your personal natal horoscope for only a copying cost. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process FREE. And you can use your horoscope for a full year on an absolutely no risk guarantee. The article below will tell you how to order your horoscope. For your own sake, please don't pass up this once in a lifetime opportunity.

Limited Time Only Research Project

By John F. Ford

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have a duplicate copy of your horoscope for only $3.00 to cover the cost to make your copy plus 50¢ postage and handling. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process FREE - because of the fact we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of 9 pages, and 3,000 words and will provide you all of the following benefits: (Note: This is our new improved horoscope.)

- Your horoscope will help you understand and accept yourself. It will analyze your personality and explain your strengths and talents in detail. It will also point out your shortcomings and advise you on how to improve.
- Everyone of us has hidden talents just waiting to be tapped. Your horoscope will discuss your hidden talents (sex appeal, E.S.P., writing, athletics, public relations, etc.) and show you how to cash in on them.
- Your horoscope will give you an indepth analysis of your love life. Personally tailored advice on how to enjoy a more fulfilling sex life will be offered. You'll be told who you're compatible with and why and shown how to find romance. Once you find it, your horoscope will help you keep it burning hot.
- Your horoscope will instill confidence in you by showing you what you're good at. It will place you in the proper frame of mind to begin a program of all around self-improvement.
- The types of jobs and careers that you are best suited for will be listed. You'll be told which careers will bring you success and happiness and which jobs to avoid.
- Your financial future will be covered. Your attitude towards money and the best ways for you to make money will be discussed.
- Areas of your body which may pose health problems are pointed out. Tips on dieting are also offered.
- Your marital and family relationships are analyzed with emphasis on getting along with your mate, your children and your relatives.

There's no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster through your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

When casting your horoscope, we conform to the strictest scientific principles. First the longitude and latitude of your place of birth will be charted down to the hundredth of a degree. Then any time changes due to World War II will be taken into consideration. Finally your longitude and latitude and exact time of birth will be key punched into our gigantic IBM 370 computer, which contains over 24 million bits of authenticated astrological information. No two horoscopes produced by our computer are ever alike. Your horoscope will carry your name on every page and will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone. So you can be sure that your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in paperbacks.

A similar horoscope could cost up to $250 if done by an astrologer. But THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH to this offer. I need this information for my astrological research. I'm looking for certain planet configurations from the people who mail in birth information. (People who fit this group can receive extra bonuses by filling out a research questionnaire.)

This research project has appeared in BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS, PARADE, FAMILY WEEKLY, SUNDAY MAGAZINE, LADY'S HOME JOURNAL, REDBOOK, McCALLS, WOMAN'S DAY, and other publications. The response has been tremendous with over 500,000 people now enjoying their natal horoscope. But that's what's so frustrating. We may never be able to run this article again. Inflation has pushed our computer, advertising, postage, and printing costs almost to the point of no return.

So for a limited time, we're gathering all the names we possibly can to finish our research project. If you'd like to help us with our research and take advantage of this special offer by ordering natal horoscopes for yourself, for your family or your friends, simply do this: Send me the name, address, time, date, month, year and place of birth for each person on a piece of paper along with the $3.00 copying cost and 50¢ postage for each horoscope. (If you don't know your exact time of birth we'll use 12:00 noon.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. Name of your credit card B. Credit card number C. Card expiration date.

Mail your orders to the AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION, Research Division, Dept. G–59 4965 West Tusc., Canton, Ohio 44708.

Your natal horoscope is covered by a one year – 365 day – full money back guarantee. If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, President, the American Astrological Association. Telephone me at (216) 478-2171. To avoid disappointment, why not order your horoscope right now, before you forget. Thanks.

The SteadyRider . . . Sears Best Shock

Regular $12

The "SteadyRider" is an all temperature shock with an exclusive temperature-compensating device. No longer will your car ride "rock hard" in cold weather, nor will it ride "mushy" in hot weather.

The All-Temperature Control is a temperature-sensitive device that helps compensate for change in the thickness of shock oil at different temperatures. More oil flows when cold, less when it's hot.

Fits Most American Cars and Many Imported Cars

Low-Cost Installation Available

Guaranteed For As Long As You Own your Car

If SteadyRider Shock Absorber fails due to faulty materials and workmanship or wears out while original purchaser owns the car, it will be replaced upon return free of charge, or the purchase price will be refunded. If the defective shock absorber was installed by Sears, we will install new shock absorber with no charge for labor.

'ON TOUR'

The historic bat and ball involved in Hank Aaron's record-tying 714th home run will now tour the country aboard the American Freedom Train. The classic baseball memorabilia had been loaned to the Magnavox Company by the home run champ so that they could be displayed to sports lovers throughout the country. As part of the Bicentennial Celebration, the Freedom Train will carry historic pieces of Americana to all of the continental 48 states. One of the cars will be dedicated to sports history. Upon learning of this project Magnavox officials felt that many more millions of Americans would have the opportunity to see Aaron's record-tying gear if it were aboard the train. Magnavox executives met with representatives of the American Freedom Train Foundation and made arrangements for the transfer. At a ceremony at the Milwaukee Brewers Spring training camp at Sun City, Arizona, Hank Aaron personally turned over the bat, ball and uniform used on that historic day to Foundation president Jon Foust.

"I originally loaned the gear to Magnavox because I wanted as many sports fans, and particularly the kids, to get the chance to see it. I agree with Magnavox in turning it over to the American Freedom Train so that even more people can get that chance," Aaron said.

JULIE KAVNER: SHE'S NO QUITTER

The day Julie Kavner was notified that she had landed the much sought after role of Brenda Morgenstern, Rhoda's younger sister, in the hit comedy series Rhoda, seen Mondays on CBS (9:30PM) she was busy filing and typing as part of her job as Senior Clerk Typist A, Step 2, Level One at the UCLA Graduate School of Architecture and Urban Planning.

"I always had jobs like that," Miss Kavner points out, "because my role on Rhoda is the first time I've ever been paid to act." It's a startling statement to hear from a young actress whose poise and performances many a veteran would envy. Although Miss Kavner is new to the ranks of the professional actor, her training includes college theatre, the famous Old Globe Theatre in San Diego, where she won the best actress award and little theatre productions in Los Angeles.

"To support myself, I had to take jobs like being a receptionist in a real estate office or a breakfast cook in a sorority house," she says. "Once, I even got fired from a job as a cocktail waitress. The owner said I looked like everybody's daughter and no one wanted to come into a bar and see their daughter."

She goes on to point out that when she auditioned for the new series, it was not the first time she had tried out to be Rhoda's sister. "I auditioned for the part of Debbie for a Mary Tyler Moore episode," she explains, "but they changed the concept of the character and cast another actress." However, when the part of Brenda was created, the producers remembered Julie and called her in.

The impact of performing in a television series seen by millions every week hasn't made an impact on Miss Kavner. "I don't think about the size of the television audience," she admits. "I just think about doing my part as best I can for the three hundred people who sit in the studio audience each week."

Is there much of Julie in Brenda? "Sure I bring myself into the role, it's part of acting," she says. "But if an actress sits around and worries about how much of a character is really herself and how much is the role, she could go crazy." Perhaps the thing that Miss Kavner admires most about the character she portrays is the notion that Brenda is no quitter. "No matter how self-deprecating she may be, she'll never give up on life — she'll never quit." It's a quality that the real-life Julie Kavner shares with her fictional counterpart Brenda Morgenstern.

Acting has been her ambition as long as she can remember. Miss Kavner admits that her parents were not opposed to it but points out that they were worried about the disappointments and frustrations.

Julie, herself, never gave up even when she realized how many talented people descend on Hollywood every day just waiting for a break. And now that the big break for Julie Kavner has come, what's her reaction? "To tell you the truth," she says, "I can't get over the fact that I'm actually being paid for doing the one thing in the world I love most — acting."

'FAVORITE THINGS'

'LAST TO FIGHT'

The dramatic story of Chief Joseph, heroic leader of the last band of American Indians to fight government attempts to force them onto a reservation, airs as a two-hour Special, "I Will Fight No More Forever," on the ABC Theatre, Monday at 8PM. The documented drama deals with the campaign of the Nez Perce tribe in 1877, as it fled 1600 miles across the northwest in a desperate attempt to escape the pursuing U.S. Cavalry and find refuge in Canada. The story focuses on the courageous stand of Chief Joseph and his tribe, and their final unavoidable stand against troops led by General Oliver O. Howard. James Whitmore stars as the general; Ned Romero co-stars as the celebrated Indian chief; Sam Elliott is Howard's military aide, and Linda Redfearn portrays Chief Joseph's wife. Supporting roles of Indian characters are enacted by actors of Indian heritage.

IS THE TREE HOUSE MAKING A COMEBACK?

If 20th Century-Fox Television's two-hour Special for ABC's Tuesday Movie (8PM), "Swiss Family Robinson," becomes a series, Irwin Allen may be responsible for bringing the tree house back into national popularity. Not since "Tarzan," which was popular with the movie-going public for 40 years, has an entertainment world family lived in a tree house. It all started during the pre -World War I silent motion picture days when Elmo Lincoln, playing Tarzan, hauled his Jane up a tree and into his lofty sanctum resting on high branches.

By comparison, the "Swiss Family Robinson" abode exhibits a splash of luxury for Papa Robinson, played by Martin Milner, and his brood. Pat Delany plays Mrs. Robinson, and Michael-James Wixted and Eric Olson are their young sons. Where the Tarzan tree house throughout its motion picture history consisted only of one room, the "Swiss Family Robinson" jungle penthouse has four, plus a veranda with a view through its huge tree and out over the palms to the sea. Besides the spacious family room, there are three bedrooms. The adults sleep in one, the two sons in the second, and the third is for Cindy Fisher who portrays a young teenage girl who has become orphaned by the same shipwreck that has cast the Robinsons on a desert island.

The Robinson tree house is unique in that parts of the wrecked ship are used in its construction. For instance, the main staircase leading to the remote abode is in truth the gangway ladder to a ship. The vessel's lines are utilized as railings for the veranda, and the sea-going anvil is the center of the Robinson's foundry.

Situated near a small waterfall and pond, the Robinsons' nest could be called a cold water flat in that gravity feeds the cool liquid to the house via a long wooden trough. And farther up the tree is a small, but comfortable, crow's nest where the Robinsons often look to the sea for the sign of ships on the horizon that might rescue them from the remote island.

Imagine if "Swiss Family Robinson" becomes as popular as was "Tarzan." It would have a television season run twice as long as "Gunsmoke," which has been viewed for the past 21 years.

ABC Sports will televise exclusive, live coverage of the 1975 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Golf Championship—the richest event in Ladies Professional Golf—from the Mission Hills Golf and Country Club in Palm Springs, California, Saturday (April 19) at 3PM, and Sunday (April 20) at 1:30PM on ABC.

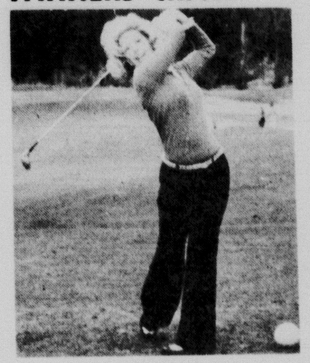
The Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle event, one of the most popular and widely viewed golf tournaments on television, features total prize money of $200,000 with a winner's share of $32,000.

The championship annually attracts some 60 of the world's leading women golfers. Expected to be in the field for the 1975 competition are defending champion Jo Ann Prentice, who won this year in an exciting three-way sudden death playoff; 1972 champion Jane Blalock, who has had another great year in 1974 and ranks number two on the official money earnings list; top money earner Jo Anne Carner; Sandra Haynie, winner of the 1974 U.S. Women's Open; Sandra Palmer, Kathy Whitworth, Carol Mann, Carole Jo Scala, Judy Rankin and Laura Baugh.

Eligible to compete are all professional women golfers who have placed first, second or third in a Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament during the three-year period ending April 1, 1975; all first place winners of the past ten years, and all players who have been elected to the LPGA Hall of Fame.

The winner of the championship will receive a 1975 Chrysler Cordoba automobile and the Tiffany "trylon" trophy, emblematic of victory. Colgate will also award $1,000 for the best round on each day of championship play and another $1,000 for the leader after the second and third rounds. A 1975 Dodge Charger will be awarded for the nearest-to-the-pin shot on the 14th hole during the two days of play televised by ABC. As in the past, Colgate will offer the competitors $5,000 for every hole-in-one during the tournament.

WINNERS CIRCLE?



Dinah Shore will be welcoming the greatest names in women's golf to her $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Golf Championship to be televised live by ABC Sports Saturday (April 19) at 3PM and Sunday (April 20) at 1:30PM. Among the LPGA golf stars who have captured the tourney's rich first prize in the past (and who would like to win the $32,000 first prize this year) are, top to bottom, defending champion Jo Anne Prentiss, Jane Blalock and Mickey Wright.

'TRAGIC HISTORY OF AMERICAN INDIANS'

If Chief Joseph were alive today, he could only have agreed sorrowfully with the group of American Indian leaders who recently turned down an invitation to help celebrate America's 200th birthday next year. The Indians told the American bicentennial agency, according to newspaper reports, that "we have nothing to celebrate."

Who was Chief Joseph? He was the great leader of the Nez Perce tribe, whose military campaign against the U.S. Cavalry in 1877 is still taught at West Point as a "classic in defensive maneuvers." After surrendering to the overwhelming Army forces, he was called to

Washington to plead the Indians' case for freedom before Congress and the Cabinet. When Washington refused to listen, he returned to the reservation that he had tried so desperately to help his people escape. There, he saw his wife and daughters die of malaria and there he died 25 years later, of what the examining physician described as "a broken heart."

Part of Chief Joseph's amazing story, reflecting the tragic history of America's native Indians, is told in "I Will Fight No More Forever," a Special airing Monday at 8PM on ABC. The program, described as "a testament to the greatness of one man," underscores the clash of cultures symbolized by Chief Joseph and the sympathetic General Oliver O. Howard, the two leaders drawn inevitably into a war that neither wanted.

Based on historical fact, "I Will Fight No More Forever" details Chief Joseph's military campaign. In 11 weeks he led his people 1,600 miles across four northwestern states in an attempt to escape into Canada. With only some 300 braves, burdened by their women, children and old people, the Nez Perce fought to a standstill 10 separate Army commands before their final surrender less than a day's march from the Canadian border.

The Xerox special, co-starring James Whitmore as General Howard and Ned Romero as Chief Joseph, concludes with the surrender. And Joseph, already admired by many whites by that time as a military genius and an eloquent spokesman for his people, added to his stature with his actions after the defeat. Striving to regain for his tribe their ancestral home in the Wallowa valley in Oregon, he argued before Congress that "the earth is the mother of all people, and all people should have equal rights to it." And he added, referring to the reservation in Oklahoma to which his people had been banished:

"You might as well expect the rivers to run backward as that any man who was born free should be contented, penned up and denied liberty to go where he pleases . . ." But he argued in vain.

PROGRESS BULLETIN, TV WEEK, APRIL 13, 1975

'PLIGHT OF IRISH IMMIGRANTS'

The principles of America — a nation founded by immigrants — were severely tested in the 1840's when tens of thousands of Irish, fleeing famine and oppression at home found that local laws had been passed to deny them entry at America's major Northeastern ports. Richard Boone, Ray Milland, Fionnuala Flanagan and Ty Hardin star in "The Unwanted," a one-hour drama relating an attempt to smuggle a small band of impoverished Irish stranded in a Canadian wilderness across the St. Lawrence River into the United States. David Huffman plays the role of John Freeborn. The program airing Wednesday at 7:30PM on KTTV, Channel 11, is the third in the series, "From Sea to Shining Sea," produced by John H. Secondari Productions, Ltd. Mr. Secondari, stricken with pneumonia in December while on location for filming of "The Unwanted," suffered a fatal heart attack February 8.

In "The Unwanted" Boone, as American ferryboat captain Horace Banderling, plying the St. Lawrence, allows an Irish priest to persuade him to smuggle a band of immigrants across the river. Banderling is motivated less by compassion and more by the five dollars a head he can earn at the canal site for delivering "half-dollar-a-day Irish diggers."

Among the immigrants are John Ford, a widower who hopes to find a haven for his seven children in Dearborn, Michigan, where his three brothers have settled, and Mary Kennedy, played by Fionnuala Flanagan, who wishes for her unborn child an escape from poverty and the raging threat of typhus. The bedraggled group barely reaches the American shore before it is taken into custody by waiting law officers and hailed before a country judge, played by Ray Milland, to face deportation proceedings. During the hearings and the trial of Capt. Banderling, the reasons for American inhospitability and the roots of the Irish exodus from their homeland are explored.

In the process John Freeborn, a character used throughout the "From Sea to Shining Sea" series to represent the prevailing attitudes of the American "common man" begins to rethink his rigid stance against admitting the Irish. Capt. Banderling, too, recognizes that his motives in attempting the illegal entry went beyond the prospect of turning a profit.

The epilogue: NARRATOR

"In 1848 the courts struck down state laws designed to keep out Irish immigrants. During the next seven years nearly one and a half million Irish legally entered the United States."

Ferryboat captain Horace Banderling, played by Richard Boone, faces trial after attempting to smuggle an impoverished band of Irish across from Canada in defiance of U.S. immigration laws.

SERIOUS NOTE SOUNDED BY BRITISH BELLS

The English take their bell-ringing seriously. So seriously that an expert campagnologist accompanied the production crew to keep an eye — and an ear — on every stroke of the church bells in the TV adaptation of Lord Peter Wimsey's current adventure, "The Nine Tailors." Author Dorothy Sayers knew she was tackling a tough subject when she wrote the mystery being seen on PBS' Masterpiece Theatre on four successive Sundays at 8:30PM, beginning April 13. "The Nine Tailors," church bells that signal death, figure prominently in the series.

No real Englishman thinks much of church bells used just to play pretty tunes, Ms. Sayers learned when she was gathering material for "The Nine Tailors." They think that's "a pastime fit only for foreigners. Englishmen ring changes, mathematical permutations ensuring that no one peal is repeated — the more complex the method of doing it the better." Lord Peter, in the person of actor Ian Carmichael, gets more than a casual taste of these complexities when he gets himself involved in "The Nine Tailors" with bell ringing, to say nothing of a murder and a batch of purloined emeralds.

In the whole of North America, there are only 19 towers in which this kind of bell-ringing is done, according to Alistair Cooke, Masterpiece Theatre's host. "Most of the bells we hear," he says, "are in fixed position, and rung by swinging the clappers. But in Great Britain there are over 5,000 towers whose bells are free-swinging and are pulled by hand. Each bell is attached to a wheel, which is controlled by one man. Instead of ringing the bells in sequence, they are rung according to memorized combinations. With eight bells, the possible changes that can be rung are over 15,000, and would take nine hours."

It took Ms. Sayers two years of painstaking research to become sufficiently acquainted with the art of bell-ringing to incorporate it into her story. "England, alone in the world," she wrote, "has perfected the art of change-ringing and the true ringing of bells by rope and wheel, and will not lightly surrender her heritage."

Doing justice to this heritage in "The Nine Tailors" necessitated some of the hardest research Ms. Sayers ever did, she said. "It included incalculable hours spent in writing out sheets of changes, until I could do any method accurately in my head. Also, I had to visualize, from the pages of instructions to ringers, both what it looked like and what it felt to handle a bell, and to acquire 'rope-sight.' There was, further, a good deal of technical stuff about bell cages, bell inscriptions, upkeep of bells and so on. . . ."

Apparently, Ms. Sayers homework was satisfactory. She was reputedly invited to become vice-president of the Campagnological Society of Great Britain — even though she'd never even seen bells rung until "The Nine Tailors" was finished.

Quiz: How to Keep People Who Bug You Under Control

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON (D–Wash.)

Would you support a bill that the President serve only one term—a six-year term?—C. Hoffman, Waterbury, Conn.

● I'm skeptical of efforts to tinker with such fundamental constitutional institutions as the Presidency. No amount of tinkering can assure that abuses will be eliminated. In fact, such changes may well create new possibilities for abuse. There can be no "quick-fix" substitute for the single most important thing—picking individuals of character and competence for positions of high trust.

FOR EVA GABOR

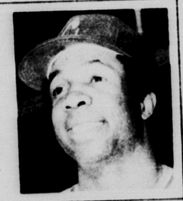
When did you first feel the urge to become an actress?—K.B., Jackson, Tenn.

● When I was four. I used my mother's belt as a top, joined some banana skins together for a skirt, climbed on top of the kitchen table, pretended it was a stage and started to dance.

FOR FREDA PAYNE

How did you get started working for sickle-cell anemia?—Sheila Yvette Harris, Washington, D.C.

● Four years ago, the child of a very close friend of mine died from the disease. At first I felt powerless to do anything about it; but then I realized that as a singer I was in a position to raise money by performing, and to educate the public by talking about this illness during talk-show appearances.



FOR FRANK ROBINSON,
manager of the Cleveland Indians

Now that you've become the first black manager in major-league baseball, would you say you've reached all your goals?—Bob Davis, Havelock, N.C.

● Certainly not. Now I have new goals. I want to win a pennant. Also, I want to live to see the day when I am known only as "Frank Robinson, the manager of the Cleveland Indians," not "Frank Robinson, the first black manager in baseball."

FOR RONA BARRETT, author of "Miss Rona"

Do you have any friends among the stars?—B.B., York, Pa.

● Not too many close ones, although I know them all. Familiarity breeds contempt, and I couldn't have done my job properly if I were bosom friends with each and every one of them. My "Friends List" includes Mae West, Jack Nicholson, Kirk Douglas, Ann-Margret, Fabian and Brenda Vaccaro (if ever a film is made of my life, she's the one I'd like to play me). I have an "Idols List"—Golda Meir and Eleanor Roosevelt.

FOR CLIFTON DAVIS, star of "That's My Mama"

Why are you so reluctant to talk about relationships with the opposite sex on the show?—J. Mack, Durham, N.C.

● I would love to talk about them, but my sponsors don't want me to. In fact, I'd like to discuss lots of things more openly, but I'm not allowed to. I have to stick to the script, and not change the personality of the character I'm playing.

FOR DINA MERRILL

Why does a woman like you, who has a perfect face, use makeup?—Barbara House, Franklin, Mass.

● I don't have a perfect face; it is makeup that creates that illusion. Because I have a square face, I correct my jawbone with a bit of shadow under the chin. I have a prominent bone under my brow. The fashion today is to highlight it. I don't. It jumps out at you anyway in photos. I tone it down with a deeper shade of makeup.

FOR GEORGE BURNS

Why do you mention Altoona so often in your act?—G. W. Steele, Newark, Ohio

● I played there once, a long time ago, and met this beautiful little blonde waitress. After the last show, I took her down by the lake and. . . . I forgot—this is a family magazine. Let's just say I have fond memories of Altoona, Pa. In fact, I'll never forget it.

FOR JOHNNY BENCH, baseball catcher

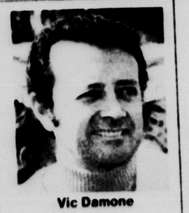
How many gloves do you wear out in a season?—Mrs. Jack Shine, Lima, Ohio

● I usually wear out two gloves during a season. But I always have several gloves around that are in various stages of being broken in.



Vic Damone

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Is Vic Damone still around?—D.L., Hackensack, N.J.

● He sure is. For many years, he stuck mainly to Las Vegas and the West Coast. But he recently made his first New York nightclub appearance in eight years at the Rainbow Grill. Damone was born Vito Farinola in New York. He sang his first song at two, accompanied by his father on the guitar. (Vic's mother was a piano teacher.) His career really started when he won an Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts show. After an Army stint and ten movies, Vic decided to return to and stick with his first love—singing. When he wed Becky Ann Jones in 1974, he brought along four children from previous marriages. He's an avid golfer and boater, has been named one of the nation's ten best-dressed men, designs his own clothes and is interested in billiards, karate and cooking.

Are We Really Doing Anybody Any Good?

By Rep. Jerry Litton (D—Mo.)

Representative Litton in his Washington office. Until he was elected to the U.S. Congress in 1972, he was a full-time farmer and rancher.

Last year, I attended the much-heralded World Food Conference in Rome. But before going there, I took a swing through six African nations to see some of the drought-stricken countries that would have representatives in Rome asking for food aid. I also visited some not-so-poor African nations to see what plans they had for helping their starving neighbors.

By the time I got to Rome, I was filled with ideas about how we should handle the world food situation. What I was not prepared for was the barrage of attacks that was continually hurled at the United States. It appeared to me that many foreign governments, short on memory and long on words, were more interested in condemning the U.S. than in finding solutions to the problem.

Most accused the U.S. of not helping enough. The Committee of 77—a group of nations that started out numbering 77 but that now numbers more than 100—openly suggested that the U.S. owed help to them, and not only should give them billions of dollars worth of aid, but should also write off these countries' past debts.

Nations such as China, who by their own failure to help starving nations could not condemn the U.S. for failing to help, attacked us for helping too much. Their line of criticism suggested that we helped other countries only so we could continue to exploit them.

Listening to this kind of criticism—plus that coming from countries who said we did not help enough—I started to question the success of our foreign policy. You really can't buy friends, can you?

I am not an isolationist. I recognize that we live in a world that is growing smaller every day. I also recognize that the United States has a moral and humanitarian obligation to help others. I have had enough business and political experience to know that helping others is not without its rewards, even if help is not extended with that purpose in mind. Obviously, it is to the advantage of the U.S. that we live in a world of nations whose people are both stable and economically well off.

But one look at America's economy today should tell us that spending and giveaways like those that followed World War II can't continue. At that time, we looked at a destroyed France, England, Italy, Japan and many of the other countries leveled by the ravages of the war and decided we would help rebuild the world, for friend and foe alike.

What we came up with was the Marshall Plan, a mammoth giveaway foreign-aid program. And it was a good one. We were strong and Europe was weak. We had many natural resources and the capacity to produce. We felt an obligation to help other nations and we recognized that they would eventually become good markets for our products.

Well, times have changed. Europe has long since rebuilt. Still, we continue to maintain more than 300,000 troops there. And despite the fact that Japan sells us billions of dollars more in goods than we sell it, we continue to have troops there too.

What I am suggesting is not a policy of isolationism, but one in keeping with the economics of today, rather than a continuation of one developed during a time when the American dollar held a different position in the world economy. Show me a businessman or a nation that can't adjust to changing times, that spends in the bad times as profligately as in the good times, and I'll show you an incipient bankrupt.

"At one point an African leader told me that 'family planning' were dirty words in his country and that America had no right to meddle in his country's internal affairs. I pointed out that 'helping countries unwilling to help themselves' were getting to be dirty words in America."

I visited with the leaders of some of the more prosperous African nations, such as Nigeria, which saw its oil exports jump from $2 billion to over $8 billion in one year and which expects to take in over $16 billion in 1975. I asked its leaders if they had any plans to help their starving African neighbor to the north. I was told they had none.

It appears to me that it is time that developing countries who are asking America for aid start setting a good example by aiding their neighbors whenever possible. And if they aren't willing to do that, at least they should be willing to help themselves instead of taking our aid with one hand and slapping us with the other.

I also remember the World Food Population Conference in August in Bucharest, and the speeches made by some food-short and overpopulated countries such as India. They wanted no part of America's plan to bring runaway world-population increases in check. Instead, these countries blamed U.S. consumers for eating too much and U.S. producers for not producing enough.

World hunger is caused by too many people and not enough food. Bangladesh is a nation the size of Missouri, but by the year 2000 it is expected to have as many people as now populate the entire United States. Its president, Sheik Mujibur Rahman, is concerned over the prospect and the urgent need to find a remedy. In a recent speech explaining why he had expanded his presidential powers, he referred to Bangladesh's current "chaotic situation" and asked: "How long will friends continue to give us food and assistance? We must have population control. We must discipline ourselves. I do not want to lead a nation of beggars."

In 1830, we had fewer than one billion persons inhabiting the earth. In the following 100 years, we added another billion, and in the next 30 years (by 1960) one billion more appeared.

Before: "When you're 180 pounds, you have to grin and bear it—or do something about your weight."

After: "125 pounds! As you can see, I did something about my weight."

She had five children and lost 63 pounds.

How Shirley Badders got fat having 3 babies, took it off, then slimmed down even more having twins.

By Ruth L. McCarthy

Shirley is quite a woman. You could even say she's a knockout! Poised. Articulate. Clothes-conscious. Happy with her husband. Proud of her five children. Why, she's even eight pounds slimmer and almost one inch taller since the last time I saw her. Perhaps because she's standing straighter these days. Whatever the reason, Shirley Badders has come a long way in the past three years.

At our first meeting, she had lost 55 pounds —or what she liked to call her "shame fat." You see, Shirley had come from a large family, so she had learned to cook enormous meals. When she married, in her teens, she had a dreadful time getting used to cutting down on the amount of food she cooked. If it wasn't all eaten, she'd feel so ashamed about wasting good food that she'd stuff herself with it.

As a result, each time she became pregnant, she had to wear maternity clothes in her second month. By the time her third child was born, Shirley was carrying around 180 pounds — mostly from the waist down. Why it was almost impossible for her to find pantyhose to fit. So she wore regular stockings with the fat bulging over the top.

Actually, it was a party joke about her "hungover" knees that finally jolted Shirley into doing something about her weight. Luckily, she remembered that her mother had once used those reducing-plan candies, Ayds®, and with great success. So Shirley picked up a box of the vanilla caramel kind at a drug counter and started on the plan. She took one or two Ayds before each meal with a hot drink and they really helped her cut back on what she ate. They even helped free Shirley from the late-night sandwich trap, and she was able to go from 180 to 125 pounds.

Although Shirley said little about her marriage during that first meeting, there were problems. Unfortunately, they didn't go away even after she'd slimmed down. So eventually Shirley and her husband separated.

During my recent meeting with Shirley, I learned she had married again. And happily so to Larry Badders. When I admired the way she'd kept her weight down, Shirley smiled and said that Larry had never seen her heavy, except when she was pregnant with their twins. And even then, she apparently had held her weight down. Because Shirley told of a sightseeing trip to Rock City when she was seven months "big," and she was still able to squeeze through Thin Man's Pass.

Interestingly, Shirley weighed only 121 pounds the day she left the hospital (in Muncie, Indiana) with the twins. And at this writing she is now a trim 117 pounds. "I no longer have to worry about willpower," said Shirley. "Thanks to the Ayds plan, the willpower is 'there' now."

Your words certainly are an inspiration to all of us, Shirley. With five children and a figure as trim as yours, you've got to have something going for you. Must be those Ayds!

Now: "As the mother of five, I decided to put on a body shirt so you could see my slimmer-than-ever figure—117 pounds."

Food Giveaways

Continued

A fourth billion has probably been added by now (1975), and a fifth billion is expected by 1985. Most estimates suggest a world population of 6.5 to 7.5 billion by the year 2000. At this rate, by the end of the next century we will have 37 billion people on this earth!

Most of the food-hungry countries not only are experiencing their biggest population growths, but seem to be the least interested in doing anything about it. Each time I suggested family-planning programs to high officials of African nations, I was met with critical frowns from my hosts and raised eyebrows from our embassy officials. At one point an African leader told me that "family planning" were dirty words in his country and that America had no right to meddle in his country's internal affairs. I pointed out that "helping countries unwilling to help themselves" were getting to be dirty words in America and that asking us to give away food at a time when we were experiencing our greatest food shortage in 40 years was meddling in our internal affairs.

"Most accused the U.S. of not helping enough.... China attacked the U.S. for helping too much."

Because of the inelastic demand for food, a one percent reduction in supply in America can result in a four or five percent increase at the retail level. A five percent reduction in supply can increase consumer food prices by 25 percent. And inelasticity works against producers as well as consumers. If steaks were five cents each, for example, you still wouldn't eat 50 for lunch. Thus, food surpluses drive prices down for the producer just as severely as slight shortages drive them up for the consumer.

It was with all of this in mind that, upon my return from the World Food Conference, I introduced a bill in Congress that limits America's nearly $1 billion yearly food giveaways to those countries that meet us halfway in solving the problems of world hunger. Our "Food for Peace Program" (Public Law 480), which was passed in 1954 when we had huge surpluses of grain and millions of idle acres, no longer works. Our graineries today are empty, and most of our idle acres have been put into production. We will give, yes, but recipient nations must do their part. That means they must put more emphasis on their own agriculture production. It means they must build irrigation ditches instead of A-bombs when their country is filled with starving people. And it means that if they want large families, fine, but they can't say that we have an obligation to feed them.

My bill specifies that no Public Law 480 funds will be used in the future to give food to countries whose populations are growing faster than the world average if such countries are not making reasonable efforts to put forth family-planning programs. Exceptions would be made for short-term emergency situations.

Is this a coldhearted approach? I don't think so. Nor do I think it is inhumane. I think it is far more humane to put recipient nations on notice that world-population growth is going to have to be slowed now. If it isn't, and we wait, millions of starving people will learn of the necessity of limiting population growth the hard way.

A Postscript: Surprisingly, my bill has received strong support from religious and social leaders who one might have thought would have opposed it. Many newspapers, including President Ford's hometown paper, The Grand Rapids Press, have given my bill editorial support. It remains to be seen what kind of support it will have in Congress. My bet is that if it were put to a vote before the American people it would pass by an overwhelming majority. Perhaps if this same majority speaks up to its representatives, Congress will pass it too.

THE GENIUS OF CHARLES M. RUSSELL

A LIMITED EDITION ON FINE RIDGEWOOD CHINA

The Western Collector Plate Series

Charles Russell roamed the early American range as a hunter, trapper and wrangler—and also as a poet, painter and sculptor. Along with Frederick Remington, he is considered a genius among Western documentary artists. Few American artists have received the acclaim given to Charles Russell both during his lifetime and since his death in 1926, and fewer artists have had their works loved as much.

Charles Russell saw, participated in, and portrayed in vivid artwork, one of the most colorful periods in American history. He even worked as a night wrangler for a dozen years so that he had all day to paint and sculpt, but it was not until he met Will Rogers, who was a fan of his, that he was persuaded to work at his art full-time.

The finest examples of his great paintings have been chosen for these four magnificent Limited Edition Collector Plates. 8½" in diameter with 24Kt. gold rims, they are on the finest Ridgewood China and although they are supposed to sell for $85.00 for the set of four—your Special Price from Joy's Limited Editions for the next 4 weeks (or until we're sold out) is only $60.00. Here is one series that every American will be proud to own.

Special Travel Report

1975 A Big Bicentennial Year, Too!

FAMILY WEEKLY and the U.S. Bicentennial Office of the National Parks Commission put their heads together to come up with a travelers' guide to some of the most important and interesting Bicentennial-related events for this "pre-Bicentennial" year. Our conclusion: 1975 is perhaps as big a year for celebrating 200th birthdays as 1976 will be. See if you don't agree.

The first major event of the nationwide celebration, and certainly among the most historic, is the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and Concord in Massachusetts. The "shot heard around the world" was fired on April 19, 1775. The townspeople of each town—Lexington, Concord and Lincoln—plan to commemorate the historic occasion next weekend with typical New England Patriots Day parades. Concord's festivities begin at 5 a. m. on the 19th at North Bridge—located in Minute Man National Historical Park. The parade will pass there at approximately 10 a. m., and there will be appropriate ceremonies honoring those farmers who took the irrevocable step that led to a new nation.

Redcoats and patriots will march again in many Park Service living-history demonstrations.

The Second Continental Congress convened at Philadelphia on May 10, 1775. It was an eventful day. After almost 14 months of deliberation, that congress issued the Declaration of Independence. This May 10, 1975, the convening of that historic body will be commemorated in Independence National Historical Park. Call the park for the exact time—it is an event you shouldn't miss.

Meanwhile, a continent and an ocean away, in Hawaii, three National Park Service sites are celebrating with a series of unusual programs. Idyllic City of Refuge National Historical Park on the Kona Coast is featuring a living history based on the native culture of the Islands during America's colonial period. At Haleakala National Park on Maui, site of the famous 10,023-foot volcano, the beautiful Seven Pools section has a living history planned on ancient Hawaiian taro farming.

Three of our best-known patriots will lead the Bicentennial tribute in the two Disney parks.

HOW THE FOLKS AT DISNEY ARE CELEBRATING OUR BIRTHDAY

A Bicentennial celebration would not be complete without two of America's favorite characters—Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck. Along with sidekick Goofy, they will star in a spectacular salute to America's history, "America on Parade." This colorful and almost continuous procession will debut this June at both Disneyland and Walt Disney World, and will be staged daily at both locations through September 6, 1976. Officials of Walt Disney Productions estimate that more than 25 million people will view the parade during the 15-month period. This will break all records for attendance at any production in the entire history of the U.S.!

Aside from the old Disney favorites, an entirely new family of characters is being developed, the "People of America." These larger-than-life dolls, together with hundreds of live performers, will highlight a pageant that traces America's glorious achievements and contributions to world progress. This monumental celebration promises to make history fun for old and young alike.

In keeping with the grandiose Disney tradition, a myriad of other events is planned at both the California and Florida parks, among them: A special one-week salute to every state in the Union, a new version of the widely acclaimed film "America the Beautiful," and a unique and thoroughly patriotic "Fantasy in the Sky" fireworks display.

Bicentennial Year

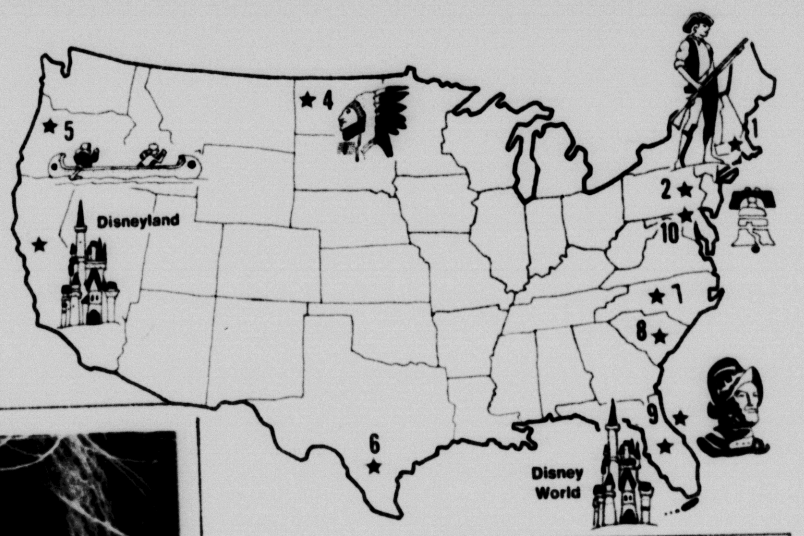
At Hawaii Volcanoes National Park on the "big island" visitors will enjoy special demonstrations of lauhala weaving, the making of grapefruit poi and ancient hulas. If you wish, you can even receive instruction in ancient hulas and the old Hawaiian language.

The Bicentennial is being honored in many different ways in every state. In North Dakota, for example, from May through September both Fort Union Trading Post National Historic Site and Theodore Roosevelt National Memorial Park are featuring unusual Indian living-history demonstrations, especially of such artistic crafts as bead- and quillwork, painting and leatherwork.

At Oregon's Fort Clatsop National Memorial this summer you can discover the frontier life-style of Lewis and Clark during their famous exploration of the West. While down in Texas at Fort Davis National Historic Site there will be a special old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration—frontier cavalry style.



Locations of some important 1975 Bicentennial events: 1) Lexington and Concord, Mass.; 2) Philadelphia, Pa.; 3) Hawaii; 4) two parks in North Dakota; 5) Fort Clatsop, Ore.; 6) Fort Davis, Texas; 7 & 8) battlefields in North and South Carolina; 9) St. Augustine, Fla.; 10) Washington, D.C.

Historically speaking, there are five key Revolutionary War battlefields in the South: Moores Creek and Guilford Courthouse in North Carolina and King's Mountain, Cowpens and Fort Moultrie in South Carolina. They will conduct living-history demonstrations all summer. Lesser known but just as exciting to visit is Castillo de San Marcos National Monument at St. Augustine in Florida. It is the oldest masonry fort in the continental United States—construction by the Spanish started in 1672—and was built to protect the first European settlement. A British stronghold from the end of the French and Indian War in 1763 through the Revolution, the fort this year will feature special living-history programs this summer emphasizing the little-understood but vital Loyalist views held by so many Americans of the day.

One of the major events of 1975 Bicentennial celebrations will be found at Washington, DC., from June 25 through July 6. This is the ninth annual Festival of American Folk Life held on the 50-acre mall between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. This one will be the biggest ever. It is being cosponsored by the Smithsonian Institution and the National Park Service, and it will feature a number of folk cultures, a kaleidescope of exhibits and demonstrations tracing our nation's roots and traditions.

As with all these remarkable events in 1975, the folk festival is a celebration of the links with our heritage—the real roots of America. What better way to honor and enjoy our Bicentennial than that?

"On March 18th, I switched to the rich flavor of MJB. Why? Because it's important to me to get a rich cup of coffee everytime. Thank you, MJB."

Grow Your Own Strawberries

And Enjoy All You Can Eat Fresh

With Plenty For The Freezer , Jams and Jellies

25 for only $1.95

50 for $3.75
100 for $5.95
200 for $10.95

We have been filling orders for strawberry plants at House of Wesley for more than 20 years. It's important to us to offer the hardiest, best producing varieties. And it saves our customers money! We are constantly searching for better ones. The ones that are best for shortcake, freezing and jams. We listen when our customers tell us about the varieties that taste and produce best for them. We also make sure that the plants we send out are especially adapted to your area. Sorry, they cannot be shipped to Arizona.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS IN THE NORTHERN, MIDWEST AND EASTERN STATES we send the extra sweet, giant, ROBINSON strawberry plants. This top-selling variety produces big, juicy, bright red berries. They're so large you can expect to get about 30 berries to the quart. They often grow as big as a plum! This is a firm berry that ripens fast. It is highly disease and drought resistant and winter hardy. The Robinson plant itself is relatively small but very vigorous and high yielding. It is especially adapted for the long fruiting season in the midwest.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS IN THE SOUTH AND WEST COAST STATES we send the new TIOGA strawberry plant. This is an extra-ordinary new university-tested virus-free berry that produces a big flush of delicious red berries from April to July. They are plump, sweet and juicy. The long-producing TIOGA has retained the better qualities of older varieties - - produces more fruit, better flavor and firmness. Don't compare the TIOGA with ordinary varieties.

House of Wesley Plants Are All Indexed Virus-Free

You always get clean, nuclear planting stock. Meristemmed mother plants are held in isolation in University plant pathology greenhouses until indexed as virus-free. This means you get superior fruit, double yields and increased plant vigor.

All Number-One Plants and Easy To Grow

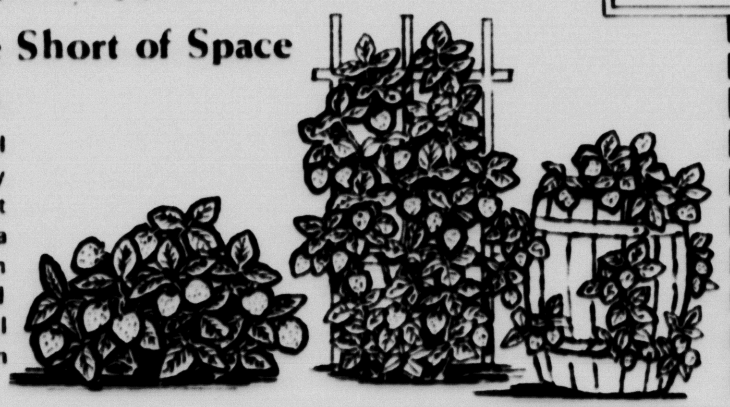
Plant in fertile clay soil if possible. Set plants 18" to 24" apart in 4' rows. They produce lots of new runners to give you a bigger patch every year. PLANTING HINT: For best results plant in new ground where strawberries have not been grown for several years to avoid contaminating these healthy virus-free plants.

Strawberries Should Be Included In Every Home Garden

Even if you don't raise a garden - - you should grow strawberries. They are not hard to grow, yet they probably produce the greatest pleasure of all home grown fruits. Strawberry shortcake - - jams - - and eating fresh from the patch! In these days of high food prices a strawberry patch is an especially good investment. And you don't have to wait years to harvest a crop! Strawberries will supply a full day's allowance of Viamin C. This is more Vitamin C than is supplied by an equal weight of orange juice.

What To Do When You Are Short of Space And Still Want Strawberries

A very small space (as small as 9' x 12') will produce all the berries an average-sized family will need. But if you don't have even a few feet to spare you can still have them. Drill holes in a nail keg, fill it with dirt and put the plants in the holes. This is decorative as well as a good way to grow many delicious berries in a small space. Trellises and strawberry pyramids can also be made when space is limited.



Our Full Protection Guarantee

All plants are guaranteed to be of high quality, and to arrive in good healthy condition or purchase price will be refunded. RETURN SHIPPING LABEL ONLY - - you may keep the plants. (One year limit).

CELEBRITY
Star Portrait
featuring Jackie Onassis

PRESENTED BY THE AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The Nation's Largest Astrological Society"

Millions of words have been written about Jackie. But you won't really know her until you've read about her horoscope.

By Tom Kennedy

Jackie Onassis, possibly the most famous woman alive today. On July 28, 1929, she entered this world as all of us do, a helpless little baby. But Jackie was not destined to be an ordinary individual. Astrologers examining her natal horoscope clearly agree, her only possible fate would be wealth and fame. Now at age 45 this prediction has become more than true. Let's take a look at her natal chart and see why.

Jackie's Cancer lays in the cusp of her eighth house. This indicates that she will marry a man connected with water. Her first husband, the late President Kennedy, was a PT boat captain in World War II and also enjoyed sailing. And of course her current husband, Aristotle Onassis, is a superwealthy shipping magnate.

Her Sagittarian rising sign shows that she prefers foreign countries and people. Her husband, Aristotle, is Greek. And Jackie is known for her jet-setting image.

Finally, the planets Jupiter and Venus symbolize money. The fact that these two planets fall in her seventh house, the house of partners, indicates that she will have a wealthy husband. John Kennedy and Aristotle were both wealthy.

ASTROLOGY AFFECTS US ALL

Jackie Onassis is not the only person affected by astrology. Because you were born, you yourself have a unique natal horoscope, different from all others. I'll show you what it can mean to you by using celebrities for my examples.

Your natal horoscope can help you discover your hidden talents, and give you the confidence to use them. When you think of Marilyn Monroe, you probably picture the standard "dumb blonde" sex symbol. Her horoscope shows that nothing could be farther from the truth. She had the potential to be a tremendous actress and she knew it. Marilyn hated her sex symbol image.

Jean Dixon heeded the advice of her horoscope, and was rewarded with success. Her natal chart showed strong psychic and E.S.P. abilities. She cultivated her talents and is considered the leading psychic of our time.

Your horoscope can advance your career and bring you wealth. A comparison of Robert Redford's natal chart to Paul Newman's shows these two stars to be very compatible. In real life they are very close friends. Their horoscopes also showed that a joint venture would be extremely profitable. BUTCH CASSIDY AND THE SUNDANCE KID and the STING, certainly bear this out. On the other hand, the timing of the movie, THE GREAT GATSBY, and the movement of Robert Redford's planets were in conflict. But he went ahead and made the movie against the advice of his horoscope. Box office results were certainly a lot less than expected.

Your horoscope can bring you love, romance, and improve your sex life. Henry Kissinger's horoscope showed that if he was confident enough, women would overlook his appearance. He used his sex appeal, and dated some of the most beautiful women in the world. His horoscope predicted his marriage to Nancy Maginnes. What is more amazing, his chart told him that if he stabilized his life through marriage, he would be more successful in his Middle East negotiations.

Tommy Smothers is an avid believer in Astrology. He compared his horoscope with his future wife's before proposing. He then got married at exactly 11:58 PM, following the exact instructions of his astrologer.

Sometimes a small change can make a big difference. In Telly Savalas's case, he used his head. His natal horoscope attributes his charisma to his head. He shaved his head for the movie, THE GREATEST STORY EVER TOLD. His TV stardom in Kojak followed sometime later.

THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY

How does your natal horoscope work? An astrologer will chart the positions of the sun, moon, and eight planets as they appear above your place of birth at your exact time of birth. The placements and angular relationships of these bodies make up your natal chart. This means that someone born at the exact same time as you, but in a different city, will have a different chart.

The written interpretation and analysis of your natal chart is called your natal horoscope. Astrology is not fortune telling and your horoscope does not cause things to happen to you. Your horoscope analyzes your personality, and then tells you what things are most likely to happen to you. But remember, your free will can override events in your life, if you put your mind to it. In Jackie's case, she wisely chose to let fate run it's course.

As you've seen from the examples I've given you, some of the most famous people used their horoscope to reach success; but in other instances ignored it and faced failure. There are thousands of different ways to achieve wealth, love, success and happiness.

A good example is Euell Gibbons, the naturalist, whose interest is plants. He has published several books and appeared on the Johnny Carson show. Many people consider him odd. But his career has bought him happiness and wealth.

Each and everyone of us is good at something no matter how odd one's talents may seem to others. Your horoscope will tell you what you're good at. So why beat your brains out on an area that you're not talented in, when an equal amount of time spent on something you're good at would put you much further ahead. Not only will you get ahead, but you'll be relaxed and happy while you're doing it.

Your horoscope will give you an indepth analysis of your personality. It will point out your strengths and show you how to utilize them. It will also discuss your weaker areas, and allow you to compensate for them.

Because your natal horoscope is such a sophisticated analysis of your personality, it will probe your subconscious mind and seek out your hidden talents. These are the areas where you thought you had talent (writing, E.S.P., sex appeal, public relations, athletics, etc.) but were afraid to try. If you've been waiting for someone to give you a little push, let your horoscope be that someone. It will give you the confidence to start using your hidden talents.

Summed up, your natal horoscope will discuss your personality, lovelife, career, finances, and health. It will help you understand and accept yourself for what you are. It will then show you where your talents lie and set you on a course of self-improvement, self-fulfillment, and true happiness.

As the old saying goes, "You only live once." Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided, like Robert Redford with the GREAT GATSBY? Don't you owe it to yourself and to your loved ones to sieze every precious moment of your life and make the best of it. Why not give yourself every advantage with the added edge of your personal natal horoscope.

For a limited time, during this special research project, you can get your personal natal horoscope for nearly a copying cost. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process - FREE. And you can use your horoscope for a full year on an absolutely no risk guarantee. The article below will tell you how to order your horoscope. Limited Time Only Research Project

How to get your Personal Natal Horoscope for nearly a copying cost

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have a duplicate copy of your horoscope for only $3.00 to cover the cost to make your copy plus 50¢ postage and handling. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process FREE - because of the fact we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of 9 pages, and 3,000 words and will provide you all of the following benefits: (Note: This is our new improved horoscope.)

- Your horoscope will help you understand and accept yourself. It will analyze your personality and explain your strengths and talents in detail. It will also point out your shortcomings and advise you on how to improve.
- Everyone of us has hidden talents just waiting to be tapped. Your horoscope will discuss your hidden talents (sex appeal, E.S.P., writing, athletics, public relations, etc.) and show you how to cash in on them.
- Your horoscope will give you an indepth analysis of your love life. Personally tailored advice on how to enjoy a more fulfilling sex life will be offered. You'll be told who you're compatible with and why and shown how to find romance. Once you find it, your horoscope will help you keep it burning hot.
- Your horoscope will instill confidence in you by showing you what you're good at. It will place you in the proper frame of mind to begin a program of all around self-improvement.
- The types of jobs and careers that you are best suited for will be listed. You'll be told which careers will bring you success and happiness and which jobs to avoid.
- Your financial future will be covered. Your attitude towards money and the best ways for you to make money will be discussed.
- Areas of your body which may pose health problems are pointed out. Tips on dieting are also offered.
- Your marital and family relationships are analyzed with emphasis on getting along with your mate, your children and your relatives.

There's no need to worry about finding out about an unavoidable coming disaster through your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

When casting your horoscope, we conform to the strictest scientific principles. First the longitude and latitude of your place of birth will be charted down to the hundredth of a degree. Then any time changes due to World War II will be taken into consideration. Finally your longitude and latitude and exact time of birth will be key punched into our gigantic IBM 370 computer, which contains over 24 million bits of authenticated astrological information. No two horoscopes produced by our computer are ever alike. Your horoscope will carry your name on every page and will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone. So you can be sure that your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in paperbacks.

A similar horoscope could cost up to $250 if done by an astrologer. But THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH to this offer. I need this information for my astrological research. I'm looking for certain planet configurations from the people who mail in birth information. (People who fit this group can receive extra bonuses by filling out a research questionnaire.)

This research project has appeared in BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS, PARADE, FAMILY WEEKLY, SUNDAY MAGAZINE, LADY'S HOME JOURNAL, REDBOOK, McCALLS, WOMAN'S DAY, and other publications. The response has been tremendous with over 500,000 people now enjoying their natal horoscope. But that's what's so frustrating. We may never be able to run this article again. Inflation has pushed our computer, advertising, postage, and printing costs almost to the point of no return.

So for a limited time, we're gathering all the names we possibly can to finish our research project. If you'd like to help us with our research and take advantage of this special offer by ordering natal horoscopes for yourself, for your family or your friends, simply do this: Send me the name, address, time, date, month, year and place of birth for each person on a piece of paper along with the $3.00 copying cost and 50¢ postage for each horoscope. (If you don't know your exact time of birth we'll use 12:00 noon.) If you have Master Charge, BankAmericard, or American Express, you may charge your purchase by sending the following information: A. Name of your credit card B. Credit card number C. Card expiration date.

Mail your orders to the AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION, Research Division, Dept. C-7, 4965 West Tusc., Canton, Ohio 44708.

Your natal horoscope is covered by a one year - 365 day - full money back guarantee. If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, President, the American Astrological Association. Telephone me at (216) 478-2171. To avoid disappointment, why not order your horoscope right now, before you forget. Thanks.

THE HAMILTON MINT

1975 Mother's Day Plate and Medal/Pendant

STRICTLY LIMITED EDITIONS – ORDERS MUST BE POSTMARKED BY MAY 11, 1975

You could not find more fitting gifts to express your feelings than The Hamilton Mint's exquisitely designed and hand crafted Mother's Day Plates and Medal/Pendants. Here are beautiful medallic works of art by master designer Jim Franzen that will become valuable and treasured remembrances of this special day.

FULL 9" PLATE IN SOLID PEWTER AND GOLD ON PEWTER

This lovely plate, "Devotion," painstakingly crafted from solid pewter, a traditional favorite with American craftsmen for over 200 years — beautifully depicts the tender relationship between Mother and Daughter. The superb quality of the bas relief sculpture makes this gleaming proof quality plate an outstanding gift at $30.00.

You may also order this beautiful plate in exquisite 24 Kt Gold layered over solid pewter for only $45.00.

A FINE ART MEDAL

Franzen's masterful work is also available as a superb proof finish medal in stunning .999 fine Silver, the finest and purest available, for only $15.00. You may also purchase this fine medal in two proof finish luxury versions: 24 Kt Gold on .999 fine Silver for $20.00 or in 18 Kt solid Gold (557 grains) for $285.00. All are wonderful gifts and quality collector pieces that will be treasured for a lifetime.

"DEVOTION" PENDANT

For a gift of true distinction and rare beauty, you may choose this elegant "Devotion" pendant in .999 fine Silver with matching chain for $25.00, or in two deluxe editions—24 Kt Gold on .999 fine Silver for $35.00—in solid 18 Kt Gold (557 grains) for $300.00. (Both gold pendants come with a matching gold plated sterling chain.)

EDITION ROLLS CLOSE MAY 11, 1975

So that rarity can contribute substantially to value, this edition will be strictly limited to orders postmarked by May 11, 1975. After those orders have been filled, the minting dies will be destroyed to safeguard the integrity of the edition.

You will receive a registered Certificate of Authenticity attesting to the limited edition status and precious metal content of each piece, and you also receive, a handsome custom display case at no extra cost.

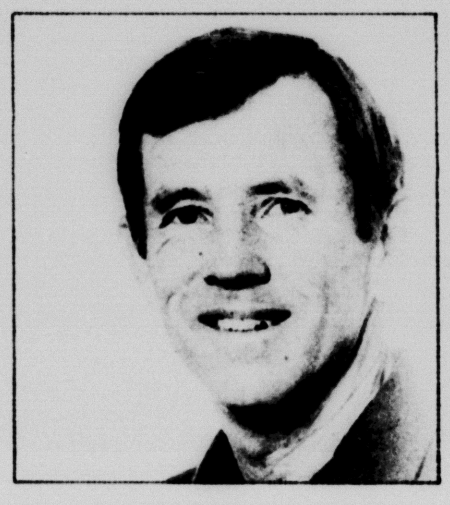
GENE LITTLER:

They Said His Career Was Over—Then He Beat Johnny Miller . . .



When Gene Littler left the pro golf tour in 1972, his career—and perhaps his life—seemed to be over. The agonizing pains in his shoulder and armpit had been diagnosed as cancer. To eradicate the cancer, he had to undergo surgery of the lymph glands. He still remained confident that he could make a comeback. . . . His confidence was justified when he returned to the tour in 1973 and earned $95,000 in winnings for that year and over $100,000 in 1974. His greatest performance came early this year when he won the $37,000 first prize in the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am tournament on one of the country's most demanding courses. The field he beat included the incomparable Johnny Miller. "That Crosby victory proved beyond any doubt that my comeback is both real and lasting," Littler says. "I spent years before my surgery trying to win the Crosby, but I was never able to bring it off."

. . . Littler's career has been studded with victories. He won the U.S. Open in 1961 and won 23 other tournaments before his ordeal with cancer. . . . That ordeal, he says, has some positive aspects. "In some small way, I am able to be an inspiration to a lot of people who have had the same problem I did," he points out. "It makes them realize they can still do many things and be successful." Littler has always been popular because of his easygoing nature, modest demeanor and lack of temperament. His smoothness has earned him the nickname "Gene the Machine." Littler says his "easy-does-it" manner stems from the fact that he refuses to make golf an obsession, "Sure, I like to win, but I enjoy the game. I would never let it devour me." A native of San Diego, 44-year-old Littler has a wife Shirley and a son Curt.

The Doctor Lets You In

Some Facts About That Mysterious Killer, "Stroke"

Presidents Wilson and FDR, John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson and William Howard Taft died of it. Doctors call it CVA, or cerebrovascular accident, but it's usually called stroke. . . . There are different causes but all have one thing in common: Circulation of the blood to the brain is impeded because of a break in a blood vessel or, more commonly, because of a blood clot. What are the symptoms? There may be sudden weakness of muscles or paralysis of one side of the body, or difficulty in talking or understanding. In extreme cases, there may be a coma. Older people are more susceptible, particularly if they have heart disease or have had previous little strokes, and especially—the biggest cause—if they have high blood pressure. Also, people who sleep abnormally long—say, ten hours regularly—are four times as likely to die of stroke. (Why, no one knows.) There is another variety of stroke called the "little stroke." Doctors refer to this as TCI (transient cerebral ischemia, meaning temporary suppression of blood flow in the brain). It is caused by a temporary contraction of a blood vessel in the brain and can create momentary dizziness or unfamiliarity with surroundings, slurred speech or temporary weakness of limbs. People may get a number of these and forget about them. But the danger is that little strokes may be forerunners of big strokes. A study was recently undertaken to find out if one tablet of aspirin daily can prevent stroke. The results are not in yet. But the reason for aspirin is that it reduces the clottability of the blood. And 80 percent of big strokes are due to blood clots in the brain. Only about 20 percent are due to hemorrhage.

People Quiz

Are People Bugging You?

Here's a Short Guide To Self-Defense

True or False: It's not difficult to discourage door-to-door salesmen if you know the magic words. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It's difficult to deal with a relative, friend or pushy neighbor who makes a habit of dropping in around mealtime, thus jockeying himself into an invitation to dinner.
2. The best way to get rid of a bore is to subject him to a barrage of caustic humor or biting wit.
3. There is no easy way to deal with the character who's always coming over to borrow tools or whatever else he may need but is too cheap to buy.
4. It's not difficult to discourage unwanted door-to-door salesmen if you know the magic words.
5. Anyone who has distinguished himself through hard work and accomplishment should not be surprised to find that there are many people who take delight in "bad-mouthing" him.

ANSWERS

1. False. If a relative or acquaintance you don't care for bugs you by frequently dropping in at dinner time uninvited, you can use one of several psychologically tested techniques. You can simply switch the menu, serving the freeloader something he is known to dislike or to be allergic to. If that doesn't work, try seasoning the visitor's portion too generously with salt or whatever. This will make a lasting impression on him and will probably cure him of "just happening to drop in" at the dinner hour.

2. False. As one psychiatrist observes: The typical bore has a faulty sense of humor that makes it difficult for him to appreciate or see the point of jokes or witticisms. It's further noted that "The bore's pompousness and imperviousness to wit are two of the prerequisites of being a bore." Most behavioral specialists are inclined to believe that "bores are not to be gotten rid of except by rough means. They are to be scraped off like scales from a fish."

3. False. The chronic borrower often employs a special technique: He starts in small, then gradually works up to capital items. The first thing he asks to borrow involves such a trivial consideration that you'd feel like a piker turning him down. This puts the chronic borrower in business. Studies at Stanford University show that granting a first small request makes it psychologically much more difficult to refuse subsequent larger ones. Now that the borrower has gained a foothold, how do you cope with him? Simple. You start borrowing from the borrower. He may not have anything worth borrowing, but you borrow it anyway. This tactic disconcerts him, and when you have him off balance, you administer the coup de grâce. "Joe," you say to him, "I've got a real problem. My mother-in-law's threatening to visit us for a couple of weeks and our house isn't big enough to accommodate her. Do you suppose we could borrow that spare room of yours—just while she's here . . . ?" You let your voice trail off here, and you watch Joe's face. As he gropes for words, you know he's gotten the message. He's met the super-borrower and he's out of his league. You can rest assured he'll find someone else to bug with his constant borrowing.

4. True. And it doesn't matter in the slightest what these magic words are—as long as they're in a foreign language. Delivered with an expressive shrug when you answer the door, this will disconcert the unwelcome caller, causing him to seek greener fields where there is less of a language barrier.

5. True. There are two chief ways by which people can give their egos a shot in the arm: by distinguishing themselves through their own talents, or by downgrading and belittling others. Unfortunately too many people take the latter option. If they bug you by their "bad-mouthing," don't let it throw you. Consider it a compliment, for this is the treatment such people consistently reserve for their superiors.

CARY GRANT AT 71
He has only one regret . . .

Cary Grant says: "I feel better today than I did 40 years ago when I was at the peak of my film career." He hasn't made a film in nine years, and yet just mentioning his name still sends shivers up many a woman's spine. Looking fit and much younger than his 71 years, Grant is presently involved in a number of projects, among them, renovating his Beverly Hills farmhouse (which multimillionaire Howard Hughes used to rent when he wanted ultimate privacy and peace). He is not in retirement—in fact, he works at least 12 hours a day as a board director of both the Fabergé cosmetic company and Western Airlines. His only regret is that he can't return to his native England to live. There is someone dear to his heart in California and he won't leave her. Who is this fascinating woman? His eight-year-old daughter Jennifer (from his marriage to Dyan Cannon, with whom he is still battling for custody rights). What about remarriage? With five marriages behind him, Cary says he is in no hurry to take that step again. Sorry, girls.

Boxing, the "harmless" sport: A report just published in England provides fresh ammunition for those who want to see professional boxing banned. The study provided conclusive evidence that extensive cerebral damage can be incurred from repeated blows to the head. Dr. J. A. Nicholas Corsellis, who headed the British Medical Association research team, concedes that the brutal heyday of boxing is behind us, but he warns that all risks have not yet been eliminated. "I will never allow my 14-year-old son to don boxing gloves," he says. "A single, or even many punches to the head, need not visibly alter the structure of the brain, but there is still the danger that at any moment and for any reason, one or more blows to the head will cause the destruction of irreplaceable cerebral tissue."

A woman's best defense against rape? "Rape may seem about as bad as anything that can happen to you, but it is not as bad as being born blind, being maimed or killed," says Frederic Storaska, author of "How to Say No to a Rapist—and Survive." Mr. Storaska hopes to shed new light on the rape problem by erasing the myths surrounding it and reducing the fear associated with it to a manageable level. He devotes all his time to lecturing at campuses across the country and recently made a movie with the Learning Corporation of America as part of his rape-prevention program. How can you avoid rape? Use a little psychology. Try talking to a would-be rapist as you would to anyone, but above all don't lose your composure. "Rape is often a humiliation of the woman in order to enhance the rapist's ego. It is not simply sexual aggression," Storaska concludes. He believes that the frequently suggested methods of self-defense (tear-gas pens, martial arts, screaming for help) are actually the most harmful because they tend to increase the assailant's anger or perhaps even excite him further.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

CAT NIPPED

Our cat is always leaving fur
On chairs and sofas. We demur
And wish it picked the floor for sleeping
Instead of always upward leaping.

Our cat claws chair legs, also draperies,
As well as tablecloths and naperies.
Our cat wants in and then wants out,
It's underfoot when it's about.

Thus what I really do not know
Is how it makes us love it so.
I guess it's just that each meow
Is followed by a purr—that's how.
